Pennywise on Painting

The cost of the paint, be it good or bad, is the minor portion of a bill for painting. It is the painter's time in putting it on that costs. The outlay for paint is rarely more than a fourth, never more than a third. A little personal attention to the painter's work will save you the necessity of hiring him so often.

Sterling Pure White Lead (made by the Old Dutch Process) mixed with Pure Linseed Oil and properly applied lasts many years. Mixtures of unknown ingredients last from one year to three, according to the proportions of real paint (White Lead) they contain. Some mixtures have almost no White Lead, and consequently almost no value as paint. Skilled labor and poor material are a most expensive combination. In using Pure White Lead you get full value for the painter's time.

Send for a booklet containing several handsome reproductions of actual houses, offering valuable suggestions for a color scheme in painting your house. A test for paint purity is also given.

PINEAPPLES.

The Juice of This Fruit is a Great Aid to Digestion.

The word enzyme does not appear to have any connection with pineapple, yet it is the name of the chemical that gives to the luscious fruit the remarkably digestible property which it possesses. The prevailing notion that pineapple juice is excellent for the digestion is supported by medical testimony. Eat a slice of the fruit after dinner, say the doctors, and you will not suffer from dyspepsia.

If you want to see what pineapple can accomplish in the way of digestion, you can easily test it on a piece of raw steak. The action of pineapple juice on meat is to transform it into jelly and then dissolve it when in the human stomach.

Place a slice of the fruit on the raw meat as it lies on a plate, and the upper surface of the steak where the fruit touches it will soon become gelatinous. Enzyme, the active principle of the juice, can be obtained by throwing salt into the juice, thus producing a precipitate.

A good sized pineapple contains two pints of juice, a fact that gives an idea of what a slice of the fruit will do for digestion. If cooked, the pineapple loses its virtue in this respect. It may be asked whether the consumption of the somewhat woody fruit itself is beneficial or not, for that can scarcely be easily digested.

Without doubt it is the juice which does the good, not the flesh of the pineapple, but the property of the juice is so effective that the eating of the fruit itself can do no harm and may even be beneficial, inasmuch as it takes some of the strength of the juice to dissolve it and so prevents the stomach suffering from the too violent effects of the juice.

THE SEISMOGRAPH.

How the Earthquake Indicator Records the Shocks.

In its simplest form an earthquake indicator might be a tray with notched edges so filled with mercury that a shaking of the earth would cause an overflow in the direction of the movement. In the instrument used by science the pendulum is employed, vertical by some Italians, horizontal by the Japanese, English, most European and American observers. A movement of the earth affects everything but the pendulum, which is so freely hung as to remain stationary, and a recording device makes the result visible. Of old with the vertical pendulum a sharp point drew the profile of the movements on a blackened surface. Photographic paper in moving strips serves the modern instruments.

The horizontal pendulum turns on a vertical axis and carries at its extremity a heavy weight which earth shock does not reach. In the Milne seismograph a platinum sheet attached to this weight has a slit intersecting at right angles a slit in a second sheet underneath. In times of quiet reflection light passing through both slits makes one point and prints a straight line on the moving bromide paper. When the earth shakes the lower slit moves and the line becomes crooked, according to the strength of the shock. A clockwork arrangement with shutters and a light times the disturbance.

The instruments are so delicate as sometimes to indicate shocks which no men have felt.—New York World.

Abraham Lincoln's Substitute.

During the earlier days of the war it seems to have been the desire of all prominent men in Washington to have a representative in the ranks, and Lincoln was no exception to the rule. At that time there was a minister named Staples in Washington, one of whose sons, then aged nineteen, had a desire to go to the front. Lincoln heard of him and, after a conference, selected him as his representative, and he proved worthy, for he won honor on the field. He survived the war and finally died in Stroudsburg, Pa. The inscription on the stone over his grave reads as follows: "J. Summerfield Staples, a private of Company C, One Hundred and Seventy-sixth regiment, P. V.; also a member of the Second regiment, D. C. volunteers, as substitute of Abraham Lincoln."

Trouble in the Studio.

The wailing infant had upset the photographer's chair, kicked a hole in the paper rocks and made faces at the little bird which is supposed to bring a smile to all youngsters when they are having their pictures taken.

"Isn't he too cute for anything?" chirped the proud mother. "And just to think I call him Tootsie."

"Tootsie," grunted the impatient photographer. "H'm! I'd call him Cod Liver Oil."

"Why so, sir?"

"Because he is so hard to take."—Chicago News.

No Restored Castle For Him.

"You must admit," said the earl, "that my—ah—ancestry dates back much further than your daughter's."

"Yes," replied the girl's rich old father. "We ain't been able to trace ours back any farther than a certain robber who was hanged in 1634. Now, I s'pose you have a clear record right back to the ape, haven't you?"—Chicago Record-Herald.
