The governor has signed an act of Assembly making it illegal to sell, or give, or cause to be sold or given, cigarettes or cigarette paper to minors. It should be carefully noted that each violation of this law is punished by a fine of at least $100. Dealers should note, and be careful.

Hon. W. O. Smith, of Punxsutawney, who was a member of the state legislature several terms as a representative from Jefferson county, and who served two terms in the National Congress, is being urged by a number of his friends to be a candidate for Congress next year. Ex-Congressman Smith has not fully decided yet whether to concede to the request of his friend and be a candidate or not. Mr. Smith has certainly had the experience to enable him to give the people good service in Congress. A new man is so thoroughly handicapped that no matter how brilliant he may be or how hard he may work, he cannot be of much service to his constituents until he has served several terms. The custom of the house has made it impossible for a congressman to be appointed on important committees until he has served three or four terms. There are some men in Congress who have been members of that body twenty, and as high as thirty years.

Reynoldsville's willingness to offer liberal inducements to manufactures to locate plants here is beginning to attract attention abroad. Manufacturers are beginning to visit our town to investigate the opportunities and it would be strange indeed if several large plants are not located here in the next few years.

Wednesday of last week a representative of one of the largest wood working establishments in the United States made a special visit to Reynoldsville to investigate conditions, shipping facilities, etc., with a view of locating a plant here. He spent the day visiting our present industries and meeting some of the representative business leaders of town. Naturally the glad hand was extended everywhere and assurance extended that if his firm cared to make any proposition, the local people would willingly meet it half way. He expressed himself well pleased with the town and in leaving expressed that when a decision is finally made, Reynoldsville would stand a very favorable chance of securing the industry.

In discussing the project, the gentleman stated that a plant employing about sixty men was being considered and they asked little or nothing in the way of taking stock or bonds. A free site and first-class shipping facilities were the chief requisites.

In a speech at the Jamestown Exposition recently President Roosevelt said: "Since I have been President I have visited every state and territory within the borders of the Union, save such as can only be reached by sea. I have traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. I have spoken at country fairs, to colleges, to commercial and business organizations, to associations of professional men, to labor organizations, to men of every creed and parentage. The thing that has struck me most has been the essential oneness, the essential unity of our people. In the fundamentals I have found American citizens to be just about the same everywhere. In whatever locality of the country we live, whatever our fortune or occupation in life, there exist just about the same essential good qualities and much the same shortcomings in any gathering of our citizens. Of course, each community has its especial temptations, its especial shortcomings; and if it is wise each community will try to cure itself rather than to cause heartburnings by railing at the shortcomings of a sister community. There is ample field for the reform energies of every one of us in his or her particular sphere of home and neighborhood activity. Not only is all of this true as between one community and another, but it is just as true between one class of our citizens and another. Now and then we meet well-meaning people who have a genuine horror and dread of all rich men and think of them as being set apart by peculiar vice and iniquity. Now and then we meet equally well-meaning rich men who have an equally irrational dread of those whom they style "labor leaders." In each case I think the hostility is in large part due to a want of sympathy caused by complete ignorance of the men who arouse such distrust or anger. As a matter of fact, if we take a given number of men of large fortune and a like number of wage-workers, we find that in their essential human nature they are all alike. In each group we find men as wise and foolish, as good and as bad as in the other group. Such being the case it is well that, so far as possible, when the men of a given group, as a whole, act in a way that we deem contrary to the public interest, we should treat the action as a wrong to be remedied rather than as a wrong to be avenged."

WANTED TO GO HENCE.

"Skinny" Wray Took an Overdose of Strychnine but Did Not "Shuffle Off."
 John Wray, familiarly known as "Skinny" Wray, whose legs were paralyzed two years ago and who has not been able to walk since, only being able to get down town on a wheel chair, became tired of his continued suffering and helplessness last Friday evening and took an overdose of strychnine for the avowed purpose of ending his earthly career. A doctor was summoned promptly and he was given an antidote and his life was prolonged.

Three million dollars on hand from the appropriation made by the legislature in 1905 for the improvements of the roads in Pennsylvania, and six million more appropriated by the last legislature, making nine millions in all. It made it look as if there would be big improvements on the public highways this year and next, but Gov. Stuart has changed the aspect greatly by cutting five million off the six million appropriated during the last session, leaving but four million. Instead of nine million, available for the next two years. This will most likely delay the public road improvements in Winslow township and the paving of Main street in this borough from Seventh street to borough line.
