How the Shah Amuses Himself.

Flanked by a large retinue and followed at some distance by a gendar me or two, the shah enters into the spirit of Ostend to the fullest extent, smiling at the children, laughing at the sport in the water, admiring the beauties, and all the while in a good humor that seems to be contagious. He is foud of a joke, and will often worry the hawkers by pretending to sneer at their wares and then buy the whole lot for the sake of seeing the surprise in their faces. yesterday, as I wired, he cut loose whole bunch of balloons, the entire stock in trade of a respectable old lady, whose goods are the delight of little children. The shah watched the liberated colored balls floating out to sea, then, as if he had forgot ten, turned suddenly on the startled old lady and rewarded her handsom

Looking at Worst Side.

A faultfinding, criticising habit is fatal to all excellence. Nothing will strangle growth quicker than a tendency to hunt for flaws, to rejoice in the unlovely, like a hog which always has his nose in the mud and rarely looks up. The direction in which we look indicates the life aim, and ner sons who are always looking for son thing to criticise, for the crocked and the ugly, who are always suspicious who invariably look at the worst sid of others are but giving the world a picture of themselves. This disposition to see the worst instead the best grows on one very rapidly, until it ultimately strangles all that many times your confidence has been betrayed, do not allow yourself to sour, do not lose your faith in people. The bad are the exceptions; most persons are honest and true and mean to do what is right.-Suc-

Banker Goes to Poor House.

Jefferson P. Raplee, once a wealthy New York banker and business associate of Jay Gould, Commodore Vanderblit, and John P. Blair, went to the poor house a few days ago. Raplee was one of the best-known along Broadway in his day. His father who was Judge Raplee, of Yates county, left him a large fortune. In 1866 he opened a banking house at 137 Broadway, which did a yearly business of $500,000, a large sum at Since 1867, when this bank made an assignment, Raplee's fortune steadily diminished.

Don't Let Your Nerves Get Control By Dr. John K. Mitchell.

EFORE nervousness has been established and became a habit is the time to attack it. Once it has got possession, more

≋≆ B severe measures must be taken to eject it-and advice will have to wait till the war is over. To read the riot act to a mob of emotions is valueless, and he who is wise will choose a more wholesome hour for his exhortations. Before and after are the preacher's hopeful occasions, not the moment when excitement is at its highest and the self-control we seek to get help from at its lowest ebb.

The woman who suffers from nervousness must try to study for herself her life, habits, environment, temperament, in order to discover whence the trouble springs. Oftenest some departure from proper ways of living will be found at the starting point. It may have been unavoidable when it occurred, or have been thought so at least, or more likely not thought about at all until the mischief was done.

Few things will more certainly insure a future disastrous result upon the character than a habit of yielding to or cultivating to excess the expression of all emotions. Tears for trifling pains or loud complaints, about small annoyances-physical, social, or what not-may give at first momentary relief to the weeper, but soon become a habit which weakens the power of self-control, and lessens the possibility of endurance in all forms. It is not within the ability of every woman to absolutely suppress all manifestation of suffering; it is surely within the power of every one to make up her mind-and to teach her children -to endure the smaller necessary woes of existence without an outcry, and thus aid in the acquisition of control over larger forms of trouble. I said that often one cause of nervousness lay in the dull mechanical routine of household work and management, work unvarying in kind and for many people uninteresting, involving many small annoyances and constant struggle with untaught and unteachable servants. Since this cannot be done away with, every endeavor must be made to supply new interests in such lives.

That Hunted Feeling That Pervades Us All

By Edward Carpenter.

HE outer life of society today is animated first and foremost by Fear. From the wretched wage-slave, who rises before the break of day, hurries through squalld streets to the dis mal sound of the "hummer," engages for 9, 10 or 12 hours. and for a pittance wage, in monotonous work which affords him no interest, no pleasure; who returns home to find his children gone to bed, has his 'supper, and, worn out and weary, soon retires himself, only to rise again in the morning and pursue the same deadly round, and who leads a life thus monotonous, inhuman, and devoid of all dignity and reality, simply because he is hounded to it by the dread of starvation; to the big commercial man, who, knowing that his wealth has come to him through speculation and the turns and twists of the market, fears that it may at any moment take to itself wings by the same means; who feels that the more wealth he has, the more ways there are in which he may lose it, the more cares and anxieties belonging to it; and who to continually make his position secure is, or thinks is beautiful and crushes out all that is himself, forced to stoop to all sorts of mean and dirty tricks; over the great good in himself. No matter how mass of people the same demon spreads its dusky wings.

. . Business Value of Whims .. By Harold Bolce.

HE commercial world of the United States has paid almost no attention to the peculiar wants of the Latin-American, Oceanic and Oriental peoples.

Not long ago, for example, an American company tried to sell a cargo of heating stoves in Para, Brazil. Para is just a little more than one degree south of the equator.

The women of India like to get their cotton goods done up in paper boxes, each containing in addition a few pieces of colored glass and a gilt box. These trinkets are practically worthless, and their cost to the manufacturers is infinitesimal. But the sturdy British dealer will not descend to further his trade by the inclusion of such gewgaws; and as American manufacturers have never given the matter a thought, the trade is beginning to pass to Germany, whose cotton cloths with their accompanying baubles are put up to suit the Hindu taste.

When I was in Japan they told me of an enterprising American who had arrived with a new cure for corns. He had learned by correspondence that in all Japan no remedy for these inflictions had ever been sold, and he conjured up a dream of fortune. But when he got to the Sunrise Kingdom he discovered that the people are a barefooted race and had no corns to cure. This is a grotesque incident, but it is one of many instances of American failure to secure trade abroad simply because of our ignorance of foreign conditions.-Booklovers' Magazine.

Cheerfulness During Illness.

There is a great restorative force in cheerfulness. It is a sovereign remedy. The physician who can inspire expect ency of something better to come, who can give you confidence in your power to avercome disease and can make you feel that it is a shame for a man made to do a great work in the world to be alling, has very little use for drugs.

Sick people do not realize how much their faith and confidence in the physician have to do with their cure. If he is cheerful, happy, hopeful they feel buoyed up, sustained by his very presence. They feel the thrill of his splendid vitality, and gather strength from his courage. They catch the contagion of his cheerfulness and reflect his moods and condition.

Invalids who have dragged along in misery for years have been suddenly, as if by magic, lifted out of their bondage by the cheer and encourage ment which have come from some unexpected good fortune. This shows us how dependent the body is upon the mind, how it sympathizes with it and takes on its colorings, which are represented in the different functions -O. S. Marden, in Success Magazine.

Rebuiling Ead Manners.

The usual hurried crowd was filling through the turnstile to the Union Depot from the elevated station this morning, reports the Kansas City Star. A man stood aside to permit two women to precede him through the whirligig. As he started through, an impetuous man with a grip bumped him aside and took his place. The man's politeness made a lightning change to Indignation. A swift kick was the only redress possible, and it sent the hasty one through the turnstile with some impetus to spare.

The offended man with the grip turned to seek satisfaction, but he was barred in. It would cost him five cents to get at the enemy. He reached for a nickel looked at the clock and hurried on to his train. "That was good for him, I admire our spirit," said a woman.

"I'm no here," modestly exclaimed the other. "I only did my duty as I saw it. Any one else would have done the same. Besides, didn't I have a cinch, though? He couldn't touch me."

Pompadours Are Falling Down.

It is pleasont to note, say many, that women are taking a tuck in their nompadours and are wearing smoothly banded tresses. The fluffy, floppy coiffure, that for the last few seasons has pointed skyward, has toppled down at last and its place is taken by the low roll or part, the rest of the hair being plainly and neatly arranged. The reason for this, the milliners assert, is that tiny tip-tilted hats, which have at last "arrived," after repeated unheeded efforts to gain ascendancy and large pompadours simply won't "go" together. As the hat is ultrafashionable of course, the women will do themselves over to suit it.-New York Press.

An Unappreciated Fact,

A writer in the current issue of the Forum calls attention to the unknown and unappreciated fact that the country is dangerously near a constitutional convention. According to provision of Article V. of the federal Constitution, a convention to amend that document is imperative when demanded by the legislatures of twothirds of all the states. As there are now 45 states, the requisite proportion is 30. Already 22 states, or only eight less than the necessary num ber, are on record either as requesting the convention to be called or as advocating the reform which is desired by amendment. The purpose sought in this popular expression is the election of senators by the peo ple.-Washington Post.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations .- Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for ovarian or womb operations!

It is quite true that these troubles reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be per-formed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations. Margrite Ryan, Treasurer of St. An-irew's Society, Hotel English, Indianapolis, Ind., writes of her cure as follows

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from ovarian or woman trouble. Compound had saved other woman from that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvio organs, cramps, bearing down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had ovarian tromble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and I decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegotable Compound.

"To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the tad symptoms disappeared, and I amoneo more strong, vigorous and well; and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for mo."

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women -and before submitting to an opera-tion every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation, ul-ceration, falling and displacement of Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
