CIRCUS PERFORMERS. To them the circus is a very serious thing. When a bareback rider slips to the ground after a somersault or a lofty tumbler misses the shoulder it is his business to land on the audience as it sympathizes, and if feeling itself how it is to fall before so many people. Very little the performer cares for all the vast multitude. His mind is on the superintendent, his particular superintendent, who is watching him at the side of the arena, and who, when he goes off, is sure to ask very pointedly how his eye happened to be inaccurate or his muscles infirm. There is no place in the circus for performers who fail.

Even the clowns look a little bit serious behind the scenes. But perhaps that is only because the black lines they paint on their whitened visages are always so grim and solemn. And what a wilderness of fun making people there are in the latter day circuses—the Bumpkin, the Loon, the Harlequin, the Grimace, the Merry Andrew, the Austrian Looby, the Zany, the Pierrot, the Punch, the Motley Fool and finally the German Broad Face, whose name is Paddy Burke! One of the clowns was sitting on his trunk in the dressing room licking a stick of black paint and rubbing it on his cheeks so as to make a most funereal expression. The small boy asked him what kind of a clown he was. He said that he was just "funny, Friskey," and he got his visiting card out of his trunk. It read, "H. Friskey, Clown and Comedian."

TRUTH OR PARADOX? Life levels all men; death reveals the eminent. Liberty means responsibility. That is why most men dread it.

TRUTH OR PARADOX? While we have prisons it matters little which of us occupy the cells. Titles distinguish the mediocre, embarrass the superior and are disgraced by the inferior.

Puzzled by the Law. The librarian of the Congressional library tells a story of a colored man who came into the library and asked one of the assistants for a "good law book." He explained that one of his neighbors intended to sue him and he wanted to get a book so he could find out the law.

The Tools of Genius. Some of the greatest discoveries in physics and chemistry have been made with the simplest forms of apparatus and under the most modest conditions and under the most modest conditions.

A False Report. "I have been told," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "that your daughter has been doing some wonderful things in pyrography."

Success Prolongs Life. It is now well known that increased complexity of life with increased expenditure distinctly aids longevity. Luxury, "the fertile parent of a whole family of diseases," modifies it greatly, of course, but this is a manageable factor, says the London Chronicle.

No Notion of Real Trouble. "I bet I get into more trouble than any man in this state," volunteered the young fellow who had come in the clubhouse. "Nothing in the trouble line overlooks me. Why, I'd be afraid to marry."

ANIMALS' WANDERINGS. Country Mouse and Town Mouse Fable Has Foundation in Fact. The fable of the country mouse and the town mouse has a foundation in fact. Mice occasionally migrate in large numbers when food grows scarce and travel considerable distances to fresh houses. Farmers in a part of Perthshire had a good reason to become aware of this fact when a couple of years ago vast swarms of mice invaded their cornfields at harvest time.

Reindeer migrate with the same regularity as swallows. They move south when winter sets in, but as soon as ever the snow begins to melt they travel steadily north, sometimes for as much as a thousand miles. To end a holiday by deliberate suicide is so strange a phenomenon that for a long time naturalists looked upon the stories of the migration of the lemmings as an improbable fiction. Yet the facts are beyond dispute. At irregular intervals these ratlike creatures start out from their haunts in the fastnesses of northern Scandinavia in huge droves numbering tens of thousands and travel steadily southward. Death pursues them in a hundred forms. Hawks and other birds of prey hover above them. Thousands are drowned in rivers. They reach the sea, they do not stop, they plunge in, swim out and struggle on until at last their strength fails and they drown. Not one ever returns from this Journey of death.—London Answers.

COTTON IN A FABRIC. How to Tell if Worsted or Woolen Cloths Are Adulterated. Worsted cloths are less often adulterated than woolens and are more easily detected. A cotton worsted is a lie on the face of it, for the cotton stands out with prominence. But often a cotton thread is twisted with a worsted thread, and to determine its presence it is only necessary to take the twist out of the thread and then examine its component parts.
