

It is the daily life that tests us, the manner of men we are. It is not our prayers, it is not our profession, but it is the tone of daily intercourse and conduct that decides how we stand. The little homely graces: the cheerful, everyday amenities; the Christ-like spirit uttering itself, not so much in conscious act as in an unconscious influence; not so much in deed as in that subtle aroma which, without name exudes from the saintly soul, to equals and inferiors, to agreeable and disagreeable, to rich, poor, ignorant, to young, to old; bearing burdens; accepting crosses, seeking no great thing to do, content to put self by and be a servant of the lowest—these are fruits of one root—fruits that none can counterfeit—Ex.

A local newspaper is absolutely necessary to any community. It is the home paper that keeps the people of the community in touch with each other by giving them all the news of their own neighborhood and county. For that alone they are of value and worth far more than the small subscription price. They keep the local pride and progressive spirit aroused and in various ways are worth far more to a community than a community ever spends on them. The daily paper, with its large news service and quicker facilities, may, in some instances overshadow the weekly, but the weekly home paper fills a place in the hearts of the people that a daily cannot fill. If you are not a subscriber for a home paper you should be. It would be a dollar well spent.

A freight conductor on the P. R. R. was suspended indefinitely recently because his flagman, who was tired and sleepy, had left a switch open and a passenger train ran into siding and might have caused a bad smash up. The crew had worked fifty-eight hours with only two hours sleep during that time. Men are not machines and must have rest or they are not capable of performing the work expected of them. It is a wonder more accidents don't occur. If the men refuse to go to work when called then the company has no use for them, therefore no matter how tired and sleepy a railroader may be he must go out on his run in an unfit condition and risk his own life, and that of others, or lose his job. A man who only gets two hours sleep out of fifty-eight hours, is not in condition to work and should not be held responsible for mishaps.

If ever there was an evil deserving the condemnation of humane men and woman, it is the child-slavery so common to-day and from which Reynoldsville itself has not been entirely exempt in the past. There may be circumstances which justify taking a child under fourteen years of age out of school and forcing it to become a wage-earner, but in a large majority of cases, outside of the greed and thoughtlessness of parents, it would be difficult to find cause for the existing condition. To rob a child of education is to place him under a handicap that will degrade his life and transform periods that should be sunshine to gloom. There may be a question as to the legality of the Beveridge child-labor bill now before congress, but if congress cannot handle the matter, the separate state legislatures should lose no time in enacting prohibitory legislation.

"The dancing girl" was the subject of a sermon delivered by Dr. Arthur J. Smith, evangelist, in the Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon of last week. There was a large congregation present, mostly of the gentler sex. Dr. Smith's text was from part of the 22nd verse of the 6th chapter of Mark. "And when the daughter of Herodias came in, and danced, and pleased Herod." Dr. Smith said the modern dance is an obscene relic of the heathen dance. He presented facts and logical arguments to show that dancing is injurious to good health, good morals and spiritual life. According to facts given Dr. Smith by persons who have been engaged for years, and have spent fortunes, in rescuing fallen women, 300,000 women fall every year, and that nine out of ten girls leading a life of shame take their first step away from the paths of virtue through the dance, and that they do not all fall in the low down dance, but in the social select dance as well. He cited one case where a Sunday school teacher attended a dance at the home of one of the church officers and it was at that dance she made the step that led her into a shameful life. He spoke of the privileges a young man will take with a girl in the round dance that she would not tolerate in her parlor, and asked why a young man should have privileges in the ball room he could not have in parlor? Dr. Smith said: "I don't say every person who dances sins, but they are in danger of falling away from God." He very emphatically expressed his opinion of the evils of dancing by saying: "I would rather have my daughter bitten by a serpent than to have her go to a ball room."

Punxsutwney certainly needs to practice a little; there playing is ragged and of the poorest order. R. H. S. took them into camp Monday night by the largest score that our team has been able to make. It might have been worse, if R. H. S. had had a little more time. There is nothing to say for the game.

The Laboring Man Talks

Going my way? Yes, I'm a little late. Stopped to buy some Sealshipt oysters for supper.

"What are they?" Why, nothing but just the finest oysters you ever tasted in your life.

"Too dear for a workingman?" That's where you are dead wrong. They are the only oysters a poor man can afford to buy.

When you buy Sealshipt oysters you get solid meats, and you are not paying for dirty ice water. My wife says that a pint of Sealshipt will go as far as a quart of any other oysters.

Come down some Sunday night and my wife will give you an oyster stew that will make you think you never tasted an oyster before.
