Rea remarked to be permitted to make a remark or two. He cordially invited all to remain and about 125 partook of the refreshments. Before leaving the auditorium for their homes, Rev. I. S. Hankins, of DuBois, who is assisting Dr. Meek this week, called the people to order and in a neat address, in which he complimented pastor and people on the fifth anniversary of the pastorate of Dr. Meek, on behalf of the ladies, presented him with a well filled purse. Dr. Meek expressed his heartfelt and sincere thanks and reviewed briefly the train of circumstances which led him to accept the call and come to our town. Blaze Caught on Roof—Considerable Damage by Water.

There was more damage done to building and furniture by water than there was to the building by fire. The entire loss to Proprietor W. W. Wiley on damaged furniture and M. About twenty persons were present from Rathmel. They all enjoyed themselves in conversation and music and at about 11 o'clock refreshments were served. At 11:15 Rev. J. E. A CONSERVATORY OF VERY GREAT VALUE.

A Visitor to Hon. S. B. Elliott's Paradise of Beautiful Plants and Flowers Describes its Wonders.

There is being maintained in our town at the private expense of one of our worthy citizens an enterprise that should commend itself to every right thinking man and woman in this community. We refer to the conservatory of the Hon. S. B. Elliott. Very few realize what is to be found in this conservatory unless they pay it a visit and study its contents. On Washington's Birthday it was my pleasure to walk through this paradise of beauty in company with his owner and to converse with the varieties of plants and flowers it contains. One of the things which attracted my attention was a small lemon tree with its bending branches holding three immense lemons. They were so large that my curiosity was aroused to measure their circumferences. The largest measured 15 1/2 inches equatorial circumference and 15 1/2 inches from stem to blossom; the second measured 14 1/2 and 14 1/2 inches; the third 14 and 14 1/2 inches. I very much doubt if larger lemons can be found in any conservatory in Pennsylvania. The tree is 3 or 4 years old and is 2 1/2 feet high and 4 feet across and in addition to the three huge lemons mentioned it contains 114 buds for more of the same kind. Here are to be seen banana plants with all the vigor of the southern climate, cala lilies, thirty varieties of ferns, ten varieties of palms, three varieties of rubber plant, such as Mexico produces and from which we get our rubber goods. One of the most beautiful plants is the screw pine, standing 9 feet high and 10 feet across. In this conservatory is to be seen blooming azaleas, carnations, geraniums, cinerarias and various other kinds of plants and flowers. The conservatory consists of three glass covered buildings and are in a good beautiful state. Notwithstanding the severe winter not one plant or flower was frozen. Any of our citizens, lady or gentleman, will always be a welcome visitor to this conservatory and will be richly paid for the time in walking through and closely examining its contents. A. J. MEER.

Two Important Bills.
 Among the bills introduced in the State Legislature are two which will be watched with considerable interest by the public as well as by those most directly interested in the disposition of the bills. One is to compel barbers to register. This bill was introduced by Dr. Campbell, of McKean county. By the bill it is made illegal for anyone to practice the trade of a barber without having secured a proper certificate. A board of examiners is appointed by the Governor, who in conjunction with the State Board of Health will prescribe proper sanitary rules for barber shops. The other bill is for the protection of miners in case of accident. It was introduced by Jefferson county's representative, Hon. S. Taylor North, and in referring to the measure the Harrisburg Star-Independent says: "If a bill introduced in the House this morning by Mr. North, of Jefferson, should become a law, probably every miner in the State will eventually rise up and call him blessed, for it provides for confining air to workers imprisoned in subterranean excavations in case of accident. In all pits which shall be started for the purpose of mining coal or clay after January 1, 1906, when twenty or more persons shall be employed therein, the owners must run pipes not less than six inches in diameter beneath the floors of all tunnels. Pipes not less than four inches in diameter are to be run beneath the floors of all passages. These pipes must connect with a main tub and open into the various headings. While the primary purpose of the bill is the humane one of supplying pure air to imprisoned workmen, the tubes will also be used as a means of hasty communication, or as a means of transporting water in case of fire. Mine foremen must inspect the workings of the tubes and see that the entire system is in proper shape. Inspections must be conducted at intervals of not less than seven days, neglect to do so on the part of the foremen being a misdemeanor. The punishment will be a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or imprisonment of not more than ninety days, or both.—Punxsutawney News."
