A MODEL HOME.

Paper Read by Mrs. Minerva Strauss at Farmers' Institute in Paradise.

A model or pattern should be the highest ideal of its kind conceivable, whether it be the government of a nation or a home. This great republic of which we are justly proud, did not spring up during the night like a toad stool or mushroom to wither in the noonday heat. To many deliberations were held, and sacrifices made, to many heartstones left lonely and sad ere the conflict ended and liberty was proclaimed, for men will fight longer and harder for their homes and loved ones than anything else on earth. "Our homes are our nation's safe guards." Do we all realize this? There is a wide difference between house building and home building; for fine houses and costly raiment, like charity, often cover a multitude of sins; too often, alas. Comparatively few are the homes in which there is no skeleton hidden. Divorce cases increase every year at an alarming rate, more especially in so called high life, or the aristocracy. Really it is something of a fad, and while in one sense it is deplorable, in another it is commendable, for when two cannot agree it is not better to separate than to bring up children in an atmosphere that cannot be for the best? There must be a cause for this as well as every other wrong. Too little consideration has been given by the contracting parties as to what constitutes the making and ordering of an ideal home, or the sacrifices that must be made ere they may enjoy the most enviable possession on earth, a peaceful, happy dwelling place, though it be but a cottage without even the proverbial ivy clinging to its walls. If congenial spirits dwell within, it can be an Eden, a haven of rest, a place in which to love and be loved, where the spoiler never enters and harsh words are left unsaid. These are a few of the little things that go a long way toward the doing or undoing of the home. If fond mamma were to teach their aspiring daughters that good, good cooking and household economy was a science and an art that no girl, whether rich or poor, should be deficient in, there would be less divorce cases, for if you would keep your husband sweet tempered don't feed him on sour bread and soggy potatoes, dishwasher coffee, &c. It's an old adage that a man's heart is reached by way of his stomach, but he also gets dyspepsia by the same route, so be careful and not overdo the matter.

It takes more engineering and skill to manage a man and house than the building of the Panama Canal. If you don't believe it, try it; if you do, don't try it. The husband is supposed to be the home maker and the bread winner, but to the good wife falls the responsibility of the home keeping and the bread making. Fortunes are not often made in the kitchen, but many a one has been lost there on account of poor management and a disregard of economy. Don't look at it as drudgery, as too many do, but as an art, a science by which you may keep yourself and family in perfect health and happiness, which is more to your credit, and will go farther toward making a paradise of your home, than to be able to quote Shakespeare or converse in the dead languages. I wouldn't have you infer that I don't believe in education for women, far from it. I believe they should have, and are capable of the higher education, as they have demonstrated it in many instances. An educated man usually has a profession, but a properly educated woman has many. Therefore, the making of a model home falls heavily on the mistress. So when the master comes home tired, after a day of hard labor or vexing business and finds his dinner ready, his smoking jacket and slippers waiting for him, and while he devours his favorite dishes prepared by loving hands and recounts what he has done, where he has been, and all the annoying things that have happened, keep patient, for when he gets through he will feel rested. Then while he takes his after-dinner smoke, wash your dishes and by the time you are through he will have finished smoking. Then both are ready to enjoy the evening together—at home—if you are home people, but if, as is so often the case these days, he belongs to a club for every night in the week and two times for Sunday, you can sit out the evening alone, or follow his example, go to a woman's club or a theatre, or anywhere to get even. Let the family lookout for themselves, run the streets, they belong as much to him as you, if he don't care you need not. Such expressions and examples are frequent. Don't try to keep even in that way; keep the balance on your side, for trials and heartaches will come to the best regulated homes. Men are not angels, neither have women wings; the tongue also is an unruly member. Let us then try to remember Will Carleton's advice: "Boys flying kites haul in their white winged birds. But you can't do that when flying words; Careful with fire is good advice we know, Careful with words is ten times doubly so."

(NO. 20)

AN ORDINANCE granting to the Red Bank Telephone Company, its successors and assigns, the right to erect, maintain and operate a telephone line on and along certain streets and alleys of the borough of West Reynoldsville as hereinafter designated. Be it ordained and enacted by the town council of the borough of West Reynoldsville, Jefferson County, Pennsylvania, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same.

Section 1. That the right of way be and the same is hereby granted to the Red Bank Telephone Company, its successors and assigns to erect and maintain lines of poles, main wires, along, under, over, through and across public streets, avenues, alleys, bridges, viaducts and ways in the borough, said public streets and alleys to be hereinafter designated for the purpose of operating a Telephone Exchange and telephone lines, provided said lines of poles shall be placed under the direction of the town council so as to interfere least with the public use of said streets, avenues and alleys as hereinafter stated. The Company to be responsible for the borough for all damages caused in erecting, maintaining and operating said lines.

Section 2. The poles shall be of sound timber and kept properly painted and not less in size than 15 inches in diameter, 6 feet from butt, wires not to be less than 3 foot elevation from ground, and when placed on street or streets, avenues or alleys as hereinafter designated, shall be placed within or without the line of the curb and at such place as the council may direct, so as not to interfere with any sewerage, gas pipes or water lines now built or hereafter to be built.

Section 3. Hereafter the wires of all electric light, telegraph or telephone companies to be erected or standing at an angle across the wires of said Telephone Company shall not in this case or in any other be allowed to approach the wires of said company nearer than two (2) feet nor said Telephone Company be allowed to place its wires nearer than two (2) feet to the wires of said other company. The provisions of this section are to apply with equal force to motor wires for street railway purposes except so far as they may interfere with the proper placing of the motor wires hereafter to be placed, in which case it shall be the duty of the said Telephone Company to yield the right of way of said motor wires and change the placing of their lines accordingly.

In case of the violation of this section it shall be the duty of the Street Commissioner to notify the offending company to remove its wires, poles and fixtures so erected in violation herein within three days of such notification and in failure to comply with such notification, it shall be the duty of the Street Commissioner to remove the same at the expense of the offending party or company.

Section 4. That it is agreed by the said Company that in the consideration of the grant of the right of way as hereinafter provided that said Telephone Company will put up and provide a phone in the municipal building or elsewhere in the borough as the council may direct for the use of the borough officers, free of charge.

The use of the poles of the company by the borough for carrying electric fire alarm wires shall be permitted free of expense and charge to the said borough.

Section 5. Said company, its successors and assigns, are to remove within ten days after notice has been served by the council or street commissioner, in writing, all dead poles or poles not having living wires on them.

Section 6. The public streets, avenues, alleys, bridges, viaducts and ways for poles and lines shall be located in said borough as follows: Pike street, Brown street, Broad street and First Avenue. All of said poles are to be subject to a pole tax of _____ per pole, said tax to be paid to the borough treasurer annually on or before the first Monday of March of each and every year. Said poles and wires are not to be used in conjunction with the Red Bank Telephone Company by any other persons or company at the same time without the consent of the council of the borough of West Reynoldsville, by ordinance duly passed.

Section 7. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and acceptance by the Red Bank Telephone Company in behalf of itself, its successors and assigns, and its publication as provided by law, the costs and expenses of said publication to be paid by the said Red Bank Telephone Company, provided said company shall file with the clerk of council its written acceptance within ten days after the publication of said ordinance and paying for said publication at the time of such written acceptance, and provided further that its poles are erected on or before January 1 1907, otherwise this ordinance becomes null and void and of no effect.

Section 8. That the rights and privileges hereby granted shall be held and used subject to the terms and provisions of the laws and ordinances of the borough of West Reynoldsville, now in force or hereafter to be passed, regulating and relating to the same.

Section 9. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance be, and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Enacted and ordained by the town council of the borough of West Reynoldsville, Pennsylvania, at a regular meeting held at the council chamber on February 5th, 1906, at 9 o'clock p. m.

HENRY HERPEL, President of Council. PHILIP KOEHLER, Clerk of Council.
