Cut Your Fuel Bill in Two

IN an ordinary soft coal stove, half of the coal arises in gas and promptly goes up the chimney. When you remember that gas is itself fine fuel, being used in all the large cities for cooking, heating and lighting, you realize how much is saved if the gas doesn't escape, but is held in the stove and burned.

Notice in this picture of Cole's Hot Blast how the draft burns the coal from the top. It discharges a blast of highly heated air over and through the body of fuel, thus distilling the gas from the fuel, oxidizing and burning it before its escape up the chimney. That is why

Cole's Original Hot Blast Saves Half the Fuel

This patented Hot Blast Draft doesn't work in leaky stoves and that is one reason why imitations are failures.

It really makes $3 soft coal last as long and burn as nicely as $9 hard coal. This wonderful stove burns anything—hard coal, soft coal, wood, cobs, combustible rubbish—anything.

The greatest faller in America after looking over a Clothcraft suit and a Clothcraft overcoat brought to him for examination by one of his patrons, stated in positive terms that they were superior to any other ready-made garments he had ever seen.

He went even farther than that when he said that Clothcraft garments were as correct and as well-tailored as the best work of many well-known metropolitan tailors.

Clothcraft ideas, Clothcraft devices and Clothcraft machines have provided so many short cuts—accomplished such material savings—in the mechanical processes of clothes-building, that the Clothcrafters are able to turn out strictly all-wool clothing exclusively designed and beautifully tailored at prices within the reach of nearly everybody.

Probably you need an overcoat. The season's vogue calls for the double or single breasted belted style as shown in the illustrations. Both are popular.

They are beautifully hung—and made in black, oxford, fancy chevrons, scarves and cassimeres; ranging in price from $12 to $25.

Teachers' Institute.

The Jefferson County Teachers' Institute will be held in Brookville December 18th to 22nd. County Supt. R. B. Teitrick has engaged fine talent for day instructors and evening entertainers. The day instructors include the following array of talent: Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and President of the National Educational Association, Harrisburg, Pa.; Hon. O. T. Corson, ex-Commissioner of Education of Ohio and Editor Ohio Educational Monthly; Dr. George E. Vincent, Dean of Chautauqua Assembly and Principal of the Academic Department of the University of Chicago, who appears here for the first time; Dr. S. C. Schmucker, one of the ablest and most interesting Nature Study instructors engaged in institute work; Dr. J. George Becht, principal of the Clarion State Normal school; and the prince of all music instructors, Prof. Jerry March, of Philadelphia, head of the Norristown, Pa., Conservatory of Music and leader of the Bethany Sunday school, Philadelphia.

For the evening sessions art and oratory of the highest character are assured. The attractions are:

Monday evening, December 18th, William Hawley Smith, author and lecturer. Subject, "We, the People."

Tuesday evening, December 19th, The Leonora Jackson Concert Co., an aggregation of four artists, violinist, pianist, soprano and baritone, headed by Leonora Jackson, who returns from a triumphant three year tour of Europe, during which time she has appeared before crowned heads.

Wednesday evening, December 20th, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of the Plymouth church, Brooklyn. His subject will be "The Tragedy of the Ten Talent Men," from Homer and Socrates to Robert Burns and Abraham Lincoln.

Thursday evening, December 21st, The John Thomas Concert Company, an organization of gifted artists whose performance at the county institute several years ago gave such satisfaction that their return this year is in response to a general demand.

Outlook and Inspiration.

It is something to put the light and cheer, the broad outlook and the inspiration of a life intent on culture, into a busy, monotonous, hard-working and uninteresting career. The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle does this!

When one forgets the better and nobler things of life—high aims, dreams of self improvement, enthusiasm in the gain of knowledge and of taste—it is a great blessing to have an awakening of soul, a stirring up to worthier aims and better habits. The C. L. S. C. does this. When one gets discouraged because he knows so little and cares so little about knowing—it is a great thing to have something that will put a new motive into one's soul, stir him up to look out of the window and see the world and to look up to the skies and see the glory of the universe one lives in. The C. L. S. C. does this! When one falls asleep in the daytime and dreams it is night—what a noble office it is to wake him up and show him the sun. The C. L. S. C. does this!

The lecture by Dr. Edward McDowell which received much favorable comment in the Chicago press, proved all that was expected, and more. The lecture was well delivered and abounds in pretty pieces of descriptive word painting, and is a regular mine of information. The pictures were without doubt the very best ever seen in Burlington.—Burlington (Iowa) Hawk-eye. At Assembly hall November 13th, at 8.15 p. m., under auspices of high school.

A QUEER ANIMAL.

This Creature is a Mammal That Lays and Hatches Eggs.

One of the oddest of the many queer and unique creatures that inhabit the antipodean wilds is an animal about the shape and size of the American raccoon. He is not a curiosity on account of his shape or size or because he resembles the coon and lives in Australia, where all nature is topsy turvy, but because of a remarkable habit the female of his species has of laying eggs and hatching them after the manner of birds. This queer egg laying animal, the only creature of the kind on earth as far as the zoologists know, is called a platypus. It inhabits the deep forests of the river bottoms of both Australia and New Zealand and, it is said, has many of the characteristics which distinguish the beaver tribe. The platypus is not a common animal even in its native haunts, and it is yearly becoming scarcer because of the war which the natives wage against it on account of its peculiar egg laying habits. They have a superstitious dread of the harmless little animal because its habits deviate so widely from those generally noted in fur covered, four footed creatures, their hatred of it being so great that no band, whether composed of half a dozen or 100 families, will settle in the vicinity of a lake or stream until the young men "beat the bush" and kill every platypus that can be found.

THE SEA EAGLE.

How This Powerful Pirate Bird Catches Elder Ducks.

In summer the principal food of the white tailed sea eagle is salmon, varied by sea birds common along the inlets of Greenland. In autumn, when the salmon have ascended to the lakes, the birds resort to the sea. They appear to have a special fondness for elder duck, which are taken by strategy. Stationed near the water in a commanding position, with a background of cliff, the color of which assimilates with that of the eagle's plumage, he sits motionless until a flock of ducks settles near him. After a time one or two dive in search of food, but not until all have gone under together does the eagle make a sign. He then glides swiftly to the spot and circles over it close to the water. With his sharp eyes he can detect the birds before they reach the surface. At first he is not usually successful, for as soon as they become aware of the presence of the enemy they dive again instantly. But in time they are obliged to come up for air, and then one of them becomes an easy victim. A full grown elder drake is easily lifted up and borne away in the talons of this powerful pirate.—London Field.

AN AUSTRIAN CUSTOM.

How the Curious Lavy About Closing Houses at Night Operates.

One of the oddest of the Austrian customs is the result of legislation. According to law, every house must be closed from 10 o'clock at night until 6 o'clock the following morning. During that time each house is in charge of an attendant known as the "hausbesorger," or caretaker. In large apartment buildings this hausbesorger is usually a uniformed porter. Every person entering the house between 10 at night and 6 in the morning must pay to the hausbesorger 20 hellers (4 cents).

This gives rise to a curious condition. Naturally the man who comes home at early hours need not necessarily pay anything, while the man who habitually gets in at 2 or 3 in the morning is a frequent contributor to the hausbesorger's bank account. Inquiry of the hausbesorger concerning Mr. A may result in the startling information that he is a most disreputable, mean sort of man, while the night-walk Mr. B will undoubtedly be lauded as a splendid fellow of excellent reputation. As a conservator of the public morals, therefore, the hausbesorger can hardly be called a success.—Outlook.

English in Switzerland.

Some odd English is found in a guide book published by the Association of Hotel Keepers of Switzerland. Brevity is the object of the compilers. Thus the Algie Grand hotel promises "bill, rest, physic, at the establ." It is only after reflection that the reader's wonder at finding a "bill" among the attractions is allayed by the stop! "Bill" means billiards; probably "Rest" can be had elsewhere than in Algie. But "rest" means restaurant and "physic" physician. Another hotel at Algie enjoys "reoborative air."

A Brave Woman.

At all times men knew the Duchess de Gramont as a plump, homely, frank and ruthlessly outspoken woman and called her the "pockmarked duchess." Condemned to death by the revolutionary committee in Paris, she said to it, "You are quite right to kill me, for I hate you all." And a little later, when she was late at her own execution and the headsman impatiently bade her hurry, she answered, "On y va, canaille!"

Flora—I can't decide on a birthday gift for Arthur. "Give him yourself." "He made me promise not to give him an expensive present."

A Modern Bathroom

is truly so, only when it is equipped with the celebrated "Standard" Porcelain Enameled Ware. If you are using the old fashioned bathroom fixtures, don't you think it would be advisable to install in their place fixtures that are absolutely sanitary and modern?

The old fashioned plumbing fixtures are usually made partly of wood, with numerous cracks and crevices wherein dirt and filth can find lodgment, in fact, they make more dirt than they remove.

We would suggest that you let us remove the old-fashioned fixtures and install in their place the beautiful snow white "Standard" Ware. You will then be provided with the most sanitary and modern fixtures made.

We will be pleased to quote you prices and will gladly give you information as to sanitary plumbing in the home. Write or ask for booklet, "Modern Home Plumbing."
