The Throne of Thunder.

Mungo Mam Lobeh, the throne, or place of thunder, as the natives call it, the peak of Kameruns, as the whites call it, is the highest point on the western side of the African continent. The first view the voyager gets of it who, coming from the northward, has been coasting for weeks along low shores and up the stagnant rivers, fringed with mangrove swamp, is a thing no man can ever forget. Suddenly, right up out of the sea, the great mountain rises to its 13,760 feet, while close at hand, to westward, towers the lovely island mass of Fernando Po to its 10,190 feet, and great as is its first charm every time you see it it becomes greater, although it is never the same. Five times I have been in the beautiful bay at its foot and have never seen it twice alike. Sometimes it is wreathed with indigo black tornado clouds, sometimes crested with snow, sometimes standing out hard and clear, as though gorgeous, with green, gold, purple and pink vapors tinted by the sunset .-

A Trying Reform.

A Presbyterian clergyman of New York with two popular daughters has discovered a new way to end the visits of their beaus at a seemly hour-a plan which might appeal to lay families as well. For a number of years it has been a custom of this good man to hold evening worship after supper, always concluding the prayers with a short discourse. Things went very well until the daughters began to receive the attentions of young men and begged off or stole away to make their evening toilets. Then the minister changed the devotional hour until 10 in the evening. This reform created an upheaval, but the father insisted, and at the stroke of 10 the visiting young men are now left one alternative-either to leave or join with the family in prayer-and it has proved a severe test of their devotion for the daughters when those not prayerfully inclined stick it out, sermon and all .-New York World.

The Good Fellow.

The treasurer of a church temper ance society told at a temperance meeting a dramatic story.

"A woman entered the barroom," he said, "and advanced quietly to her husband, who sat drinking with three other men. She placed a covered dish on the table and said:

" 'Thinkin' ye'd be too busy to come home to supper, Jack, I've fetched it to you here.' "And she departed.

"The man laughed awkwardly. He invited his friends to share the meal with him. Then he removed the cover from the dish. "The dish was empty. It contained a slip of paper that said: 'I hope you will enjoy your supper

It is the same as your wife and children have at home. "-Life.

Coffee-ten is the common beverage of the natives of Java and Sumatra. When required for infusion the coffee leaves are gathered fresh from the trees and are dried in a pan over a slow fire until they are light brown They are then put into a teapot, boiling water is poured over them, and the in fusion is drunk with milk and sugar It seems the general opinion that coffee should come in contact with metal as little as possible. The Viennese people prefer a glass bottle to a canister for storing, and Brazilians use earth enware in preference to a metal pot for making.

Buried by Torchlight.

Allerton Hall was upward of four centuries the property and residence of the Kitchingman family. It was the largest and most ancient mansion in Chapeltown, consisting of about sixty rooms, with gardens and pleasure grounds. The Kitchingman family for upward of 400 years were carried from this hall by torchlight to be interred in the choir of St. Peter's church in Leeds, At the interment of any of the family the great chandeller, consisting of thirty-six branches, was always lighted. In the year 1716 Robert Kitchingman died May 7, aged 100 years. He ordered his body to be Luried with torchlights at Chapel Allerton. He was interred on May 16, when 100 torches were carried. The room where the body was laid was hung with black, and a velvet pall, with escutcheons, was born by the chief gentry. The pallbearers had all searf, biscuits and sack; the whole company had gloves. Fifty pounds were given among the poor in the chapel yard on the day of his interment. Mary, his wife, died July 28, 1716, aged ninety-seven years, She was interred precisely in the same way .- "Annals of Yorkshire."

For Black Eyes. It is often the case that people meet with accidents and bruises that cause disfiguring discolorations, from which they suffer not a little embarrassment and annoyance. It is worth while to know that there is a simple remedy and one quite within the reach of every one. Immediately after the accident mix an equal quantity of capsicum annum with mucilage made of gum arable. To this add a few drops of glycerin. The bruised surface should be carefully cleansed and dried, then painted all over with the capsicum preparation. -Use a camel's hair brush and allow it to dry, then put on the second or third coat as soon as the first is entirely absorbed. A medical journal is authority for the statement that if this course is pursued immediately after the injury discoloration of the bruised tissue will be wholly prevented. It is also said that this remedy is unequaled as a cure for rheumatism or stiffness of the neck.

The President For a Day Story.

The story that David R. Atchison of Missouri was president for a day started as a joke. Atchison was president of the senate at the expiration of President Polk's term, and the law at that time provided that that official should succeed to the presidency in default of both president and vice president, March 4, 1849, was Sunday, and President Zachary Taylor did not take the oath of office until Monday, March 5. Somebody thereupon started the joke that neither Polk nor Taylor was president during the odd day and that Atchison must have been. But if Taylor could not under the constitution be president until he had taken the oath of office how could Atchison? He did not take the oath either.-St. Louis Republic.

The Word "Tariff." The word tariff has an interesting origin. It is derived from the Arabic ta 'rifa, meaning an inventory of fees payable on demand, and became curcent in the following way: A certain Moorish general, by name Tarifa, seized in the year 710 upon a small seaport some twenty miles from what is now Gibraltar and the southernmost town in Europe. Here he founded a station for levying toll on all craft trading in the neighborhood and bestowed his name upon the place, after the manner of Constantine, Alexander and others. The word came eventually to signify a schedule of charges and

THE MOTHER ANTELOPE.

Provides For Her Young. The manner in which the mother antelope protects her young until they are old and strong enough to join the full grown bands in their wanderings is an interesting and wonderful instance of nature's providence. These beautiful creatures live in an open country infested by all kinds of enemies and especially prowled over by the coyote, the gray wolf and the timber wolf, which subsist upon the young of all kinds of animals, yet the mother can easily protect her bables from the fiercest of these marauders. The ene my most dreaded is the soaring engle. There is a variety of cactus, a prickly plant which grows in great abundance all over the western plains, which furnishes her the means for this protection. Horses, cattle, buffale and, in fact, all animals have the danger of treading on this plant. It grows in large patches some four or six inches in height above the ground and forms a thick mut varying in brendth from the size of the top of a man's hat to many feet. It is in the center of one of these patches that the female antelope prepares a place of safety for her young. The thorns of this cactus, while very poisonous and terribly painful to every other animal, for some reason are almost harmless to the antelope. The cactus may lacerate her legs, making them bleed freely, but neither the stickers nor their poison remains, while other animals seldom bleed, but retain the poisonous stickers in their wounds until they become mallement sores, causing excessive swelling of the limbs and very great and long continued suffering. When the antelope has selected her patch of cactus, backing away a few feet, she will make a running jump, bounding high in the air and alighting in the middle of the patch, with all four feet close together, the hoofs pointing downward. Then, springing out again and repeating this operation until she has chopped the roots of the enerus plant to pieces, she loosens and clears a space large enough for standing room. She then will enlarge it by pawing and digging with her sharp hoofs. Here she gives birth to her young in undisturbed security, knowing that she can leave them in comparative safety during the day and return to them at night to give them suck. Should it be in a locality where eagles abound, however, the mother does not venture far away, as the soar ing eagle often swoops down on the young, taking them away if she is not there to do battle for their lives .- H. H. Cross in Century.

Lincoln and the Old Virginian.

Washington was a strong man and a famous wrestler. He was never thrown, which meant much, for wrestling was a favorite amusement with Virginians, many of whom were as nearly invincible as the ancient Greeks. Lincoln, too, could boast classic excellence in the same sport. "It is a curious thing." Lincoln said, when Washington's prowess was first brought to his attention-"it is a curious thing, but that is just precisely my record when I was a youth. I could outlift any man in Illinois, and I never was thrown. If George was round now, I should be pleased to have a tussle with him, and I rather believe that one of the plain people of Illinois would be able to keep up his end against the old Virginian.

Matrimony and Patience,

Matrimony and patience! It is not always a perfect combination, is it? In South Africa the savage tribes have a peculiar ceremony which they put the matrimonial candidate through previous to his entering the holy state, His hands are tied up in a bag containing five ants for two hours. If he bears unmoved the tortures of their stings he is considered qualified to cope with the nagging and daily jar and fret of married life. Such a man would make an admirable husband. He would not be upset by the thoughts of a spring bonnet or grow irritable every time the steak was overdone. The idea of having a patience trial for those about to marry is one that civilized people might adopt.

The Lurgest Described Snake.

Speke, in his narrative of the Journey to the source of the Nile, describes the largest snake that has ever been seen "I shuddered," he says, "as I looked upon the effects of his tre mendous dying strength. For yards around where he lay grass, bushes and saplings-in fact, everything except full grown trees-were cut clean off as if they had been trimmed with an immense scythe. The monster when measured was 51 feet and 21/2 inches in extreme length, while around the thickest portions of its body the girth was nearly three feet."

BLOODLETTING.

Wonderful Manner In Which She

Bloodletting, or "venesection," as it is known scientifically, was once the common remedy for nearly every form of ailment. Washington died of it, in the opinion of modern medical authorities, and soon after his time there was a reaction against venesection. Better medicinal agents accomplished whatever benefits were attributed to this herole treatment, and a better knowledge

Venesection, however, is still employed in certain emergencies by the most advanced practitioners. A German physician has made an extensive study of the subject, with clinical experiments, and reaches the conclusion that in certain cases where the heart and lungs are engorged with blood venesection is permissible because of the speedy relief it gives, often after

DON'T CODDLE YOURSELF.

Fussiness About Health Does More

Harm Than Good. When one thinks of the newfangled ideas about health and sees people on every hand bunting for disease germs In water, milk, meat, fruit and the gtmosphere, analyzing everything, dreading swallowing and in constant fear with every mouthful they eat, one almost wonders whether or not life is worth living. If we are liable to be made the victims of tens of thousands of enemies which are in and around everything, in all liquids and all solids alike, we are in just about the same condition to enjoy life as was one of the olden kings who lived in mortal terror that everybody was trying to poison him. All his foods and drinks, everything, had to be tasted and tested by some trusted member of his house hold before he dared to touch it him-

If there is a pitiful object in the If there is a pitiful object in the world it is a person who has become finical about his health, who lives in terror of germs and must examine and analyze everything he eats or drinks, looking for infection. looking for infection.

It is an insult to one's Creator to go through life whining, complaining and fearing, in morbid terror that a thousand enemies are combined to rob one of comfort, of happiness and of health, Man was made to hold up his head, to walk erect, with boldness, fearlessness and confidence.-Success.

PINEAPPLES.

Way They Grow and How Plants Reproduce.

Pineapples do not grow on trees. Imagine a plant four feet in extreme height from the ground to the tip of leaves. A single stalk at the surface, but dividing at once into swordlike blades or leaves, fifteen in number, from the center of which appears a stiff, upright stem, at the top of which is the fruit. This stem is short, and the crown of the fruit when fully grown is a foot or more below the points of the leaves. At the end of a year and a half from planting each plant produces a single fruit, even as a cabbage plant produces a single head. But the pineapple does not die after fruiting once. Down on the stem below the fruit and among the long, narrow leaves a sucker appears. If allowed to remain this will soon become the head of the plant, and within another year it will yield another fruit. This process may go on for a term of years. In the meantime, however, other suckers will make their appearance.

These are broken off, and when stuck into the ground they put out roots and become other plants. Thus a single pineapple plant may produce a dozen or more others while it is yielding fruit from year to year.-New York Herald.

Not For Strangers.

"What in the world does that mean?" isked the traveler through a sparsely settled region on the cape. "There's no such place on my road map."

The man whom he addressed first took a leisurely survey of the traveler and his horse and then turned his eyes toward the weather beaten sign which bore the single word "Tolpim." "That ain't a name," he said, with dignity; "it's jest an Indication. It means, 'To Long Pond one mile.'

"It's plain enough to folks from near by that's hunting for the pond, and we don't reckon on strangers taking much interest."-Youth's Companion.

In the Frozen North "I suppose the native chiefs set elaborate tables."

"Yes," said the eminent arctic explorer guardedly; "they usually put on a good deal of dog."-Louisville Courier-Journal.

If Is Still Resorted to by Doctors In Certain Emergencies.

of physiology condemned the practice,

Deadly toxins are also present in the blood in some diseases, and venesection reduces them. The lost fluid is replaced with an injection of salt solution, Bloodletting affords relief to the livid sufferer from a distended heart when every breath is a struccle, but its use has been reduced to an exact science, and it is regarded in medicine as a final resort for giving ease in a comparatively restricted group of ailments. The days when it was a cure-all, administered by the corner barber as well as every physician, have disappeared
