STONING A TIGER.

The Punishment of a Man Eater That Killed a Tibetan.

Fifty years ago tigers were very common even in the high hills of western Tibet, writes C. A. Sherring in his account of that country. At the present time, however, owing to the increase of population and the general spread of cultivation, they have become rare, and the appearance of a man eater who carried off a poor old woman on the slope of Chipla created consternation.

On the following day there were gathered together a hundred grim men, armed only with axes and stones, for they had not a gun among them.

Fortune favored the brave, for the tiger was found asleep under a rock. At once each man dropped silently into the cover of the brushwood and piled a heap of stones near to his hand, while one of the most trusted of the party was commissioned to stalk to the top of the rock and drop a huge stone on the sleeping brute.

So well was the work done that the stone fell true on the tiger's back, and immediately, with a roar, the wounded beast sprang up and, seeing his enemies, who leaped from their cover, charged the line.

But a hundred men, desperate as to consequences, throwing stones with might and main, are not to be awed or turned from their purpose lightly. The stones broke the tiger's teeth and went into his mouth, and his body soon became a mass of wounds.

Turning, he tried to escape and took his pursuers up hill for a mile, but wherever he paused and whatever he did he could not escape the pitiless rain of missiles. The blow on his back, first given, effectively checked his speed, and finally, worn out, he came to lay under a great cliff.

The rest was easy. He was immediately hemmed in, and the stones were showered on him thicker than ever and hued with redoubled energy. As he sunk down the villagers rushed in and dispatched him with their axes. -- Youth's Companion.

A Fatal Error.

Borrowes—Nellie, hand me my umbrella, will you? It has commenced to rain. Mrs. B.—I lent your umbrella to Mr. Sweetfern last night. Borrowes—What in thunder did you do that for? Didn't you know it was his?—Spare Moments.

Did Her Worst.

Hicks—She threatened all sorts of things, and finally he got desperate and exclaimed, "Do your worst!" Wicks—And what did she do? Hicks—Very coolly she began to play the piano. Wicks—I see. She took him at his word.

Quite a Difference.

"Say, paw, what does it mean to live to a ripe old age?" "When a rich man gets to be eighty, my son, he is at a ripe old age. A poor man is merely old and decrepit." —Milwaukee Sentinel.

Bitten by a Spider.

Through blood poisoning caused by a spider bite, John Washington, of Boqueville, Tex., would have lost his leg, which became a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes: "The first application relieved, and four boxes healed all the sores." Heals every sore, 25c. at Stoke & Feicht Drug Co. Reynoldsville and Sykesville.
