Drilling Another Well.

The Reynoldsville Water Company is having another deep well drilled near the nump house to be used for supplying the town with water. This will make the third well the company has had drilled. The water supply is low now and during the cold weather the people waste a large amount of water by leaving spigots open to keep the pipes from freezing, consequently part of the time the water is shut off.

Ready for Holiday Trade,

Good Concert.

The entertainment given in Assembly hall last Thursday evening by Nellie Peck Saunders Concert Company, the second number of the public school ecture course, was a very good entertainment, and evidently pleased the large audience present. Mrs. Saunders, the reader, possesses rare ability. She read with expression and great clearness, and her work was much eujoved. The playing of Miss Edna Crum, the violinist, was of a high artistic order. Competent judges say she is one of the finest violinists ever heard in Revnoldsville. She rendered her selections in a manner which showed the mastery she has over the violin. The baritone singer was "nothing to brag about."

Dialect Rehearsal.

As it has been announced, the men bers of the Sub-Junior class of the High School will give a dialect rehearsal in Assembly hall Friday evening of this week. Recitations in German, Negro, Irish and Yankee dialects will be given. Nine members of the class have prepar ed selections for the program, seven girls and two boys. The names of those who will take part are Jessie Campbell, Lucille Deible, Lens Herpel, Aldie Means, Joanne Milliren, Iva Moore, Mildred Sutter, Jesse Hirst and Bert Hoffman. Music will be furnished by a class of girls, a boys' quartet and the Reynoldsville orchestra. Twenty-five cents will be charged for reserved seat tickets. The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to one of the needs of the public schools.

SENTENCED TO BE HUNG.

Cefali Not Granted a New Trial-Death Sentence Pronounced Monday.

It was stated in THE STAR last week bat the attorneys for Francesco Cefall, be Italian who was convicted of murder at November term of court, had asked for a new trial and that Judge Reed vould hear the lawyers on Monday of this week and if a new trial was not granted would pronounce sentence on Cefali. Judge Reed would not grant a new trial and Cefall was sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead. Governor Pennypacker will set the date for the execution. The crime for which Cefall will be panged was committed at Sykesville September 24, 1904, when he murdered a fellow countryman. This will be the third Italian executed in this country within a year.

Gave Officer a Chase,

A Butler county constable came Brookville Saturday looking for an talian who was wanted in Butler county for selling liquor without license. The Italian was located Sunday and Deputy Sheriff Britton was given the varrant, as the Italian knew the constable. When the deputy called at the house the Ike offered leg bail by skipping out of the back door and Deputy Britton started after him. It was a ong and somewhat exciting chase. They crossed the creek twice on the ice. but when near the shore the second time the ice gave way with the Italian and he dropped into the cold water above the knees and was then easily eaught by Deputy Britton. The Italian had a razor in his hand when Mr. Britton came up to him and he said, "Me shoot."

County Institute.

The Jefferson county school teachers' nstitute to be held in the Belvedere opera house at Brookville next week will certainly be an interesting and profitable institute, as able day instructors and evening entertainers have been engaged for this institute, as published in THE STAR last week. Our worthy and efficient county superintendent, Prof. R. B. Teitrick, deserves credit and praise for the good work done in the school of the county since he has been superintendent and for the high plane to which he has raised the county

Editor THE STAR, Dear Sir:-I noticed in last week's STAR that the public school exercises were partly conducted by Rev. J. A. Parsons and comment made that his address was timely, &c. Well; it might have been good, but I think the Rev. was entirely out of place. As we are taxed for the support of our public schools irrespective of our religious deas, they should be non-sectarian, as they are supposed to be. For any preacher, rabbl or priest to conduct exercises there, or try to disseminate their relig lous ideas there, I think is an injustice to and an imposition on those taxpaverthat differ from them on religious maters. What is considered the right thing by the Jew will not be approved by the Christian in all cases. What pleases the infidel will displease the believer. The Protestant does not want Catholic doctrines rubbed in on him or his children. Nor do we want our public schools used by any sect, ism or cism to propogate their respective ideas but to be non-sectarian in the fulles sense. Any denomination wanting religious instructions given do as we de establish private schools where they can make "timely" addresses and emphasize their "necessities" to their

any one. A CATHOLIC TAXPAYER.

The Record Stock Company, that ha played four nights in the Reynolds opera house to large audiences, will close their engagement to-night with Sunset Mines, " a thrilling play. The company was only booked for three nights here and expected to play the first three nights of this week in Barnesboro, but on account of bursting of steam pipes in the Barnesboro opera house the company could not show there this week, leaving three open nights. The company was well patronized here, on account of being a first class company, and the manager decided to play here Monday and Wednesday nights of this week, and would have played last night had not the opera house been previously engaged for moving picture show.

Miss Cora Lawton Mitchell is the eading lady in the company. "A Woman's Revenge" was played the first night and was repeated on Monday night by request, "John Martin's Secret" Friday night, "A Woman's Honor" Saturday night and "Sunset Mines" to-night. Prices 10, 20 and 30 cents. Tickets on sale at Stoke's drug

The Record Stock Company will play at Punxsutawney all of next week.

"You never miss the water till the vell runs dry," but you miss it mighty end then as hundreds of people in this county are now testifying. Springs that never were dry before in sixty years have falled and water for ordinary house use is becoming a serious problem, to say nothing of water for stock, The oldest inhabitants of the county do not remember a season in which there was no rainfall up till this late in the fall. Should the present weather continue it will be the most remarkable winter that ever the people of this county saw. The wonder is that there is not more fever and sickness throughout the county, when most of the people are drinking water from springs and wells almost dry. We should not be sugarised if an epidemic follows this dry spell, and people should use every caution and boil all water that is suspected .-Clarion Republican.

REFEREE TOO OFFICIOUS. An Authority on Football Gave Decision in Favor of Reynoldeville.

Salph S. Kent, of Ithaca, N. Y., a Cornell authority on football, to whom the dispute in the game that was played in DuBols Nov. 3rd between the "Indian" football team of Reynoldsville and the Ridgway team was referred, has given a decision in favor of the Reynoldsville team. Will C. Smith, of Reynoldsville, was umpire and Mr. McClain, of Ridgway, was referee. Following is Mr. Kent's decision :

"Foot Ball Club, Reynoldsville, Pa.

Gentlemen:-"In reply to your communication of the 6th inst. will say, that each official n a football game has certain duties to perform, and only those given him under the rules. It is folly to interpret the rules so as to give the referee the power of the umpire in any way. One might as well say the umpire could insist on the referee making a ruling which he refused to make as to say the referee could insist on the umpire declaring a foul which he did not see, Each officer is absolute in his own field of duties. The referee can make no rulings, nor can be insist upon any being made, under rule 17. The enforcement of this rule is entirely within the umpire's province. The umpire can seek information, but a referee can not volunteer it, except on the point of coaching; and when asked for information, need not necessarily influence the umpire. The umpire can do absolutely as he pleases. The same as can the referee in his particular field. I should say, therefore, that the referee went beyond his official duties in dictating to the umpire. As to the forfeiture, rule 28 'C' gives just two grounds for forfeiting a game: refusal to play and committing fouls near the goal line. The first is probably relied upon in this instance. But since it was 'A' team that refused to play the game should have been forfeited to the 'B' team. A game is not forfeited if declared a draw. The one that forfeits must necessarily suffer something. If such rulings as this referee made should become the custom we would soon see the defeated team raising a rumpus so as to forfeit the game and not suffer defeat. One can easily see the death of the game when such a thing becomes possible Moreover, the referee, having once made the ruling that the touchdown was valid, should have at least allowed the score to stand. Generally when a game is forfeited by a team refusing to play the opposing team is given the game by the store of 6 to 0. When both teams are in fault the score is 0-0. But here in your case the 'B' team was not in the controversy. The dispute was colely between or among the 'A' team. the umpire and the referee. The referee had no right to declare the umpire at fault and also puniish 'B' team. The umpire alone could declare 'B' in fault, and since he did not do so the referee should have abided by his decision and called the game to go on. In the event of refusal he could only award the game to 'B' by any score he saw fit. But in my opinion he was not justified in calling it a draw. If 'B' had scored and he had already allowed the score. Hoping this will prove satisfactory to some of the disputants, I am" Yours truly,
