The Daily "Star."

Today THE STAR makes its first appearance as a daily paper and for the present will likely only be issued during Old Home Week. We are not fully equipped to issue a first-class daily continuously, but if the merchants of Reynoldsville are anxious to have the daily continue longer than this week and will give it the advertising patronage they are giving it this week, we will get equipped and continue to publish THE STAR daily.

We have experienced considerable difficulty in getting typesetters to set the daily this week, and are somewhat handicapped, but expect to be able to give the readers of THE STAR all the news of importance that occurs in our town and community each day during this week.

If you have visitors, or news items of any kind, report the same to THE STAR office, or to some one connected with THE STAR force and it will be published.

The daily will be sold on the streets by boys, at the news stand or at THE STAR office for a cent a copy. We solicit the patronage of all our citizens for this week. There is not a family in town but can spend six cents for a home daily for one week.

PITTSBURGH EXPOSITION.

Doors Swing Open on Wednesday Night of Next Week, Aug. 28.

When the big doors of the Pittsburg Exposition swing open at seven o'clock Wednesday evening, August 28th, the thousands of visitors who are accustomed to visit the Expo on the opening night will witness a myriad of changes. Day and night the hundreds of workmen are kept agoing now to have the $100,000 worth of improvements completed in time for the reception of the multitudes. Music hall, which visitors have grown accustomed to in years gone by, is a thing of the past. Instead there stands a huge auditorium with elevated floor, of wonderful acoustic properties and capable of seating 3,500 people. Here on Wednesday evening, August 28th, will be dedicated Pittsburg's New Music Hall—a hall that music lovers have pined for for years but which they had hardly dared to realize.

The other improvements being made in Machinery Hall and the main building are progressing rapidly and President Francis J. Torrance of the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society during the past week congratulated the board of directors and the management on the progress being made.

The Bostock animal arena, which occupied a large space in Machinery Hall last year, is being redoubled in size for this year's show. Last season it was one of the features of the Exposition, but this year with the enlarged arena, it will be more entertaining than ever.

There will be many new inventions in the way of amusement this year at the exposition. In the amusement arena, outside Music Hall, there will be a number of up-to-date fun devices, aside from the merry-go-round, roller coaster, Ferris wheel, etc. The pony track between Machinery Hall and the main building is being improved this year and will no doubt prove more popular than ever to the little ones.
