

Retort Peninsular Smoke Consuming Hot Blast Slack Burner.

Most advanced and up-to-date slack burner constructed on the market. Has practical points found exclusively on the Peninsular. Combined cleanliness with economy of fuel. Any fuel. Every joint fitted absolutely air tight. Guaranteed by Company's bond.

MICA ILLUMINATING DOOR fitted air tight gives a cheerful and comfortable look to stove. Does away with the one objection to stoves of this class.

DOUBLE FIRE POT is corrugated and allows for expansion and contraction, insuring durability, and being exposed gives an immense heat. DEFLECTING RING and "Never-Break" steel foot rail force the intense heat generated by fire pot down and around floor, making stove a great floor warmer. ASH PIT is large and absolutely air tight. Has air tight side shaker door and air tight ash PERFECT COMBUSTION and greatest heat are had by mixing the proper quantity of heated oxygen, air, with the unconsumed carbon in a quick radiating construction.

PENINSULAR SMOKE CONSUMERS have steel bodies which radiate heat quickly and are equipped with "hot blasts" which supply a proper quantity of heated oxygen which mixes with gasses, producing the most intense heat from the least fuel. As the sketch shows, the smoke is turned almost white, keeping the soot off the roof and chimney clean. HOT BLAST TUBE WITH DAMPER operated from the right hand side without regard to position of reflector top: supplies combustion chamber with proper quantity of heated air, effecting perfect combustion and extracting every unit of heat from the fuel. IMPORTANT-Notice "Never Break" steel top ring; "Never Break" steel foot rail; Nickel reflector top, nickel ash guard and handsome nickel urn.

YOU RUN NO RISK in buying a Peninsular. Our word is backed by the Company's bond. COME IN and see these Fuel Savers and Fire Keepers.

HAWAIIAN SERVANTS.

A Story Which Illustrates One of Their Peculiarities.

"Hawalian servants," said a brown woman, "are the best-the best in the world, but they are strangely unsophisticated, strangely naive.

"Hawalian servants insist on calling you by your first name. Ours were always saying to my husband, 'Yes, John,' or 'All right, John,' and to me, 'Very well, Ann,' or 'Ann, I am going

"At last I got tired of this, and to John, when we got a new cook, I said: "'Don't ever call me by my first name in this new cook's presence. Then, perhaps, not knowing my name, he'll have to say "Mrs." to me.' "So John was very careful always to address me as 'Dearie' or 'Sweetheart,' but the new cook, a watchful chap, gave me no title at all.

"One day we had some company, some English officers. I told them how I had overcome, in my new cook's case, the native servants' horrid abuse of their employers' Christian names, and I said, 'By this servant, at least, you won't hear me called Ann.'

"Just then the new cook entered the room. He bowed to me respectfully and said:

'Sweetheart, dinner is served.'

"'What?' I stammered.
"'Dinner is served, dearie,' answerthe new cook."-New York Herald.

WILD DOGS OF ASIA.

Fierce Animals That Pursue and Kill Bears and Tigers.

The quality of courage possessed by hunting dogs of Asia appears in a marked difference of habit from that noticeable in all other carnivorous beasts. As a rule, each ferocious animal has its natural and favorite prey, which may vary in different localities, but is in each case the easiest and most profitable victim. Tigers, for instance, are cattle slayers or deer killers, just as cattle or deer happen to be most abundant in their district. Leopards prey on goats, sheep and, when they can get them, on tame dogs; wolves on sheep and cattle, stoats or rabbits and hares, and weasels on rats and mice. But, though the jungles which they visit abound in defenseless animals, the wild dog does not limit his attacks to these. The packs de-liberately pursue and destroy the black and Himalayan bears and the tigers, affording perhaps the only instance in which one carnivorous species deliberately sets itself to hunt down and destroy another. From their rarity, the uninhabited nature of the jungles which they haunt and their habit of hunting at night-which a probable suggestion makes the basis of the early legends of the demon hunter and ilequin" at a time when the "red dogs" still remained in Europe-obser-ties In Money Matters. Despite the fabulous sums Tamagno received the great singer had a reputation for extreme parsimony. When staying in Moscow he noticed that the walters in the hotel furnished him daily with fresh candles, although the old ones had been barely used. This vexed him, and, seeing that remonstrances were of no avail-the candles, he learned, formed a waiter's perquisite-he began to collect the candles himself. On leaving the hotel he gathered up the whole collection and distributed them among the waiters when they lined up to receive their tips. Tamagno's one interest off the stage was his only daughter and her children. It was for her that he boarded his wealth, which he appears to have daughter near him, however, he kept open house at his villa in Varese, near Milan. Once, in St. Petersburg, he disputed a fee of 3 francs for the forwarding of a telegram, but on hearing that his daughter was ill he left St. Petersburg and 40,000 rubles ($20,400) to hurry to Milan.

In a Berlin hotel, after appearing in "The Prophet," for which he received $1,250, he ordered for his supper two posched eggs and a bottle of mineral water. Eventually he drew from one of his pockets a bottle of wine, some of which he poured into the mineral water. It was a bottle which he had contrived to secrete at a banquet given in his honor two days before in Prague.

SUPERSTITION AND GEMS.

Some Points About the Topaz, the Ruby and the Opal.

A Maiden lane jeweler speaking of the trade in jewels said the other day that superstillon with reference to them had a serious effect upon the trade. Some people will not buy or wear topax unless they were born in November, and others cannot be induced to buy rubles unless they were born in July. It doesn't concern many people about rubles, because their price in too high for most persons to wear them. There are not two hundred good rubles of any size worth speaking of in New York. but the topaz is abundant and is not

Then there is the superstitious object tion to opals, which are regarded as unlucky all the year around and have no saving natal month to lift their opprobrium. They do not need the superstition to make them objectionable, however, because while they are very beautiful they are also very fragile and should be very cheap. Out in Australla you can go out with a pick and dig a wheelbarrow load in an hour. The cutting and polishing give them some value, but it is something like that bestowed upon cut glass. "Still they rank as jewels, and when they are sold it is for a price. If, however, you want to find their value offer one to your jeweler either for a cash sum or in exchange. You will then learn what they are intrinsically worth-or something near it.-New York Press,

Origin of "So Long."

"You have perhaps wondered how the expression 'so long' came to be so generally used by the American people," said a Columbia college lecturer the other day. "It is usually used in closing a conversation and is simply a form of 'goodby.' The Norwegians brought it to this country. In that Land of the Midnight Sun 'sna laenge' is a common form of farewell. It means the same as the 'auf wiederhen' of the German or the 'an revolr' of the French. Among the early settiers in America were many Norwegians, and the phrase was picked up | clock he would sleep for a few hours, from them. They pronounce it with

What Is an Editionf

What is an edition? Does it consist of 1,000 volumes or of 500 or 50 or 5? The word is not a technical term like 'gross" or "dozen" or any like expression bearing a fixed numerical significance, and there is of course no reason why it should not mean anything from the lowest to the highest of these numbers, according to the taste and fancy, or it may be the tactics of the particular publisher who employs it. We know what is meant when we read that a new novel is "In its twentieth thousand," whereas the statement that it is "in its forty-fifth edition" conveys to us simply no information at all .-London Tatler.

A Use For the Tires.

An automobilist traveling through Castile, in Spain, came out of an inn one day to find his automobile surrounded by the population of the whole village, who were gazing at it with much interest and examining the back wheels, out of which large lumps had just been cut. The damage had been caused by the mother of a large family, who artiesaly confessed that, seeing so much rubber on the wheels, she had cut a few pieces out to make toys for her children.

THE MORNING BATH.

Conditions Under Which It Should Not Be Taken Cold.

Cold baths in the morning are undoubtedly beneficial, but only to those persons who have sufficient vital ener gy and nervous force to insure good reaction with no subsequent language or assistile. Many persons who are great y refreshed by their morning both feel tired or fanguid two or three hours after it. When this occurs it is conclusive evidence that the practice is harmful Persons who have an abundance of blood and flesh, who are lumphatic or sluggish in temperament and whose nervous force is not depleted, can take cold morning bath to Others who are inclined to be thin. whose hands and feet become cold and clammy on slight provocation, who digest food slowly and assimilate it with difficulty, who are nervous and who have much on their minds should avoid early morning cold bathing. For such the bath before retiring at night is rec ommended, as it should be followed by rest of brain and body till equable conditions of circulation are re-established. Some persons who are weak in nerve power have such excitable nerves that they get at once a perfect reaction from cold bathing, but lose in after effects more than the value of the both. This class of individuals should not bathe too often and should always use tepid water, choosing the time preferably before retiring.

Magliabecci had a memory so extraordinary that it seemed to dwarf all his other mental faculties. He read all ancient and modern languages that had a literature and was familiar with the title and contents of every known book. He once said that he could repeat the titles of over 590,000 books written in many languages on a diversity of subjects. His whole life was given to study. He commonly remained at work all night, and when nature could endure no more he lay down wherever he chanced to be, and with the floor for a couch, a book for a pillow and covered with an old interest then rise and go to work artin. the g softened and accompany it by a literally knew everything that was wave of the hand." duced nothing of his own.

"I dropped my water today, and it has been gaining ten mandes an hour," said a man, at the rame time handing the watch to a New York Jeweler. The Jeweler stuck a glass in his eye, looked into the interior of the watch, poked something with a small instrument, set the watch by a regulator and, handing it back, said, "It's all right now, and I've set it by the correct time," "How much?" sold the customer, refleved. "Nothing," was the answer. "But I can't let you work for me without pay." "We never charge any one for such a service. Why should we charge you? The hairspring was doubled, and that made the watch run fast. A single touch set it right."

The Luster of Opals

Many gems often without any appar ent cause suddenly become cracked or seamed, the damage being beyond repair. Opals, known as the unluckiest stones, are so sensitive that their beauty is frequently destroyed by their wearer's proximity to an open fire. The luster of this stone is caused by the presence of myriads of little fissures, which deflect the light into the characteristic prismatic color of the gem. The tiniest of these fissures is likely at any moment to destroy the stone,

MAN EATERS IN INDIA.

The Sort of Tigers That Hunt For Human Game.

The "man enter" is the jungle nightmure of India, and numerous are the theories to account for its abnormal appetite. Commonly it is said to be an old tiger which has found game too difficult to bring down, or a sickly tiger which has resorted to man killing in its weakness as the easier method. The consensus of opinion among experienced hunters and observers is, however, that a man eater is an excattle killer which in conflict with herders, who are often quite brave in defense of their cattle, has discovered how much less work it is to kill a man than cattle, for the cattle killer is usually fat and lazy. Nothing has been found, so far as I have discovered, to suggest appetite for human flesh as the impelling motive, or that man eaters reject all fiesh not human, or that the cube of a man killing tigress inherit the man killing propensity. Rather is it a case of contempt for man bred of familiarity, and more often the lust lays hold of the tigress, very likely because in foraging for her cubs (as she does until they begin to hunt for themselves at seven months) and in their defense she has come more frequently in confact with man, or it may be because the female is more numerous than the male or because by mature the slyer and more
