Cleanliness.

In the handling of foods cleanliness surpasses all other virtues. Under the Patent "Sealshipt" Carrier System the oysters are packed in a separate sealed receptacle—contamination of any kind is absolutely impossible. Not only that but with "Sealshipt" Carriers the oysters retain their full, NATURAL FLAVOR-it is the only method that accomplishes this. Try 'em and see. Frank's Restaurant.

His Bride is a Cultured Lady—Daughter Climpses of the People who are Passof a Banker.

Prof. C. J. Scott, superintendent of the public schools of Reynoldsville, joined the matrimonial ranks on Thursday of last week, December 28, 1905. From the Evening Review of East Liverpool. Ohio, of December 28, we glean a few facts from a lengthy write-up of the wedding, as follows:

"Hat deomely and faultlessly appointed was the wedding of Miss Harriet M. Silver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Silver, of Wellsville, and Clifford . Scott, of Reynoldsville, at the bride's eautiful home at 2 o'clock this noon. Rev. Thomas H. Hanna, Jr., of Steubenville, performed the ceremony in the presence of only the immediate relatives and a few close friends, num-pering in all about 40. He was assisted by Rev. J. W. Toland, of Wellsville.
"The bride and her attendants wore superb costumes, which were richly but simply made. The former appeared in handsome broadcloth gown. which was the most striking part of ner costume, was of dark blue material elaborately trimmed with flowers and alice blue velvet. She carried a boubuet of sweet peas,

"The bride's father is a leading cap italist of Wellsville, being president of the Silver Banking Company, and closely connected with other local industries. Miss Silver has had the advantage of the culture and training of two higher educational institutions of learning. Women's College of Balti-more, Md., and Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa. She has an attractive ersonality, an unpretentious manne and other good qualities which are the secret of her popularity."
Prof. Scott and bride arrived in Reynoldsville Saturday and were given a reception Monday evening.

Lecture Friday Evening.

It were as easy to reproduce in detail Dr. Willit's lecture as to describe the ever changing combinations of the calcidoscope held against the sun; to reproduce such a discourse verbatim ere to spoil it, for half its charm lay in the sunny piquancy of its delivery in certain little odd tricks of speed and gesture, quite as effective in them-selves as the truths they embellished The speaker drew liberally from an ap parently inexhaustible mine of reminiscence, anecdote and illustration, making all his points good and driving them home with firm yet never unkind-ly emphasis. It was a lecture of more than passing pleasure and profit, for the truths presented were set forth in a radiance that could not but brighten the bearts and minds of those who heard it long after the hour of its de livery had passed.—Rochester (N.
