A canny Scot was being shown over a man-of-war for the first time in his life and, being interested in all he saw, piled his guide with all sorts of questions. The marine seemed particularly to interest him, and, going up to one, he pointed to the "grenade" in the marine's cap and asked what it was. The marine looked at him in surprise. "Don't you know what that is?" he asked. "Why, that's a turnip, of course." "Ach, man," replied the Scot impatiently, "I was no axin' about yer head."—Cradford Times.

Flattering, but a Knock.
"Even with daffodily," said Mark Twain at a dinner, "you can't please some men. I remember when I was a reporter in Virginia City there was a factor I liked—I had camped once on Lake Tahoe with him—and in an obituary I decided to give him a card. I wrote, 'Dr. Sawyer was called in, and under his prompt and skillful treatment the patient died Monday.' But 'Dr. Sawyer, somehow, wasn't pleased.'—Kansas City Star.

Much Worn.
"These trousers are very much worn this season," said the tailor, displaying his goods.
"So are the ones I have on," replied the poet sadly.

The Headaches of Growing Girls

No medicine in these troubles gives the same splendid results that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills do.

If there is any time in a girl's life when she needs watching and care it is during the early years of her life. The rapid growth and changes that occur and the strain of school duties all call for additional strength. Dr. A. W. Chase realized this and met the requirements of the condition with his unequalled nerve and general tonic, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills, and to prove their great value in such cases we give you the statement of Mrs. Geo. Shutz, 547 Fair St., New Philadelphia, Ohio, who says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are an excellent medicine. My little girl was so run down she had to stay out of school—nervous headaches and nervousness as well as general weakness was her trouble. The medicine built her up finely, cured her nervousness and headaches—gave her strength and enabled her to return to her studies. I have used them myself as well, and find them an excellent nerve and general tonic." 50c a box at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Charming Woman

Is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, clear smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak woman, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion. HE HIRED WEBSTER.

A Sharp Nantucket Man's Bargain With the Great Lawyer.

Of course Webster was in demand by those who could afford to pay for his services. A sharp Nantucket man is said to have got the better of the great defender of the constitution in an amusing way, however. He had a small case which was to be tried at Nantucket one week in June, and he posted to Webster's office in great haste. It was a contest with a neighbor over a matter of considerable local interest, and his pride as a litigant was at stake. He told Webster the particulars and asked what he would charge to conduct the case.

"Why," said Webster, "you can't afford to hire me. I should have to stay down there the whole week, and my fee would be more than the whole case is worth. I couldn't go down there for less than $1,000. I could try every case on the docket as well as one, and it wouldn't cost any more, for one case would take my time for the entire week anyway."

"All right, Mr. Webster," quickly responded the Nantucketer. "Here's your $1,000. You come down, and I'll fix it so you can try every case."

Webster was so amused over this proposition that he kept his word. He spent the entire week in Nantucket and appeared on one side or the other in every case that came up for hearing. The shrewd Nantucketer hired Daniel out to all his friends who were in litigation and received in return about $1,500, so that he got Webster's services for nothing and made a good profit to boot.

The Hygiene of Underwear.

The average person wearing two sets of underclothing a week, says the Youth's Companion, will make the change in the middle of the week, but it would be far better if the two sets were kept going the entire week on alternate days. With the biweekly change, the clothes worn during the day are aired only for seven or eight hours in the twenty-four and never have the purifying process of a sunbath. With two sets going on alternate days, one set can be aired two nights and one day, and, if possible, should be hung up where they can receive the direct rays of the sun for some hours. They should not be kept in a dark closet.

LINKED WITH DEATH.

Articles That Brought Tragedy to Their Owners.

SOME QUEER COINCIDENCES.

The Hindoo Idol That Mme. Carnot Ordered Destroyed—A Grim Exhibit in a London Museum—A Ring That Brought Its Owners to Suicide.

Of course the psychologists have explanations for them all, but there are lots of things that happen that somehow do not respond readily to these so-called explanations of "purely mental effect" or "accidental coincidences" and all that sort of thing. When Mme. Carnot, widow of Sadi Carnot, died and her will was read, a clause in it caused considerable comment. This was to the effect that a certain small Hindoo idol carved from a hard stone which would be found among her property must be taken out and crushed until completely destroyed. Many marveled at this apparently singular request, for the idol seemed a harmless, ugly little thing, but her instructions were carried out to the letter.

The idol had been presented to Sadi Carnot years before he had ever thought of the presidency of France by a friend who had brought it from India. Later he learned that there was a legend attached to it which asserted that whosoever would retain it in his possession would rise to the fullest height of power in his chosen profession, but die of a stab wound when at the zenith of his career. Carnot traced the history of the idol and found that for 500 years the rulers who had possessed it had all died either in battle or by assassination of stab wounds. Yet he laughed at the story, called the facts advanced by his search a mere chain of coincidences and retained the idol. He died by a dagger in the hands of an assassin; hence Mme. Carnot's strange request.

In Chicago a pawnbroker has a queer looking old turpin of a watch that he will not sell and will not wear, for he knows its history. He bought it at a sale of accumulated police property, and after the sale as a warning one of the police officials related three "coincidences" in connection with it. The first Chicago man to own the watch, so far as the police knew, had been killed by a burglar, and the watch was one of the few things the thief got away with. A few weeks later the burglar, with a party of his pals, pursued by the police for another crime, took refuge in a house on the outskirts of the city and sought to hold the officers at bay. All were taken alive except the burglar, and he was shot dead. The watch was found on his body. It was around the detective bureau for a long time, and one day one of the force asked permission to take it home to show some friends, his description of its quaint, curious case having aroused their curiosity. On his way back to report that night, with the watch in his possession, he was shot dead by a crook who had a long standing grudge against him.

The pawnbroker put the watch in his showcase, but purely as an ornament, and made such investigation regarding its history as he could. He learned that it had been made in France more than a hundred years ago, and five men who had worn it had died violent deaths. Yet there were all coincidences, and the curse of the old woman from whose hands it had been snatched by a thief in Bordeaux shortly after it left its maker's hands had nothing to do with the case whatever.

In the South Kensington museum, London, there is an object catalogued 23,459. It is a cast of a woman's face and was found in an excavation not far from Luxor, in Egypt. The cast is that of a beautiful woman, but the face wears an expression of sinister evil. The man who found the cast died within twenty-four hours after he had touched it, and the two workers who handled it died within a few weeks. Three of the carriers who handled it on the Nile boat died within a short space of time, and the man who reshipped it at Cairo also died within less than a week after he had played his part in the work of getting it to its destination. All these were seemingly natural deaths, but it is odd that all the men whose fingers touched the cast in Egypt should have died so soon after the handling.

Then there is the ring of which Girouard, the French detective, has told us and which now is in one of the museums of Paris. It is odd in that it is flexible, slightly so, for it is formed like a twisted serpent in closely woven gold links with an opal on the top of the head, two tiny emeralds for eyes and a ruby in its mouth. Seven such rings are not apt to be in existence in any one city, yet seven times during the twenty-nine years Girouard served the Parisian police in a position which brought him to the morgue daily he found this ring on the bodies of suicides. Four times it had been claimed by relatives of the dead, and twice had it been sold. The seventh time Girouard saw to it that it went through the usual red tape channels to a place where it could no longer be worn.—New York Press.

A Wonderful Cataract.

The falls of Iguazu, situated near where Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil meet, form one of the most wonderful cataracts in the world, being greater in extent and more varied in character than the better known falls of Niagara. The first plunge of the Iguazu falls is 210 feet, followed by two others of 100 feet each, while between the two series of falls there are cataracts and rapids covering a vast expanse and surrounding picturesque islands.

By virtue of the hereinafter, in part, recited order of the above named Court, made on the 23rd day of August, A. D., 1907, all the stock of merchandise, fixtures, etc., of the stock of Charles Philip Koerner, the above named bankrupt, will be exposed for sale under the terms and conditions of said order and sold by Henry Hoppel, Receiver in Bankruptcy, at the store lately occupied by the said Charles Philip Koerner, of Reynoldsville, Jefferson county, Pennsylvania, at 10 o'clock, a. m., August 15th, 1907.

ORDER OF COURT, ordered that all bids be forwarded to the Receiver, Henry Hoppel, at the address aforesaid, and that each bid must be accompanied by a certified check in the sum covering 10 per cent. of the amount bid.
IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that said stock of merchandise, stock, fixtures, etc., now in possession of said receiver, Henry Hoppel, be disposed of as public sale in bulk or by the piece, to the highest bidder at 10 o'clock, a. m., on the 15th day of August, A. D., 1907, at the store room formerly occupied by said bankrupt in Reynoldsville, Pennsylvania, at least three days prior to the time fixed for said sale.
IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that notice of such sale be inserted in THE STAR, a local newspaper published at Reynoldsville, Pennsylvania, at least 10 days prior to date of said sale and that notice of said sale be forwarded to all known creditors of said bankrupt as aforesaid; that the inventory taken by said appraisers be exhibited in the law office of W. T. Darr, Esquire, in the Borough of Reynoldsville, Pennsylvania, and that all persons interested be allowed to inspect said stock of merchandise, stock, fixtures, etc., now in possession of said receiver, located in the room formerly occupied by said bankrupt in Reynoldsville, Pennsylvania, at least three days prior to the time fixed for said sale.

Receiver in Bankruptcy of Charles Philip Koerner.
