A LUCKY ESCAPE.
Quick Wit and Daring Buse of a Russian Revolutionary.
 Nowhere outside of the pages of fiction would we expect such an incident as the following from the personal story of the Russian revolutionist Narodny. Narodny had just jumped from a window to escape the police. "When I scrambled to my feet I discovered myself in the yard and among half a dozen soldiers. I was without overcoat and hat—a very suspicious figure—and, having neither, I could not escape even could I get by the soldiers who surrounded me," he said.
 "I jerked a card from my pocket—to this day I do not know what it was—and handed it to one of the soldiers. 'Here is my card,' I said rapidly. 'I am a member of the secret police. One of these revolutionists is trying to escape. I am after him. Quick! Give me your coat and hat!'"
 "He automatically obeyed. I slipped on his coat and hat and to all appearances was a soldier of the czar. I walked past the guarded gate of the yard, out into the street. Before me were thousands of soldiers. I saw my friends being brought down from the hall and put into the black vans, about which stood guards of Cossacks. I marched through my friends full of that group are in prison today save only myself and the friend who escaped with me) with the air of a soldier on a very important message and pressed on through the mass of other soldiers that filled the street."—American Magazine.

BARBER SURGEONS.
When the Razor and the Scalpel Were Linked in One Trade.
 More than 400 years old is the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh. At the time it was founded the surgeons and barbers of the city were united as one of the fourteen incorporated trades of Edinburgh. On July 1, 1505, they received their charter from the town council. The charter of the barber surgeons was confirmed by James IV, an early Stuart king of great enlightenment and accomplishment, who took much interest in the progress of the surgeons on account of the needs of his army in time of war.
 In the charter leave was given to the incorporation to control the medical education of the city, such as it was in those days; of bloodletting, to have the sole right of practice and to put down quacks. They were to get every year the body of a criminal who had been executed to practice anatomy on, and they promised in return to do "an obsequy for his soul." Of the first 150 members of the incorporation six were surgeons to the Kings of Scotland.
 As society improved and medical science developed the gulf between the surgeons and barbers widened, and in 1772, as the result of a process in the court of session, the connection was finally terminated. The doctors, or president, of the incorporation of surgeons was for more than 200 years a member of the town council of Edinburgh, ex officio, and several of the deacons were members of the Scottish parliament.

February Legends.
 Why February has twenty-eight days is explained in the legends of the past. One is of an old woman, who, tending her flock, ridiculed the month of February because he had dealt so leniently with her and her sheep. Then February felt insulted and made leap year and borrowed a cold day from March and froze her and her flock. There is a Norman legend which makes it out that February had originally as many days as the other months, but February was a confirmed gambler and lost at domino a day both to January and to March. Strange to say, there is an old story of Egypt, wherein the god of February plays forfeits with the moon and loses certain days.

Not Wholly Ignorant.
 An applicant for a position in the public works department in a certain city was undergoing a civil service examination. With a view to testing his knowledge of history the examining officer asked him what he knew of the Punic wars.
 "The name sounds familiar," said the applicant, "but I can't just remember when it was or where it happened."
 "Don't you know anything about Scipio?"
 "No, sir."
 "Surely you have heard about Hannibal?"
 "Oh, yes, I know all about Hannibal. That's where Mark Twain used to live."

Best Freezer on Earth
 BECAUSE
 1. Ice cream frozen in a "WONDER" has a delicate and delicious consistency unequalled by that frozen in any other.
 2. The operation of freezing requires less exertion because of the scientific arrangement of the paddles which give to the cream a separate and distinct up-and-down motion of the cream in the can. This means rapidity in freezing and the most delicate and delicious ice cream.
 3. It lasts longer than any other because it is more carefully made and only the best material is used. The tub never warps because it is made of pine with absolutely tight fitting staves saturated with paraffine.
 They come in all sizes, but in only one quality.
