We can't belp seeing certain things as we go along. We see well-meaning husbands who never think of praising the good wife's biscuits or pies, and the excellent order and cleanliness of the home; and yet, they are very quick to blame the partner of their joys and sorrows if anything goes wrong, wears out or breaks. Of course, they don't mean it; it is just their way. Drowned at Ashtola. Raymond Butler, step-son of F. P. Strickland, formerly of Hopkins, was drowned at Ashtola, Pa., on Tuesday morning, July 18th. He fell into the water and was not able to swim. Raymond was twenty years old. He was a member of the P. O. S. of A. Camp of Reynoldsville. He was a very nice young man and had a number of friends in Reynoldsville who were sorry to hear that he had drowned. The body was buried at Howard, Centre Co.

Mrs. John Burtop Dead.

Mrs. John H. Burtop died at her ome in Beechwoods at 9.30 a. m. Sunday, July 23, 1905, after two years of intense suffering. Her maiden name was Laura B. Moore. She was born in Beechwoods July 6, 1872, and was 33 years old the 6th of this month. Mrs. Burtop is survived by her husband and two children, son and daughter. Funeral service was held at the family residence yesterday forenoon, conducted by Rev. Drake, and interment was made Beechwoods cemetery

Has Had "Hard Luck."

James S. Brisco, of South Bend, Ind., who travels over the country selling goods on the streets from a wagon, has been having "hard luck" since he came to Reynoldsville ten days ago. He had a slight stroke of paralysis several days after coming to town and has been unable to appear on the streets since. and last Saturday one of his valuable horses died. Mr. Brisco had a well matched and very attractive team of horses. He says he would rather have lost five one hundred dollar bills than to have lost his horse.

Month in Washington.

Rev. A. D. McKay, pastor of the Reynoldsville Presbyterian church, and family will spend a month in Washington, D. C. Mrs. McKay and children went to Pittsburg yesterday and Rev. McKay, who remained here to conduct funeral of Jay McGaw, will start for Washington this afternoon. His wife and children will meet him at Pittsburg. Rev. McKay will fill the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in Washington four Sundays in the absence of the regular pastor, Dr. D. C. MacLeod, an old friend and schoolmate. who is off on a trip to Europe.

Cefoli Paid the Penalty. At 10.13 a. m. yesterday Francesco Cefoli, who was convicted at last November term of court in this county of murder in the first degree, was executed at Brookville on the same scaffold that two other Italians were executed on within the past two years. This was Sheriff Curry's third banging during his term of office. Cefoli did not walk boldly out on scaffold as did the other two men hanged by Sheriff Curry, but had to be almost dragged out. Cefoli was convicted of murdering a fellow countryman near Sykesville September 25, 1905. The body of Cefoli was buried at Brookville.

Sunday School Picnic. The Methodist Sunday school and members of the congregation will hold a picnic at Wishaw Park to-morrow. Thursday. The first car will leave here promptly at 9.20 a, m. and there will be a car about every half hour after that during the forenoon. An excursion rate of ten cents for round trip has been given by the Jefferson Traction Co. Those who do not buy tickets will have to pay regular fare. Tickets will be on sale at Robinson & Mundorff's grocery, Star grocery store and Stauffer's grocery store. The last trolley car will leave the park at midnight for Reynoldsville.

Enjoyable Picnic.

About twenty-five Brookville people attended the picnic given at Wishaw Park on Friday afternoon of last week by husbands of the ladies of the Whittier Club, of Brookville, and the Utopia Club, of Reynoldsville. The gentlemen provided every thing for the picnic, without consulting their wives, prepared the tables and did the serving. The ladies did not know what the bill of fare was until they were invited to assemble around the tables. It was an elaborate feast. A picnic given by the men was something new and novel to the ladies and they were a trifle anxious and a little inquisitive about the natter. ed but it did not effect their appetite.

MARK JAY McGAW DIED MONDAY MORNING.

Tuberculosis Caused Untimely End of a Promising Young Man. Funeral To-day.

Mark Jay McGaw, oldest son of Ex-Postmaster E. T. McGaw, died at home of his parents on Jackson street at 1.25 a. m. Monday, July 24, 1905, in the same house where he was born March 21, 1884, making him 21 years, 4 months and 3 days old at time of death. Acute tuberculosis was cause of his death. Jay was a student in State College and had completed his second year's course in that college on Friday, June 9, and on Sunday, June 11, he became dangerously ill. A telegram was sent to his parents and the following morning Mr. McGaw went to State College and brought Jay home, arriving here Tuesday morning, June 13. Not anything that medical skill, trained nursing, loving parents and kind friends could do would stay the ravishings of the disease that had so insidiously and firmly fastened to his vitality, and in just six weeks from time the parents were informed of their son's illness he closed his eyes in death.

Jay McGaw was an honest, upright, christian young man, in fact was a model young man. He had no bad habits and was very studious. Two years ago last May he graduated with high bonor in the Reynoldsville high school. He decided to make electrical engineering his life work and in the fall of 1903 he went to State College and was a close student, and had his life been spared he would have been well equipped for electrical engineering work.

Jay McGaw joined the Presbyterian church about five years ago and was an active and consistent member. He was treasurer of the Christian Endeavor Society two or three terms and was librarian in the Sunday school four or five years. He made preparation for the Eternal Land while enjoying health and strength and when disease came and the pangs of death laid hold of him he was not afraid. At 10.30 Sunday night he offered a prayer and fell asleep and never awoke to consciousness again, but quietly and peacefully his life ebbed away and at 1.25 a. m. he quit breathing

Jay talked to his friends and loved ones about dying and frequently last Sunday said he was going home. During his illness be made a number of requests for song and prayer and at different times young people from Presbyterian and Methodist churches sang and prayed with him. Jay was a good boy in his home life and always obeyed his Funeral service will be held at the family residence at 10.00 a. m. to-day, conducted by Rev. A. D. McKay, and interment will be made in the Beechwoods cemetery.

The floral tribute was beautiful but we were unable to get a complete list of flowers and givers before going to press and decided to not publish that until next week. Jay loved flowers and the beautiful bouquets carried to him while he was living were very much appre clated by him.

Class Social.

Mrs. C. H. Rea delightfully entertained her class of the Reynoldsville Baptist Sunday school at her home about one and a half miles from Revnoldsville last Friday evening. The class consists of young ladies, nearly all of whom, with a number of their friends, were present. The table was spread on the lawn, which with a large space of the lawn was beautifully lighted and decorated with Japanese lanterns. The table decorations consisted of beautifully arranged ferns and sweet peas with a large center piece of the same flowers. The merry crowd began to gather about 7.30 and as soon as all had come a delicious luncheon, consisting of chicken, peanut sandwiches, pickles, olives, ice cream, cake, candy and ice tea, was served. The evening was a pleasant one and the young people all entered heartly into the festivities of the oc-Both out-door and indoor amusements were furnished, and all regretted when the time came to say

FRANKLIN AND CLEARFIELD R. R.

Construction Work to be Started Next Month and be Completed Early.

Construction of the Franklin and Clearfield railroad will be started by the Lake Shore, according to General Charles Miller, president of the road. A Pittsburger in close touch with the Vanderbilt projects received this information yesterday. Construction work is to be started next month, it is said. with a view of an early completion of the line. The idea of the Vanderbilts is to have the line serve as a connection between the Jefferson and Franklin division of the Lake Shore and the Beech Creek division of the New York Central; it will at the same time open up new coal, lumber and limestone terri tory which can be developed so as to make the road a revenue producer from freight originating in the country through which it will pass.

It was even reported vesterday that the contract for the construction of the road is to be awarded from the Cleve land offices of the Lake Shore to-mor row, and that the conditions of the contract will be immediate beginning of work. Much ne s property has been purchased along the proposed right of way of the line, for which surveys were made many months ago. It is possible that there will be some deviation from the route which was mapped out when the road was first projected. One route is via Brookville, Reynoldsville and Falls Creek to Clearfield, connecting with the Beech Creek branch of the New York Central. It is said however that this route may be discarded in favor of a line via Mill Creek, which will be followed to its headwaters, then to Falls Creek, leaving out Reynolds ville. The road will cross Venango. Clarion, Jefferson and Clearfield counties and will be from 75 to 90 miles long. The cost of the line will be consider able on account of the rough country through which the route will lie. Four ong tunnels, the estimated cost of which will be $100,000 per mile, must be built. and the rest of the construction will be similarly expensive. One of the longest tunnels will be at Brookville, near that of the Allegheny Valley. The cost of the line is estimated at from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000.—Pittsburg Leader July 23.

The Keystone Band.

In the late years of its existence the Keystone band has been inactive during the winter season. It is now proposed to keep this organization intact the vear around. Rehearsals to be held regularly, and in order to make this band a permanent fixture and to meet running expenses a schedule of amusements has been made to the public. Would ask the public to take pride in our band and assist them by attending these amusements. Also will say that should it be possible, the membership of the band will be increased to thirty The musicians can be secured if we can secure employment for them. By lending a helping hand to our amusements in the way of patronage it will be the means of keeping our band foremost in musical circles as it is to-day.
