A Good Novel Absolutely Free.

Anna Katherine Green, whose world-famous novel, "The Leavenworth Case," completely revolutionized all detective literature and gave rise to a hundred or more less successful efforts at imitation by lesser writers, has, by her latest book, utterly dumfounded her army of admirers.

This new book is "The Chief Legatee," and has been written expressly for publication in the Sunday issue of The Pittsburg Dispatch, and will begin Sunday, December 2, and be completed in five large weekly installments, handsomely illustrated by staff artists.

It is even more original in its way than was its great predecessor, "The Leavenworth Case." Competent critics declare it is as much better than that earlier masterpiece as the latter was better than the ordinary mystery story. Not only is this startling originality found in the treatment and novel situations, but in the plot itself.

"The Chief Legatee" is unlike any other detective story you ever read. It is as original as "Sherlock Holmes," as stirring and full of suspense as "The Leavenworth Case."

If you desire a famous $1.50 novel ahead of book publication order your newsdealer to deliver regularly The Sunday Dispatch.

Two girl teams of the high school will play a preliminary game. There will be search warrants out for all those who do not attend the game.

Monday morning in chapel Prof. Scott gave a very interesting talk, choosing for the scripture reading a portion of the first chapter of Genesis, which shows how perfectly all things are made and are presented to us by a close observation of nature. He gave a picturesque description of nature's laws. Over dark marshes and gloomy abodes, she spreads a green web and finally spring in her most beautiful apparel dawns and every insect and every flower has a lesson for us which can not fail to interest those who listen to learn.

Miss Ethel Hatten, of DuBois, visited the high school Monday morning.

All day sessions are in vogue for all talkative seniors.

Miss Alice Mitchell and Miss Marie Altman played an instrumental duet in chapel Friday morning. It was highly appreciated.

Prof. Marsh was in New Bethlehem over Sunday. Some of the girls would like to know if he goes to see anybody. If he does, well—?

ARRANGEMENTS PERFECTED.

Prof. Tetrick Signs Contracts With Exceptional Talent to Close His Course.

County Superintendent R. B. Tetrick has been exceedingly fortunate in securing exceptional talent to close out the list of instructors for the coming institute, which was partially announced some weeks ago. At that time two of the evening entertainments were open, the death of Sam Jones, and inability to close a contract with Senator LaFollette, having embarrassed the County Superintendent in his arrangements. The difficulties which then beset the primrose path of institute management have been wiped away by the securing of the contracts of Hon. Champ Clark, of Missouri, and Hon. Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, for a joint debate on Republicanism vs. Democracy on Monday evening, December 17th, and that of the Rev. Dr. Samuel Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn, for his lecture on "The Modern Babylon" on Wednesday evening, December 19th. Messrs. Clark and Grosvenor are known the country over as leading exponents of Democracy and Republicanism, and Prof. Tetrick was exceptionally fortunate to secure them. Their joint debate will be a star feature of the week. Dr. Cadman is the pastor of the Central Congregational church of Brooklyn, N. Y., and one of the most eminent pulpit orators in the country. As a lecturer he has few superiors in the United States. His time is so much taken up that he can give but little of it to the lecture platform, and it was a rare stroke of good fortune that found him in a receptive mood when Prof. Tetrick's call for help at this juncture came to him.

In addition to these gentlemen, Ralph Parlette, the philosopher and humorist, on Tuesday evening, and the Dunbar Bell Ringers, a unique musical organization, on Thursday evening, will afford rare pleasure to the hearers.

Not content with giving to the people an exceptional array of evening entertainments Prof. Tetrick has arranged with Dr. Maurice Penfield Fikes, the eminent Franklin divine, who is fast forging to the front as a popular lecturer, and is even now compelled to refuse many proffered lecture engagements in order to take care of his church work, to appear before the institute at the day sessions on Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning, delivering on these occasions two of his best lectures, "Twentieth Century Opportunities," and "The Man for Tomorrow." These lectures will be absolutely free to all, a rare treat which will certainly be appreciated not only by the teachers but by all patrons of the institute.—Brookville Republican.

A Year of Blood.

The year 1903 will long be remembered in the home of F. N. Tacket, of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood; which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tacket's lungs that death seemed very near. He writes: "Sovereign bleeding from the lungs and a frightful cough had brought me to death's door when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, with astonishing result that after taking four bottles I was completely restored and as time has proven permanently cured." Guaranteed for sore Lungs, Coughs and colds, at Stoke & Feicht Drug Co. stores of Reynoldsville and Sykesville.
