STATE CAPITOL DEDICATED

Magnificent Bullding at Harrisburg Pennsylvania.

PRESIDENT DELIVERS ADDRESS

Brief Speeches Were Made by Governor Pennypacker and W. A. Stone-Military Parade Follows.

Pennsylvania's magnificent state capitol was dedicated October 4th with imposing ceremonies, despite a steady downpour of rain, which began to fall at an early hour. The rain was the only discordant feature of the day's proceedings

President Roosevelt and party ar rived on their special train shortly after 11 o'clock and were met at the station by the dedication commission. The President's salute was fired from the arsenal across the river and the party proceeded promptly to the capitol through the drenching rain. Accompanying the President were Surgeon General P. M. Rixey and United States Senators P. C. Knox and Boies Penrose. The President escorted to the capitol by the dedication commission, Mayor Edward Z. Gross, of Harrisburg, and the Governor's Troop.

The President was received at the capitol by Gov. Penaypacker and staff members of the Supreme Court and other honored guests.

Meanwhile a throng of people solid-ly covering the streets for three blocks was waiting in the rain for the appearance of the nation's chief executive, and the most of them were unprovided with umbrellas, taking the downpour in great good nature.

The grandstand was erected State and Third streets. It had no President and guests. The President was undisturbed, apparently, by either the immense throng of people which crowded about him or by the rain which descended in torrents.

The exercises began shortly before 12 o'clock, with Gov. Pennypacker presiding. The band played "Hail to the Chief" as the President entered the grand stand. Everyone rose and remained standing during the rendit-ion of "America," which followed. A Scripture reading by John H. Dillingham, of the Society of Friends, was followed by a silence which was profound and impressive. W. A. Stone was then introduced and formally presented the capitol to the commonwealth as the president of the building commission.

The address accepting the building was delivered by Gov. Pennypacker and it was pronounced one of the governor's most noteworthy efforts. He was greeted with prolonged applause.

Following the governor, President Roosevelt made an address, reading from manuscript. It was a masterly effort and he was given the closest attention throughout its delivery.

Congressmaa Marlin E. Olmsted of Harrisburg, was chief marshal and Col. W. F. Richardson chief of staff. The state constabulary, a large detachment of which was present led the parade, followed by a provisional brigade of the National Guard, State College Cadets, Soldiers' Orphan School Cadets, Carlisle Indian School Cadets and other organizations. There were many bands to enjiven the par-

DUN'S WEEKLY SUMMARY FATAL EXPLOSION IN MINE Unfavorable Developments Have

Appeared Except Storm in the South. R. G. Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: No unfavorable developments have appeared except the damage by storm at the South, which was almost entirely local in effect.

Autumn trade is now in full swing, ecpecial activity being reported in drygoods, millinery and footwear. Manufacturing plants are engaged far in advance in all the leading industries, the metal departments making the most striking exhibits, and the activity of transporters is shown by railway earnings in September 9.2 per cent larger than last year's figures. Crop returns are up to expectations aside from some loss in cotton, which caused a violent rise in prices. Scarcity of most forms of steel and pressure for quick delivery tend to harden quotations, while the rise in pig fron has continued until the inflated position of a few years ago ems about to be attained. Practically all the pig iron furnaces are now in blast and work will soon be started on many new plants of the open variety. Any decrease in demand for structural steel for buildings on account of the approach of winter is more than offset by the urgent ds of car works, which are falling forther behind with deliveries. High prices continue to prevail for minor metals.

The most important development this week in the textlle industries was the limitation of irregularity in primary markets for cotton goods cause of the sharp advance in the price of raw material. Purchasers who had hesitated to place orders beyond immediate needs in the hope that better terms would soon be available changed their attitude abruptly and endeavored to arrange distant deliveries.

Curtailment of production by scarprovision of rain and the elements city of labor has prevented accumula-made things unpleasant for the tion in first hands. No support comes from the export division, a small sale to India being the only business reported this week. of

New England manufacturers who have been operating freely for some time, but interest is shown by Eastern jobbers and large retailers from all sections.

Commercial failures in the United States are 183, against 188 last week, and 200 the preceding week, and 195 the corresponding week last year. Liabilities of commercial failures reported for September are $6,255,995, compared with $8,039,947 a year ago.
