THE SENIOR CLASS.

I.
Spring is here, the robins have come;
Study you must, school is near done.
Wait not for the rest to hear you along,
But take your work with a laugh and a song.

II.
Exams so hard you will have to pass;
Do not be faint hearted, it is all over at last.
Your work, if well done, will meet with reward.
Always do your best and leave the rest, say never a word.

III.
Commencement so called, it is the beginning and end;
One life to be broken, one life to begin;
The memories of the old, the struggles of the new,
Must all be accomplished by me and by you.

IV.
The diploma you get may mean good or bad,
But it is now too late, the time you have had
Will never return—the wheel has turned past.
You can never recall the moments you've lost.

V.
Life's fall will soon come, so relentless is fate;
Father Time has a debt that by all must be paid.
If you have sown wrong, so must you reap;
The moments have gone—time ne'er will repeat.

The last number of the lecture course will be given by Gillilan, the prince of humorists. If you wish to enjoy an evening with a broad thinker, as well as a clever entertainer, you want to hear Gillilan in "Sunshine and Awkwardness."

Professor Scott gave a very interesting talk Monday morning on Thaddeus Stevens, telling how Stevens introduced and succeeded in passing the bill in congress favoring the free school system, and thus we owe a great deal to Stevens.

Miss Fannie Alexander visited room 15 Monday afternoon.

It is warm weather, but looks sometimes will freeze.

This is a very hard season on hats, isn't it, Alex.

The DuBois H. S. defeated the R. H. S. in one of the roughest games of the season.

Miss Anna Kunes visited chapel Monday morning. Miss Kunes is off for Easter and she said that for a good rest Reynoldsville was the best place she knew.

Gone to His Reward.

Mention was made in THE STAR last week that W. A. McConnell, most of his life a resident of Beechwoods, had died at his home in Falls Creek and from the Falls Creek Herald we clip the following short sketch of his life:

"W. A. McConnell was a man who made many friends wherever he became acquainted because of the honest and square manner he had of dealing with his fellowman. There was never any question regarding the honesty of any transaction in which he was interested, and he made it a rule of his life to suffer himself rather than see those who had placed confidence in him suffer. He had a kind and gentle disposition, and was willing that his right hand should be doing good without the knowledge of his left. Many persons are still living who can recall instances in which the deceased has been of benefit to some worthy person or cause. He had lived a christian life for three score years, and now that he has been gathered to the Father he will find his reward."

And So it is

Recently a Punxsutawney business man handed us an article complaining about citizens sending out of town for goods he manufactured here. We read it over carefully and when we had finished said to him: "By the way, Mr.—where did you get the letter had this article is written on?" "Oh," he replied, "there was a fellow around one day taking orders for a firm in Reedville and Loderock them from him." We handed him his manuscript and informed him that he had no kick coming. And there are many others of this kind, not only in this town but everywhere. They expect the newspapers to continually remind their readers that it is an unpardonable sin to send out of town for goods that can be purchased at home, but the minute they are in need of anything in the newspaper man's line they either send to the larger cities or buy from a traveling solicitor.—Punxsutawney Republican.

Extraordinary Humorist.

Mr. Gillilan proved a splendid addition to the Star Course, and a remarkable attraction for Elmira pleasure-seekers. Mr. Gillilan is a humorist, but of an extraordinary kind—a humorist who is really funny, who gets fun out of the ordinary events, turns and twists words and phrases to an exceptionally ridiculous degree and yet who tingles his humor with beautiful thoughts. He thus awakens emotions other than the merely ludicrous, and while he furnishes recreation he also instructs and uplifts. In some of his verses and epigrams he has not been outdone by Riley or Field. A continuation of his writing and platform work will make Mr. Gillilan as well known as other American humorists who have won world-wide distinction.—Elmira Advertiser. At Assembly hall Monday evening, April 1st.

Carpenter Organ

Buying an organ is different from buying anything else.

It's a purchase that lasts a life time, so why not get the BEST organ, even if you have to pay a little more—you're sure that you'll never be disappointed, and the difference in price when spread over a period of twenty-five years isn't going to affect you very seriously. No use getting a flashy-looking, cheap organ, with its imperfections covered up, because you are pretty certain of getting an organ that is going to cause you trouble and annoyance as long as it is in your home. You can't appreciate how good a CARPENTER ORGAN is until you see and hear one, so call and hear these organs at of feeding Teddy with good Ice Cream seems an enormity.
