Animal Fur. Fur is a threadlike fiber which grows out of the pores of the skins of animals. It grows in length from the root and not from the top, as with vegetable productions. The lower portion merely lengthens out, and the top projects forward consequently if once cut it will always remain blunt. It is tubular and filled with oll, which gives to the fiber its color. In addition to the oil it contains mineral matter, among which are sulphur and iron. A close examination of the fiber will, to a certain extent. show the section of the country the animal inhabits. The short and erlsp, with an oval or angular cross section, indicates tropical growth; the long and soft, with circular cross section, a northern climate. The fibers from different parts of the same animal have a different structure and value, that which is taken from the back of a land animal being the finest, while the reverse is true of the animal which confines itself mostly to water, the bally being much finer than the back. Simplicity of Jenny Lind, Jenny Lind must have be a the most sample, unpretending primm donna that ever lived. When she first came to England she was bound to sing only at the Royal Italian Opera House, and when commanded to slig at the queen's concert she was obliged to refuse. Very sorry to be compelled to notify this, she ordered her carriage and drove straight to Buckingham palnce. She handed her card to an official, who, not unnaturally, declined to take if. A higher authority happened to pass and took it upon himself to present it. As soon as her majesty saw R she said, "Admit her by all means." Jenny Lind appeared and said simply that she was to very sorry to be unable to sing at her majesty's concert that she thought it better to call herself and explain. The queen was charmed with her natural manner, gave her a cordial reception and promised to be her friend,-London Globe.

A Victors Leiter Writer. The famous Dr. Andrew Boll had a wife who, after exhausting all her ingenuity in making him miserable, finally left him. She firen begin writing him long betters filled with personal abuse and when she found he did not take the teophic to open them took to abuiding him on the envelope. One she addressed, "To that supreme of rogues, who looks the hangdog that he is, Dr (such a doctor!) Andrew Bell." Another was thus pleasingly insertibud; "To that ape of apes and knave of knaves, Dr. Andrew Bell, who is recorded to have once prid a debt, but a small one you may be sure it was that he selected for this wonderful experiment-in fact, it was fourgence ha'penny. Had It been on the other side of sixpence he must have died before he could nehlevo so dreadful a sacrifice."-Lou

The Piace For HIm. "Notwithstanding what you say about Kraftle," said Goodart, "he seems to be a loyal fellow. He appears to keep In with his friends," "He should be kept in with them, replied Crabbe. "Most of his friends are in jail."-Philadelphia Ledger.

Why the Change Did Not Please the Original Artist.

An artist was talking about the noted German painter Adolf von Menzel.

"Von Menzel," he said, "painted the clearest and most distinct of pictures. Everything with him was worked out to the last hair. Nothing was ever suggested. With suggested, sketchy, impressionistic pictures he had no sympathy. He was called the Meissonier of Germany.

"In a discussion of a certain impressionist's vague, unintelligible work I once heard Von Menzel say: "This man Markheim sold to the Countess X, two years ago one of his landscapes. The countess after she had had the landscape a few weeks tired of it, and to another artist who dined with her one night she said:

"....1 think the new picture that Herr Markheim sold me lacks animation. It needs life in it. Would you be willing to paint for me a man or woman on that road that runs through the middlei

""""Why, surely, madam." said the second painter. And he took the pleture home with him, made the addition and returned it the next morning.

" Later, meeting Markheim, he said; """I had the audacity to alter a landscape of yours the other day, It was the landscape you sold the Countess X. She wanted a figure in it, and to oblige her I painted an old peasant walking down the road." " "Markheim frowned,

"" "The road?" he said. "The road? I don't remember any road in that picture."

"""Oh, yes, there is a road," said the other.

"" "I can't recall it." said Markhoim. "Finally, to settle the matter, they went to the house of the countess and stood before the pleture.

"""There," said Markbelm's brother artist-"there is your road, and there is my old peasant walking down it."

""Fool," Markheim erled, "what have you done? That is not a road in the center of my work. It is a river." * "-San Francisco News-Letter.

THE GROUND CUCKOO.

Remarkable Consists It Displays In Catching Rattlers.

One of the most interesting zoological addities is the California ground cuckoo. He usually is from twenty to twenty-five inches long, including his tail, which measures one-half of his whole length. On account of his small wings he is a poor flier, but what he incks in aerial dexterity he makes up In prelestrian velocity. With his four yard jumps he can outrun the swiftest race horse. His geographical range is confined to southern California. Mexico and some parts of Texas. As a bird of prey the ground cuckoo outwits his most avidious fellow creatures. Snails and large worms constitute his principal food, which, he is busy all day in digging out of the ground. But he does not hesitate to attack larger animals. It is no trouble for him to get the better of small snakes, and when domesticated he beats any cat or dog in the extermination of mice and small house pests.

Most curiously interesting is the drategic sugarity no displays in the capture of large rattlesnakes. These he dare not meet in fair and open omiliat. As soon as he exples a rattleruke sleeping in the sun near a caca herize her aurrounds his victim with heap of the prickly leaves until he is well betained in. He then pricks at the reptile a few times with his surp bill, which causes a sudden con motion in the cactus heap. In his attempt to diantangle him off from the leaves he worm is his tend of flesh, and It takes but an hour or two for the average rattler to die of sheer exhaustion and furnish a much covered tidbit for the sly cuckoo. His methed with his prey resembles that of the cat with the mouse. Influence of Red Hair. "There never has been an important revolutionary movement without a red haired person intimately concerned, if not the leader," says a writer. "Nearly all the great reformers or founders of religions had red hair. History mentions that Mohammed was a red haired man. King David was ruddy. Louis XIV, was a sandy haired man, with many of the characteristic peculiarities of the type. Cleopatra is called 'the rad haired (Greek.' Mary, queen of Scots, and red halt, and Prince Charles resembled her in coloring. Lucrezia Borgia looks in her portraits somewhat autiurn. Queen Elizabeth was of decidedly red coloring, which will suit both her admirers and her detractors."

THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE. Some Facts Concerning It That Are

Not Generally Known. Though every schoolboy presumably knows to a nicety where the Cape of Good Hope is situated, there does undoubtedly prevail in less enlightened circles some vagueness of conception as to the exact locality of that cele brated headland. Even the gentle reader is faintly conscious of uncertainty and answers with a briskness not born of conviction: "The Cape of Good Hope? Why, of course I know where it is. Down at the end of South Africa." Gentle reader, you are not very far out, fifty or a hundred miles perhaps. And, as you say, it is not of the slightest consequence from a practical point of view

The Cape of Good Hope lies at a considerable distance from the end and is, in fact, the middle of the three promontories, severally inconspicuous, which jointly terminate a slender peninsula, some twenty miles in length, forming the barrier between False bay and the Atlantic ocean on the west. These three headlands, lying near together and commonly undivided on a map of moderate scale, are locally designated Cape Point. It was here that Bartholomew Diaz first encountered in full force the prevalent southeasterly gales and denounted the rugged, threatening, threefold promontory under the sounding appellation of the Cape of Storms, to be afterward rechristened by pious, trustful hearts the Cape of Good Hope. The Cape of Storms, the Cape of Good Hope, Cape Farewell! Is there nothing in a name?

Overworking a Typewriter.

"When a typewriter has been operated for several hours at a stretch it becomes a center of electrical phenomena," remarked a stenographer. "Touch it with something metallic and you will get a distinct shock. At the same time there will be a crackling sound and a spark will appear at the point of contact. If another person than the one who has been operating it should begin to pound the keyboard after the machine has been in continuous use for a couple of hours he will experience a real electrical sensation, the pins-and-needles feeling of a foot asleep. Drawing the sheet of paper off the roller rapidly will charge the paper. and it will crackle when laid on other paper. It will also adhere to the other sheets or to any surface with which it comes in confact and quite a little tug is necessary to loosen it. A long worked typewriter seems to become an electrical plant on a small scale and will furnish all sorts of surprises."-St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Odd Geographical Division.

The range of the Blue Ridge moun tains in Pennsylvania is divided by a river every twenty-seven miles, as follows: From the Susquehanna to the Swatara, 27 miles; from the Swatara to the Schuylkill, 27 miles; from the Schuvlkill to the Lehigh, 27 miles; from the Lehigh to the Delaware, 27 miles, At the next 27 miles is a hollow of New Jersey in which nestles a lake known as Culver's pond.

"Yes, ma'am, I can," replied the boy at the foot of the class. "He was the fellow what done the housework for Robinson Crusoe."
