

How He Happened to Burn It.
Many interesting neighbors drop in and chat with Mark Twain when he is at "Quarry Farm," his summer home near Elmira. A small boy turned up not long ago with his hand wrapped in a bandage. Mr. Clemens expressed concern and asked the cause.
"Laid it on a red-hot stove and forgot to take it off," was the terse reply.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years.

Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for many years under her direction, and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.
Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the woman of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has drawn from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me."

Man of Many Promises.
Abdul Hamid, the Sultan of Turkey, always expresses the greatest astonishment when told that reforms have not been carried out, and declares that it is the fault of his ministers and other subordinates who have neglected to obey his orders. He then promises that there will be no further delay, and expresses profound sorrow and mortification that anyone should suspect him of insincerity. Nothing happens. The ambassadors go again and again to the sublime port and are told that their wishes will be immediately complied with. They know that they are simply being played with and that the promises of the Sultan are intended to delay action and to avoid it if possible.

Chinese Humility.
A Chinaman wearing his finest gown of silk, called at a house where he happened to disturb a rat, which was regaling itself out of a jar of oil standing on a beam over the door. In its sudden flight the rat upset the oil over the luckless visitor, ruining his fine raiment. While the man was still pale with rage his host appeared and after customary greetings the visitor accounted for his appearance in this wise: "As I was entering your honorable dwelling, I frightened your honorable rat; while it was trying to escape it upset your honorable jar of oil over my poor and insignificant clothing. This explains the contemptible condition in which I find myself in your honorable presence."

Box of Wafers Free—No Drugs—Cures by Absorption.
Cures Relieving of Gas—Hal Breath and Bad Odors—Short Breath—Hoarseness—Sour Eructations—Irregular Heart, Etc.
Take a Mull's Wafer any time of the day or night, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Scarcely any stomach is entirely free from gas. Mull's Anti-Bleed Waters will make your stomach healthy by absorbing foul gases which arise from the undigested food and by reinforcing the lining of the stomach, enabling it to thoroughly mix the food with the gastric juices. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and fermentation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this process.

Discard drugs, as you know from experience they do not cure stomach trouble. Try a common-sense (Nature's) method that does cure. A soothing, healing sensation results instantly.

EVENTS OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Oh, Stella.
When Stella says "Farewell" The world which once was glad So suddenly grows sad— More sad than tongue can tell! A wall of grief doth swell To bid a friend good bye, While tears dim many an eye, When Stella says "Farewell."
Prepared to pull the bell The street-car man draws near— His frown is most severe As "Ho-ard!" he loud doth yell. Her name exclaims, "Oh, Stella! I most forgot to say— And then there's more delay "When Stella says "Farewell."
With plumes fierce and fell The passengers exclaim: "This is a horrid shame, That she should thus compel Us folks out here to dwell!" And the language e'en grows bad, Because we feel so sad "When Stella says "Farewell."

Utilizing Sharks' Teeth.
The natives on some of the Pacific islands, being provided with neither metals nor any stone harder than the coral rocks of which the atolls they inhabit are composed, would seem badly off, indeed, for material of which to make tools or weapons, were it not that their very necessity has bred an invention no less ingenious than curious and effective. This is the use of sharks' teeth to give a cutting edge to their wooden knives and swords. The mouth of the shark contains three hundred teeth, arranged in five rows, all closely lying upon each other, except the outer row, and so constructed that as the tooth is broken or lost another takes its place. The teeth are not only pointed and keen-edged, but are finely and regularly serrated so that the cutting power is greatly increased. Indeed, so great a faculty have these teeth for wounding that the implements and weapons upon which they are used have to be handled with great care. The King Islander makes many strange articles of sharks' teeth.

Daring Railway Building.
The work of constructing a railroad to the summit of Mount Blanc has begun with enthusiasm, and the engineers in charge of the undertaking will push the construction with all possible speed. The line will be built like the Jungfrau line in the Bernese Oberland, Switzerland. It will have a total length of nineteen kilometers (eleven and four-fifths miles) and will, it is hoped, be completed within five or six years. The carriages will be heated and lighted by electricity, and the train will be composed of an electrical engine and two saloon cars made to accommodate about eighty people. A special arrangement of the windows will permit all travelers in the train to enjoy the scenery. Three kinds of powerful brakes, independent of each other, will be attached to the cars, thus rendering all accidents impossible. The telephone will be established along the line and will connect any point thereof with the head stations.

Killed by Cane Thrust.
A Bombay (Indian) planter has just been arrested for involuntary homicide. Some time ago, when returning from a party with his fiancée, he was attacked in the dark by a stranger. In self-defense he made a lunge with his walking stick, and his assailant dropped on the ground. He struggled to his feet again and the planter and his fiancée hurried away. Next day a man was found dead on the road and the inquest showed that some instrument had pierced his eye and entered deep into the skull. Several of the victim's friends and acquaintances were arrested and released before the planter heard of the affair, when he made a full confession.

Dog Came for His License.
Deskman Quackenbush, at police headquarters, Paterson, N. J., was filling out blank forms for dog licenses recently, when a coach dog walked up to him, wagging his tail and holding in his mouth a $2 bill, the license fee. The policeman took the money and spoke to the dog, which wagged his tail more than ever. Soon after that a young man appeared, and explained that the dog was the property of J. A. Van Winkle, a feed merchant. The license was inclosed in an envelope and placed in the dog's mouth. The animal then left for his home.

Sent Quarter Through Mail.
The most peculiar piece of mail that has ever come to an Alabama postoffice, so far as known, reached the New Decatur postoffice to-day. It was a silver quarter of a dollar with a small piece of paper pasted on each side. On one side was written the address and on the other a few words. The quarter was tied in the center of a bundle of letters when it arrived. It had traveled many miles and was delivered safely to the one for whom it was intended—Decatur correspondence Nashville American.

HERITAGE OF CIVIL WAR.

Thousands of Soldiers Contracted Chronic Kidney Trouble While in the Service.
The experience of Capt. John L. Ely, of Co. E, 17th Ohio, now living at 500 East Second street, Newton, Kansas, will interest the thousands of veterans who came back from the Civil War suffering from kidney complaint. Capt. Ely says: "I contracted kidney trouble during the Civil War, and the occasional attacks finally developed into a chronic case. At one time I had to use a crutch and cane to get about. My back was lame and weak, and besides the aching, there was a distressing retention of the kidney secretions. I was in a bad way when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills in 1901, but the remedy cured me, and I have been well ever since."

H d a Thirteenth Rib.
That a man may live his whole life with one more rib than his physiological allotment and never know a thing about it is cause enough for considerable uneasiness. But he may, as the surgeons at the Medico-Chirurgical hospital discovered. This man however, found his thirteenth rib and both the rib and the finding were unlucky, which is to be expected where thirteen is concerned. The patient was a day laborer, and the fee on Saturday gave him a bad fall. He was taken to the hospital and there told that he had dislocated a rib.—Philadelphia Record.

AWFUL SUFFERING

From Dreadful Pains From Wound on Foot—System All Run Down—Miraculous Cure by Cuticura.
"Words cannot speak highly enough for the Cuticura Remedies. I am now seventy-two years of age. My system had been all run down. My blood was so bad that blood poisoning had set in. I had several doctors attending me, so finally I went to the hospital, where I was laid up for two months. My foot and ankle were almost beyond recognition. Dark blood flowed out of wounds in many places and I was so disheartened that I thought surely my last chance was slowly leaving me. As the foot did not improve you can readily imagine how I felt. I stood this pain, which was dreadful, for six months, and during this time I was not able to wear a shoe and not able to work. Some one spoke to me about Cuticura. The consequences were I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies of one of my friends, who was a druggist, and the praise that I gave after the second application is beyond description; it seemed a miracle, for the Cuticura Remedies took effect immediately. I washed the foot with the Cuticura Soap before applying the Ointment, and I took the Resolvent at the same time. After two weeks' treatment my foot was healed completely. People who had seen my foot during my illness and who have seen it since the cure can hardly believe their own eyes. Robert Schoenhard, Newburgh, N. Y., Aug. 24, 1905."

FINDS WASHINGTON RELIC.

Historic Locket Worn by General's Wife Turns Up at Capital.
A valuable and historic locket belonging to General Washington which has been lost for a number of years, was found a few days ago in Washington City by Joseph L. Keefer. The locket contains the miniature painting of Mrs. Washington which the General had painted after their marriage, and which he wore around his neck until his death.

Mr. Keefer, who is a cousin of General Washington, through his mother, Mary Hall, in conversing with Mrs. Moorhead, found that she has the locket in her possession and prizes it highly. He has been hunting for the locket for years.

Thimble Collecting.
One of the queerest fads among the upper classes is the collecting of the thimbles of women celebrities. One of the finest of these collections is that of a London society man, who has a cabinet full of the dainty finger-shields of the maidens he has loved and lost; while Mrs. Vanderbilt rejoices in the possession of a veritable thimble of that excellent needlewoman, Queen Elizabeth. This is the gem of her collection, although the latter contains a solid silver thimble worn by our queen when a girl of fourteen, and a substantial "finger-shoe" of no less a person than the mother of our king—London Tit-Bits.

Million Bushels of Wheat Wasted.
"During 1905," writes George R. Metcalf, M. E., in the March Technical World Magazine, "the railroads of the United States ordered new locomotives to the number of 6,300, to together with 3,300 passenger cars and 340,000 freight cars. These last figures give a good idea of the relative importance of passenger and freight traffic to a large railroad. The rail mills started the new year with orders for 2,500,000 tons on their books.
"In spite of these great orders, and in spite of the best efforts of the railroad managers, pile after pile of thousands of bushels of corn has been heaped up on the ground in Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, for want of storage room or transportation facilities; while in North Dakota alone over a million bushels of wheat has rotted on the ground for want of freight cars to move it."

THE EDITOR Explains How to Keep Up Mental and Physical Vigor.

A New Jersey editor writes: "A long indulgence in improper food brought on a condition of nervous dyspepsia, nearly three years ago, so severe that I had to quit work entirely. I put myself on a strict regimen of Grape-Nuts food, with plenty of outdoor exercise and in a few months found my stomach so far restored that the process of digestion gave me pleasure instead of distress.
"It also built up my strength so that I was able to resume my business, which is onerous, as I not only edit my own paper, but also do a great deal of 'outside' writing.
"I find that the Grape-Nuts diet enables me to write with greater vigor than ever before, and without the feeling of brain-fog which I used to be troubled. As to bodily vigor—I can do walk miles every day without fatigue—a few squares used to weary me before I began to live on Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

MUCH BETTER THAN CASCADE.

Farmer Knew of More Interesting "Show" Than the One Sought.
Several years ago William L. Douglas spent a short vacation with some friends in New Hampshire. The first morning there found him taking his usual long walk. He had heard his friend talking of Wilson's Cascade, just four miles from there, so he decided to walk in that direction. He had gone about two miles when he saw an old man sunning himself in the doorway of a great barn which stood near the road.
"Can you direct me to Wilson's Cascade?" he inquired of the old man.
The old man squinted his eyes and took an exhaustive survey of the question before he spoke. "Take your first right and follow it till you come to a fork where there's a clump of black-berry bushes," he said, slowly, "then strike off to the left. Go on till you come to the next crossroad, and then bear off to your left again. When you've gone a piece on that road you'll come on Abe Simmons' house. You'll know him, because he wears plaid overalls, green and blue plaid, and she makes 'em for him. You can't keep from laughing when you set eyes on 'em, I'll wager.

"Excuse me, but I have only so much time," said Douglas; "will Mr. Simmons direct me to the cascade?"
"I presume to say he can," he answered, "but after you've seen those plaid overalls a little mess of water running over a little mess of rocks will seem mighty tame to ye."—Boston Herald.

Dust on the Ocean.

"To talk of a 'dusty' ocean highway sounds absurd, but the expression is perfectly accurate," states a writer. "Everyone who is familiar with ships knows that, no matter how carefully the decks may be washed in the morning, a great quantity of dust will collect by nightfall. You say, 'But the modern steamship, burning hundreds of tons of coal a day, easily accounts for such a deposit.' True, but the records of sailing vessels show that the latter collect more dust than a sailing vessel—a journey which lasted ninety-seven days—twenty-four barrels of dust were swept from the decks! The captain was a man of scientific tastes and made careful observations, but could not solve the mystery. Some, no doubt, comes from the wear and tear on the sails and rigging, but that accounts for only a small portion. To add to the mystery, bits of cork, wood and vegetable fiber are frequently found in this sea dust. Where does it come from?"

Farmhouse in Normandy.
Near Rouen, in Normandy, France, stands a curious old farmhouse built with a porte cochere. Great gates are closed at night to keep intruders out.

A Ferocious Fish.
The post surgeon of Colastine, Santa Fe, Argentina, writes: "I was called to attend the steward of the Norwegian barque Turist, then loading quebracho wood in this port, who had had his index finger bitten off by the head of a 'bacu' fish, which had been severed from the cleaned and gutted body for a space of two hours previous to his picking up the head to throw it overboard. This is a fact."

Crow Has Learned to Talk.
George Noyes captured a young crow about a year ago. He clipped the bird's wings and gave it to his daughter for a pet. Recently the bird began uttering single words like "papa," "mamma" and "Goldie." His sole effort at forming sentences consists of "George, get up."

SAVED FROM CATARRH OF LUNGS SO COMMON IN WINTER BY TAKING PE-RU-NA.

Sore Throat Develops into Bronchitis.
Mrs. Addie Harding, 121 W. Brighton Ave., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "I have been a user of Peruna for the past twelve years. With me it is a sure preventive of colds and many other ills.
"Two or three times a year I am troubled with my throat, a kind of raw feeling, turning to bronchitis. I have had the services of my physician in each case. Two years ago, when I felt a raw coming I tried Peruna to check it, and to my delight was not troubled with the smothered and choking feeling and never have been since. I can check it every time with Peruna."

Chronic Catarrh of Throat and Lungs.
Mrs. Virginia Caviana, room 32, Cambridge Block, Portland, Ore., writes: "I was a sufferer with catarrh of the throat and lungs for a long time before Peruna was recommended to me. I gave it a trial, although I thought at the time it would be just like other medicines and do me no good. I was pleased to find that my improvement began in less than two weeks and continued until I was entirely well. I gained nearly 15 pounds, have a splendid appetite and am grateful for what your medicine has done for me."

More Steam Engines Used Now Than Ever Before.
The use of the steam engine is increasing faster to-day than ever before. Many mammoth industrial plants are exclusively engaged in building steam boilers and engines, and it is the proud boast of one of these, the Atlas Engine Works, of Indianapolis, that it averages a complete boiler and engine outfit of fifty horse-power every thirty minutes of the working day.

When the visitor to their plant has gone through two or three of their great warehouses, and emerges upon a boiler yard of twenty acres, he wonders where upon earth one can be found for all the boilers and engines. But, if he will watch the loading process, he will see some ten or twelve trainloads per day go out, labeled for destinations all over the world, and will gain some notion of the magnitude of the world's work. Then, when he is told that this one concern, Leviathan of the trade though it is, does not produce ten per cent. of the world's output of steam boilers and engines, he will begin to realize how vast is the production and consumption of steam power throughout the world.

The product of this one plant, which builds every type and size of horizontal steam engine, affords an interesting study of mechanical evolution. The balanced slide-valve, the shaft governor, the rotating, or Corliss valve, self-acting devices, compound cylinders and direct connected shafts are only the more visible improvements. The built-up connecting rod, the removable bearings, improved piston construction, stronger and lighter designs of bed, more intelligent designing of all reciprocating parts, better selection of materials and more accurate workmanship throughout are some of the things that differentiate the engine of to-day from that of half a century ago.
The changes in boiler construction have not been so numerous, but they have been quite as marked. In the output of this one concern can be found every size and type of boiler, from the little horizontal tubular of fifteen horse-power, to the new Atlas water-tube, which purifies its own water, superheats its own steam and gives the highest efficiency yet accomplished in boiler construction.

How Auto Speed Has Increased.
The great object sought by this rapid development of the motor has been attained in a sensational degree. The increase during the past ten years would be almost incredible were there not figures to prove it. In 1895 the Paris-Bordeaux road race was won by a 3 1/2-horse power automobile with an average speed of 15 miles an hour. In 1897 the winning automobile, and 8-horse power machine, covered the 550 miles of the Paris-Amsterdam race at 23 miles an hour. In 1899 the Paris-Bordeaux race was won by a 12-horse power automobile going at 30 miles an hour. In 1901 the Paris-Bordeaux race was won by a 64-horse power machine with an average hourly speed of 50 miles an hour—the same course that was covered six years before at 15 miles an hour. The increase in speed since that time, though great, has been more gradual. The winning car in the Vanderbilt Cup race the most important held in America, averaged slightly less than 62 miles an hour for the 283 miles; it was of 80-horse power, but in the same race there were cars of 120-horse power and one of 130.—American Magazine.
