PRIZED HAIR ROFES.

Those Used by the Daring Egg Gatherers of St. Kilda.

An Irish paper not long since offered $150 for a genuine St. Kildean hair rope, such as is used by egg gatherers. On the lonely island of St. Kilda the most appropriate present a young woman can give to her fiance is a rope made of horsehair, or, better still, of human hair. The rock scalers of this island consider themselves rich above mention if their brides are able to make them such gifts. The ropes are of various lengths, a good one be ing forty or fifty feet long.

According to a woman traveler who has spent much time at St. Kilda, the ordinary rope consists of a stout hemp en cord wrapped round and round with sheep's wool, then with horsehair and finally on the outside with human hair.

It is the work of years to manufacture such ropes-and the maiden of St. Kilda begins very early in her child hood to save her hair combings-and also to dry and bleach certain rough grasses that grow on the wind swept island. The fibers make the cable stronger, and the clastic quality of the hair prevents chating against the rude cliffs during the rock scaler's descent. A curiosity collector wanted to buy one of these ropes, which are used by the St. Kilda egg gatherers. He of fered $100, but the amount was refused scornfully.

THE ESKIMO SMOKER.

He Dearly Loves Tobacco and Not a Mite of It Is Wasted.

"No man is fonder of tobacco than an Eskimo," said an arctic traveler. "The Eskimo depends for his tobacco solely on the white man. For a pound of it he would sell his oldest son.

Ringgold

Snyder

"It is odd to see an Eskimo smoke. He chops his tobacco fine and mixes it with chopped willow twigs so as to make it go further. Then he cleans out with a picker of bone the small stone bowl of his pipe, and then he plucks a lock of hair from his deerskin suit and rams it down in the bottom of the pipe bowl so as to prevent any of the finely chopped tobacco from escaping into the

"Finally he lights the pipe and smokes it in a swift series of long, strong puffs so that there may be no waste. Each puff is inhaled deep down into the lungs, and the first puff's smake is still streaming from the nostrils long after another puff has been started. There must be, you see, no waste. There must be none of that vain combustion of tobacco without benefit to the smoker which goes on continually among us

"Often the most experienced Eskimo will smoke so hard and fast that tears will stream from his eyes, he will cough violently, and sometimes vertigo and nausea will selze him."—New York

Animals That Are Always Enemies. Many animals are born with an inherent antipathy for other animals. The excessive fear shown by young rabbits which for the first time smell a ferret and of young turkeys which hear the shrill cry of a hawk they have never heard or seen before, are proved examples of the strength of these instinctive antipathies. But the case of the weasel and rat is, perhaps, more to be noticed because of the greater equality of the antagonists. The feud is so bitter that a meeting between them almost certainly means death to one or both. Friendships are not uncommon between the cat and dog and have been known between a dog and wolf, but the mutual attitude of the weasel and rat is invariably war -war that is waged to the death.

The Word "Nugget."

"Nugget" was formerly used to signify a bit or lump of anything, as a "nugget of tobacco." Nowadays, however, it is used principally of gold as it nes from the mine. This use is Australian. Governor Sir William Denison of Australia wrote in 1852, "In many instances the gold is brought to market in lumps or nuggets, as they are called." In Queensland there is a peculiar use of the word unknown in rest of Australia. There, when a man appropriates unbranded calves, he is said to be "nuggeting."

The greatest tonic on earth is a good night's rest. Restless nights and the ter-rible exhaustion of a hacking cough are rible exhaustion of a hacking cough are dread dangers of the poor consumptive.

¶But why this fear of the night when a few doses of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup will insure refreshing sleep, entirely free from cough or night sweat? Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by taking German Syrup.

¶We know by the experience of over thirty-five years that one 75-cent bottle of German Syrup will speedily relieve or cure the worst coughs, colds, bronchial or lung troubles—and that, even in bad cases of consumption, one large bottle of German Syrup will work wonders.

Why Suffer?

HAINES CITY, FLA Philips Drug Co., Warren, Pa. Dear Sirs:—December 21, 4901, was taker with what physicians pronounced

MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM. I had it bad. I took as I thought, every known remedy; paid out enough money, anyhow. I was entirely helpiess for nearly is mouths; about that time saw your ad in The National Tribune; sent for a boule; then seet for another; then another, and now I wm out of the medicine business entirely. I give Crocker's Rheumatic Remedy the credit of curing me. I can heartly recommend it. Very truly, I. F. TOWER-For Sale by Stoke & Feicht Drug Co.
