

When the robins sing and build their nests, women clean house and turn everything topsy-turvy, men take cold meals and growl like a bear, then we are reminded that it is spring time, "gentle Annie."

There are people in Reynoldsville who are still being influenced by what is known as the Bishop Lawrence endless chain letter writing, notwithstanding the fact that it has been exposed by the press in general. A Reynoldsville minister in speaking of it last week said, "That abominable endless chain letter." Some people are superstitious enough to think that some dire calamity will befall them, as stated in the letter, if they do not write a certain number of these letters for nine days and mail them to other people. Christian people, at least, should not be influenced by such foolishness. If you receive one of these letters throw it into waste basket or fire and do your part to break the chain as soon as possible.

A Chicago grocery house sent out a number of circulars to citizens of this town in which they made a liberal offer—for themselves. They are really willing to allow any person in Reynoldsville to sell ten books, which the grocery house will furnish, at $1.50 apiece, making a total of $15.00 for the ten books, and the person who sells the books, if they can, are to send the $15.00 to the Chicago firm and they will ship $10.00 worth of groceries free to the one who sold the books. Just think of their liberality? Only have to sell ten books, that might possibly have cost the firm 50 cents apiece, or $5.00 for the ten, and they will give you $10.00 worth of groceries. I n't it surprising how generous some of the city business men are getting to be? Then how about the groceries when you do get them?

Are all the enterprising citizens of Reynoldsville content with our present industrial and business affairs in general, or do you think we should bear a little louder hum of industry in this community? With cheap fuel, good water, fine sites, good railroad facilities and natural advantages in general we think that if a strong effort is made in the right direction that before autumn time of 1907 one or two large industries could be added to the number already giving employment to the men of our town. There is one thing sure, if we sit down and fold our hands and do not make an effort the number of factories will not be increased in Reynoldsville. In this day of activity in building up towns and communities we must get up and hustle or we will not be in it. What shall we do? Be content with what we have or go after more industries? The industrial welfare of a community should be in the hands of a live board of trade or some other organization of business men. Where are we at?

Under the present law the supervisors of a township have to do their work without pay, which is not just. If it is necessary to have supervisors, and the law provides for three in each township, then they should receive pay for the work they do. Why should men give their time and attention to this work without getting remuneration? Again, it is not right. A bill has been introduced in the legislature which provides that supervisors be paid fifty cents a year for each mile under their supervision. The average mileage in each township in the state is about 65 miles, which would amount to $32.50 to be divided among three supervisors. That is not enough. A supervisor should have not less than $2.00 a day for every day's service given to township. The law is new yet and competent men have been willing to do the work for nothing, but it will finally result in the office going begging for men to do the work without compensation.

There are five special days to be observed each year, Christmas, Easter, Decoration Day, Fourth of July and Thanksgiving Day, which are not, generally speaking, observed as they should be. A large number of people think only of Christmas as a day for giving and receiving presents, and for having a general good time, forgetting that it is the birthday of Jesus. Easter, apparently, receives no higher thought by many people than a time for eating eggs and wearing new and fine toggery. Decoration day has become a day for ball games, dances, &c., and the old soldier is forgotten by a large number of people. July Fourth is a day for general sports, drunkenness and revelry, and patriotism is not given much consideration. Thanksgiving Day, after the barns and store houses have been filled from a bountiful harvest, only a few of the teeming millions take time to give thanks to the Lord for the harvest. A big dinner is about all that Thanksgiving Day means to many people. Thus these special days are not observed as intended or as they should be.

Prof. Edward P. Elliott will be here Sunday. He has been re-engaged to teach the Junior class in elocution. The size of the class and the talent that is undoubtedly in it promises one of the best contests that has been given.

Prof. W. W. Kiple rendered a beautiful selection in chapel Friday morning. We expected to hear some more but Mr. Kiple's E-string broke, making it impossible to play any more. We hope that he will come some other morning and finish our entertainment.

Wallace Mitchell led devotional exercise Monday morning. After reading he sang for us, which was highly appreciated.

Miss Maude Pratt, '06, is home from Allegheny College. Miss Pratt is still keeping up her good work and if she keeps on as she has started will certainly bring credit to the R. H. S.

There seems to be quite a disturbance in the air over the junior side. Now if they are contemplating a reception we would be pleased to give them some advice.

Miss Amy Bollinger, '05, a student at Bucknell University, and Miss Geneva Milliren visited the high school Friday morning.

Gillian, the humorist, failed to appear Monday evening in Assembly hall on account of missing his train.

Monday being All Fools' Day was naturally the birthday of the sophomore class.

"Competition is the life of trade." Some of the freshmen have summer and winter homes.

"Mac," remember "It's the early bird that gets the worm."

Sadie's favorite line of poetry is: "The Smith, a mighty man is he."

Prof. Marsh—Mr. Coleman, do you always study? Mr. Coleman—"N-n-no, only wh-when I t-t-talk."

Twenty-four little Freshmen staying after school; At thirty they were dismissed, And thus they broke the rule.

Twenty-four little Freshmen Longing to break the rule; And one bright sunny afternoon They all played "hook" from school.

Twenty-four little Freshmen, Whose names I dare not tell, When sent to the board for Algebra—How the chalk and erasers fell.

So the twenty-four little Freshmen Struggle onward day by day; Till at last they'll win the battle And then they'll be in for play.

A Safe Investment

If you want to be sure of a permanent, satisfactory investment, it must be a Carpenter Organ

Buying an organ is different from buying anything else.

It's a purchase that lasts a life time, so why not get the BEST organ, even if you have to pay a little more—you're sure that you'll never be disappointed, and the difference in price when spread over a period of twenty-five years isn't going to affect you very seriously. No use getting a flashy-looking, cheap organ, with its imperfections covered up, because you are pretty certain of getting an organ that is going to cause you trouble and annoyance as long as it is in your home. You can't appreciate how good a CARPENTER ORGAN is until you see and hear one, so call and hear these organs at
