bonic oxide, several ammonias and a very poisonous oil containing nicotine. The ammonias and nicotine are the substances which by acting in numerous directions are so injurious to the system. The ammonias act on the blood, making it alkaline and fluid, thereby impairing its nutritive property.

The stomach is debilitated and dyspepsia induced. The innervation of the heart is disturbed, its action is weak, irregular and intermittent, and faintness and vertigo are the consequences.

Owing to the disturbances in the blood and heart the process of nutrition is slow, and in the young seriously affected tissue is paralyzed and vlsion is impaired. Tobacco is essentially a functional rather than an organic poison. It modifies the special energies and not the structure. Tobacco is eliminated by the kidneys and very rapidly; conse quently the bad effects quickly disappear under proper treatment if, however, the habit is given up.

brothers in arms. He slowly rose up and faced his captors. They smiled amiably, and, reassured, he pulled off his cap and commenced to fan himself with it. Now, it is a common custom for a Japanese soldier to carry about with him in the hot weather a small fan. On this occasion a fan was forthcoming and handed to the Russian, but he refused to take it, preferring to use his cap. Still, with an amiable smile on his face, one of the Japanese again proffered him the rejected fan, at the same time covering him with a re volver. The captive took the gift without further reluctance.-From Brindle's

The Larkspur.

'With Russians and Japanese.'

Great vigilance has to be exercised by the antiquarian painter. This was demonstrated by Sir Laurence Alma-Tadema's picture "The Finding of Moses." Looking at the picture, a well known botanist examined with admiration the painting of the lifelike larkspurs which form the foreground, and then, turning toward the artist and congratulating him on the successful rendering, pointed out that larkspurs were of a comparatively recent growth. The painter laughed as he replied, "So I thought, until dried specimens of them were discovered in some of the

A LIVING NET. Peculiar Method of Fishing Used by Natives of Oceania.

A peculiar method of fishing is indulged in by the natives of Tetulla, one of the islands of Oceania. At a given signal the inhabitants of the village assemble on the seashore to the number of about 200 persons, each of whom carries a branch of cocoa palm. With these in their hands they plunge into the water, and at a certain distance from the shore turn to ward it, forming a compact half circle, each one holding his palm branch perpendicularly in the water, and thus forming a sleve. The leader of the party then gives a signal, and this living net approaches the shore gradually in perfect order, driving before it a multitude of fishes, Surrounded by this living wall and entangled in the cocoa paim branches many of the fishes are cast on the sand by the waves, while others are killed with sticks. After being cooked over hot coals the fish are served with bananas and cocoanut milk.

The scene as described by a French man who visited the island was interesting and picturesque in the extreme, the effect being immensely heightened by the appearance of the natives, whose costume consists of a short tunic of seaweed or leaves. Their hair is powdered with chalk, while the warriors are distinguished by the hair being powdered red. Wreaths of gardenias or red hibiscus are worn on their heads, also round their necks.

AN EXPERT ON LYING.

He Was Allowed to Testify In Court and Won the Case.

Kansas City lawyer tells of the use of expert testimony on lying. He BHJ'HI

"I was prosecuting attorney for Finney county in 1881, and had a fellow up before Squire N. C. Jones on the charge of horse stealing. He hired Mike Sutton to defend him, and when the case was called I proved beyond question by a witness who witnessed the theft that we had the right man. After the prosecution had rested Sutton introduced 'Buffalo' Jones as a witness and gravely informed the court that he intended to prove by him that my witness had lied. 'Buffalo' took the stand and swore that, while he had never seen or heard of the witness before and knew nothing at all about the crime committed, he had had a great deal of experience with men and could tell pretty certain when they were lying. Then he proceeded to tell how men acted when they were lying, and gave the expert opinion that my witness had sworn to lies from the word go. I protested against such performances, but Sutton made the judge believe he had as much right to introduce an expert on llars as he would have to introduce an expert on medicine or any other science, and the re

LIFE IN JAVA.

Star.

The Natives Are Grave and Mainly Live and Eat in Public.

The Javans live much in public, and the poorer classes, instead of eating their meals at home, as is the mannet of the unsociable Hindoo, seem usually to breakfast and dine at one or the itinerant cookshops to be found at every street corner. More exclusive people may be seen buying the small packets of curry and rice wrapped in fresh plantain leaves and pinned with bamboo splinters, which are intended for home consumption.

To stroll down a village street and watch the culinary operations in progress at wayside eating shops was an unfailing source of amusement, and very clean and appetizing they looked, though the smell was occasionally somewhat trying to the European nose. The Javans, like all rice eating people, are fond of pungent and evil smelling sauces, and equivalents of the Burman guapee and Japanese bean soy are in constant requisition.

The natives, and especially the children, look fat and healthy and appear to enjoy life under easy conditions, though they are, generally speaking, of grave demeanor and are not endowed with the unfailing vivacity which distinguishes the Burmans and Japanese, During the six weeks that we spent in the island we did not see half a dozen beggars and, except in cities, certainly not that number of policemen .-- Pear son's.

THE VEILED PROPHET.

He Was the Most Noted Impostor of the Middle Ages.

The celebrated "veiled prophet" of history was a Moslem fanatic whose real name was Haken Ibn Hashem. He was born about the middle of the eighth century and became the most noted impostor of the middle ages. He pretended that he was an embodiment of the spirit of the "living God" and, being very proficient in jugglery (which the ignorant mistook for the power to work miracles), soon drew an immense number of followers around him. He always wore a gold mask, claiming that he did so to protect the mortals of this earth, who, he said, could not look upon his face and live.

At last, after thousands had quitted the city and even left the employ of the Caliph al Mohdi to join the fanatical movement, an army was sent against the "velled prophet," forcing him to flee for safety to the castle at Keh, north of the Oxus. Finally, when ultimate defeat was certain, the prophet killed and burned his whole family and then threw himself into the flames, being entirely consumed except his hair, which was kept in a museum at Bagdad until the time of the cru sades. He promised his faithful followers that he would reappear to them in the future dressed in white and riding a white horse.

FABLE OF THE PANSY.

PITIABLE IMPROVIDENCE.

The Way Money is Wasted Through Ignorance of Food Values.

Examples of glaring ignorance of food values may well be culled from the notes of those experts who have visited the poor of the different citles In the slums of Chicago it was found that a woman whose husband was out of work and whose family was living on a few cents a day bought lettuce, : food so innutritious that, at least when out of season and high in price, it is a luxury even for the rich. This woman sacrificed the inexpensive but nutritious classes of foods for leaves containing over 80 per cent of water and 15 per cent of refuse. It has been truthfully said that a man would starve to death on a diet of lettuce filone Pitiable improvidence was found in the New York slums. A watchman was feeding his family at the rate of 14 cents per person a day-all that he could afford-yet his wife bought expensive cuts of beef instead of the equally nutritious cuts of lower price; also large mantities of butter whose value might have been invested in dried beans and more bread. She also wasted money on soda crackers and jumbles costing two or three times as much as bread and containing no more nutrition. It was estimated that his wife might have obtained about eight times as much nutrition for her moncy had she substituted dried peas for green peas. Another large saving would have been the substitution of fresh for condensed milk .- John E. Watkins in Reader Massizine

THEY WERE GLUTTONS.

The Gormands of the Eighteenth Contury In England.

Plenty was the watchword of the eighteenth century gormand in England. His tables groaned under an array of food warranted to take away the appetite of all save the Gargantuns of the day. One blessing was evolved from the old sops and the later bisques and olios-soup, which now was ever the prelude to the dinner. It was removed for meat or fish-a chine of mutton and three ducks in the case of Squire Hill at Teddington, who, for entrees to support them, offered pullets with eggs, fillet of beef and scollops, turkey en daube, stewed carp, veal a la royale, fricasseed chicken. with ham and pigeons for center dish This was but the first course or relay Next came the roasts-two pheasants and four partridges and six teal, and now, for side dishes, sweetbreads and marrow, four woodcock and ten snipe, salmon and smelts, marrow pudding, fore quarter of lamb and oyster loaves. For center dish, mince ples. And men ate and survived, and still had heart within them to wait the removal of the cloth, and, greeting the dessert, sat over the mahogany until indeed they fell beneath it. After all, gormand in not the name for such as these. They were gluttons.

A VAST STONY WRECK. The North Cape, In Norway, Is Almost the World's End

The North cape, Norway, is not quite the most northerly land in Europe, but it is far enough north, a dismal black point jutting out into the sea nearly a thousand feet high. Leading to the top is a rough path not difficult to ascend unless it be wet and slippery.

Magazine.

From the top to the edge of the cliff is a half mile or more of hard walking over stones or through mire.

At last we come to the edge of the cliff. The sun, though it is nearly 12 o'clock, has almost reached the lowest edge of his daily path, but is still far above the shimmering sea. You stand on that lonely point feeling, except for the presence of those around you, that you are quite out of the world in which you have hitherto spent your life. You stand without on a rock pelted by every storm of wind and snow. Attacked the fiery summer sun and pitiless by winter frost, no wonder that neither tree nor shrub nor scarce a flower can exist. Among the most solemn places on the globe it must be reckoned the world's end, a vast stony wreck projecting above the wide waste of waters .- Albert L. Bolls in Booklovers

The Tearkerchief.

In some parts of the Tyrol a beautiful though curious custom prevalis. When a girl is going to be married and just before she leaves for the church her mother gives her a handkerchief, which is called a tearkerchief. It is made of newly spun and unused linen, and with it the girl dries the natural tears she sheds on leaving home. The tearkerchief is never used after the marriage day, but is folded up and placed in the linen closet, where it remains till its owner's death, when it is taken from its place and spread over her dead face.

Know Your Own Mind.

The great majority of people need bracing up all the time. They want to be reassured. They do not know their own minds. They are not sure of themselves. The leader, the man who can rule others, must be master of this art. Encouragement is to many men what flattery is to some women.

The Family of Six That is Contained In the Flower.

A pretty fable about the pansy is current among French and German children. The flower has five petals and five sepals. In most pansies, especially of the earlier and less highly developed varieties, two of the petals are plain in color and three are gay. The two plain petals have a single sepal, two of the gay petals have a sepal each, and the third, which is the largest of all, has two sepals.

The fable is that the pansy represents a family consisting of husband and wife and four daughters, two of the latter being stepchildren of the wife. The plain petals are the stepchildren, with only one chair; the two small, gay petals are the daughters, with a chair each, and the large, gay petal is the wife, with two chairs.

To find the father one must strip away the petals until the stamens and pistils are bare. They have a fanciful resemblance to an old man, with a flannel wrap about his neck, his shoulders upraised and his feet in a bath tub. The story is probably of French origin, because the French call the pansy the stepmother.

Sunlight and Eyesight.

Sunlight as distinct from sun heat is of benefit to human eyes. Unless refracted from white cliffs or stretches of sand or by other means, it does not cause any impairment of vision. It is the natural provision of the sense of sight and is in harmony with the natural period for work and pleasurethat is, the day. So soon as we introduce artificial light we deal with that which needs caution. A dim light injures vision because the eye alters its shape to receive the feeble rays. On the other hand, a strong artificial light will produce inflammation of the eye surface and worse.

Nero's Appearance.

In his youth Nero was remarkably handsome, but early in manhood his habits of dissipation made him exceedingly corpulent. To judge from his medals and the descriptions left of him he must have weighed over 200 pounds. His features were regular, but his eyes were so protuberant as to be almost a deformity, and he was nearsighted, so much so that he could not recognize his acquaintances across the street.

Stevenson's Love Toast.

A beautiful testimony to one's home loves was paid by Robert Louis Stevenson at a thanksgiving dinner in Samoa.

"There, on my right," said Stevenson, replying to an unexpected proposal of "The Host," "sits she who has but lately from our own loved native land come back to me-she whom, with no lessening of affection to those others to whom I cling, I love better than all the world besides-my mother. From the opposite end of the table, my wife, who has been all in all to me. when the days were very dark, looks tonight into my eyes-while we have both grown a bit older-with undimin ished and undiminishable affection."

Which Won the Prize?

Three students of the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Marseilles, were talking in a cafe. "My dear fellow," said one, "I painted the other day a little piece of pine wood in imitation of marble so perfectly that it sank to the bottom of the water." "Pooh," said another. "Yesterday I suspended my thermometer on the easel that holds my 'View of the Polar Regions.' It fell at once to 20 below zero."

"That's nothing," said the last. "My portrait of the marquis is so lifelike that it has to be shaved twice a week.'

How Flies Walk on Window Panes. The microscope reveals the neat contrivance which enables a fly to walk up a w sdow pane or defy the laws of gravi y by gliding along, back downward on the celling. The magnifier shows the foot to be made up of two pads covered with fine, short hair, each pad having a hook above it. Behind each pad is a bag filled with a sticky liquid which oozes out whenever the fly puts his foot down. The amount which is pressed out of each foot is very small indeed, but, taken all together, it is amply sufficient to hold the insect in any position he chooses.

His Own Great Foolishness.

Nordy-Your wife seems to think you'll get bunkoed if she lets you out of her sight. You must have once done something very foolish to have a woman looking after you like that. Butts-I did. I married her.-Louis ville Courier-Journal.
