Official—Reynoldsville.

ORDINANCE NO 124.

REGULATING the manner and terms upon which the owners of property or other persons, may make connection to any public sewer, or branch thereof, in the Borough of Reynoldsville; providing for the payment of fees and how permission to make such connection can be obtained; regulating the fee to be paid to the Inspector of sewers and providing a penalty for the violation of any of the rules or regulations.

Be it enacted and ordained by the Borough and Town Council of the Borough of Reynoldsville, and it is hereby enacted and ordained by authority of same:

Sec. 1. That from and after the passage of this ordinance it shall be the duty of all persons wishing to tap into or make connection to any public sewer or branch thereof, within the jurisdiction of the Borough of Reynoldsville, to first make written application to the Clerk of Council for permission so to do, such written application to state the premises and sewer desired to be connected. If the person making the application has not directly paid or contributed by a special assessment towards the expense of the construction of the section of the sewer for which application for permission to tap into or connect with is made, the person making such application shall pay to the Clerk of Council for the use of the Borough, a fee of twenty dollars for permission to connect with the said sewer.

Sec. 2. When application is made to the Clerk as above provided and the fee paid, if the person making application be required to pay the fee the Clerk shall notify the Sewer Inspector who shall designate the place where the connection shall be made to the public sewer, or branch thereof; and work shall be done under the supervision of the Sewer Inspector and to his satisfaction. The sewer Inspector shall be entitled to receive and demand for his services before the connection is made, a fee of seventy-five cents, which said fee shall be paid by the person making the application, and the said fee shall be payment in full to the Sewer Inspector for his services in making the connection or supervising the same.

Sec. 3. For any violation of the above rules or regulations, the person offending shall be liable to a fine of not less than $25.00 nor more than $50.00 for each offense, to be recovered for the use of the borough as other fines and penalties are collectable by law.

Section 4. Whenever anything is forbidden or directed by the provisions of this ordinance by using the general terms, anyone, any person, the person, every person, and such person, or the relative pronoun he, referring to such general term, the same prohibition or direction, if the contrary be not expressed, is extended to more persons than one, to females as well as males, and to corporations and partnerships doing or permitting the same to be done.

Sec. 5. That any ordinance or part of ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same are hereby repealed so far as the same effects this ordinance.

Passed and enacted finally by the Town Council of Reynoldsville, Pennsylvania, at a regular meeting held at the Council Chamber on Tuesday, the 6th day of August, 1907, at 10:30 p. m.

J. C. KING,
President of Council.
CLEMENT W. FLYNN,
Secretary of Council.
And now, August 13th, 1907, the foregoing ordinance is submitted to me, read, considered and approved.

A LOST CONTRACT.

The Little Thing That May Sometimes Prevent a Sale.

A pen once lost me an order. I had just worked up the executive of a large concern into a desire to buy. I had my contract form lying on my desk with my finger on the dotted line.
He reached over toward his pen rack, took off a pen and plunged it into the ink well. He turned to me with a frown on his face—the well was empty.

I was ready with a fountain pen.
The pen was uncapped. I handed it to him. He started to write. The ink would not flow. I took it and shook it.
Again he made the attempt, with no result.

"I will get one," he said. So he stepped into the other room. Evidently some one stopped him with a question, for he did not come back for three minutes. Then he stood at his desk.
He looked down at the contract.

"I believe I had better think this matter over again," he said. And all the talk I put up could not budge him.
I had lost a sale because my fountain pen was empty. Now, one of my regular morning duties, week in and week out, just as regular as my shave and my checking over of calls to be made and the making out of my expense account, is filling my fountain pen.— James N. Bowen in System.

A Great Polyglot.

Solomon Caesar Malan habitually conversed with his children in Latin, but on his deathbed, when Solomon, his son, began to recite a psalm in the familiar Vulgate of his youth, the dying man, scholar to the last, muttered, "Nom ihu, non ihu! Hebraice!" so the son repeated it in Hebrew.

He could, for that matter, just as well have said it in Coptic or Chinese, for to him all tongues came naturally.
At eighteen he could write in thirteen languages, oriental and European, and among his published works we find translations from the Arabic, Persian, Syriac, Ethiopic, Hebrew, Coptic, Armenian, Georgian, Mongol, Chinese, Korean, Japanese, Greek, Russian, Welsh and Gothic. He is said to have learned to speak Armenian fluently in a fortnight, and he preached in Georgian to a Georgian congregation in the Cathedral of Kutais.—London Saturday Review.

A Patient Dog.

My brother has two dogs, one a large mastiff, the other a tiny Spitz which he can hold in the hollow of his hand.
Don, the big dog, had been taught to lie down and face his food, but not to touch until the command, "Eat," had been given him. His mistress, in a hurry to leave for a day's shopping, gave Don his breakfast one day, but forgot the permission to "eat," and when she returned late that night the faithful dog lay with his paws on the plate of food, but not a particle had been touched!—Chicago Tribune.

Where They Were Not Bad.

A visitor who was going through the penitentiary one day turned to the warden and said:

"I suppose you have a good many bad people here?"
"Bad! Bad people here!" ejaculated the gray haired warden, with an air of comic surprise. "What put that into your head? There are no bad people here. Why, if they wanted to be bad, we wouldn't let 'em."

The warden smiled grimly, and the visitor awakened to the fact that the "pen" was not the place where people could afford to be bad, even if they wished.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Cosmopolitan Dinners.

"You can pay your money in New York and get any sort of dinner you like, and of every possible nationality," declared the man about town.
"You can get an Italian dinner with spaghetti, a French dinner with frogs' legs, an Irish dinner with some sort of stew, a Hungarian dinner with goul-ash, a Russian dinner with caviare, a Spanish dinner with frijoles, and a northern dinner with corn pone."—New York Press.

Accounts Squared.

Hicks—I owe you an apology. The fact is, it was raining, and I saw your umbrella, and, supposing you had gone home for good, I took it.

Wicks—Don't mention it. I owe you an apology. You left your new hat out, and it was blown off. As I had no umbrella and my wife didn't want to wet my hat, I put on yours. Hope you don't mind.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Cashless Engagement.

"I hope you won't insist upon a long engagement, dearest," he said tenderly.
"No, sweetheart, I won't. You have not money enough to make one enjoyable," she answered practically.—Life.

The charity that hastens to proclaim its good deeds ceases to be charity and is only pride and ostentation.—Hutton.

In a Stable.

"I ordered you to point me some rows in a stable. I see the stable, but where are the cows?"
"They are in the stable."

"So is your pay for this picture. You had better bring both out."—Saxa.

Conjugal Pleased.

that we must not covet our neighbors' wives. Benham—Well, I guess there isn't much commandment breaking on your account.—New York Press.
