

WOMEN WHAT ARE WEARING

New York City.—The plain, or tailored, shirt waist is in demand at all seasons of the year. Nothing else is quite so serviceable and practical or daily wear and nothing will stand austerer with such success. Here is one of the newest and latest that is adapted to linen, to Madras, to per-

Old Gaiter Recalled.

Boots with patent leather or dull kid vamps and colored cloth tops, in whose sides are set strips of elastic matching the cloth, vaguely recall the days of the prunella gaiter.

Directoire Coats.

Long Directoire coats in drap seuple will be a feature of the coming modes in tailor garments, arranged very frequently with high waist-belts of soft black satin, finished with revers of the same material, and fastened with large buttons of dull gold.

Nine-Gored Skirt With Panels.

The skirt that is plain at the upper portion and full at the lower is unquestionably the favorite for walking length and is essentially graceful and satisfactory. Here is one that is quite novel, made with panels that are plain above and pleated below and which provides abundant and graceful flare. As illustrated it is made of amethyst colored broadcloth, stitched with beading silk and trimmed with buttons, but it is adapted to all seasonable materials, and it can be made more elaborate with trimming of braid if liked.

The skirt is cut in nine gores with extensions at their lower edges. These extensions are laid in inverted pleats and the panels are joined to the gores above them, and to their upper edges cale and to all cotton shirtings and also to light-weight flannels, silks and the like. As illustrated it is made of taffeta, stitched with beading silk and is worn with a plaid belt, which matches the fancy stock, this stock combining the silk of the waist with the plaid silk tie. It would, however, be an exceedingly appropriate waist for cotton and linen, the tie being either of silk or washable material as preferred or the plain stock only being used.

The waist is made with a fitted lining, which can be used or omitted as material renders desirable, and consists of the fronts and the back. The front edges are finished with broad hems and the fronts are laid in alternate tucks and box pleats, while the back is plain. There are regulation shirt sleeves and there is a plain stock over which the tie is arranged, the two closing together at the back.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is three and three-quarter yards twenty-one, three and three-eighth yards twenty-seven, or two yards forty-four inches wide, with half yard of silk for the tie.

while the fullness at the back is laid in inverted pleats.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is eleven and a quarter yards twenty-seven, six and a half yards forty-four or six and a quarter yards fifty-two inches wide if material has figure or nap; nine yards twenty-seven, five and a half yards forty-four or five yards fifty-two inches wide if it has not.

yards twenty-seven, five and a half yards forty-four or five yards fifty-two inches wide if it has not.

Velvet Hems.

It is a wonder that velvet hems are not too heavy for such sheer gowns as chiffons and lace, but they are found in almost every case this winter.

Baby Lamb Preferred.

Hats covered with baby lamb are much worn, this fur being thin and supple enough to be handled as milliners handle velvet.

Gray and Red Ruches.

Several of the best houses have launched very fetching neck ruches and muffs of soft fringed silk. Many wide frills of the silk are used, and at the front of the neckpiece and on the large muffs are posed several big velvet and silk roses matching the silk and held by dip knots of velvet ribbon with many ends and loops. These sets are shown in several of the fashionable grays and reds.
