Writing to a friend in Reynoldsville recently, Harry Breton, the noted aerial aviator who appeared in Reynoldsville during Old Home Week, stated that he had probably made his thrilling jump for the last time and would return to his former vocation of trick bicycle riding. After leaving Reynoldsville Breton made his leap in Iowa and the state of Washington, making the leap in Spokane in company with his wife. He met with no more accidents after leaving here and is now resting up at his home in Los Angeles, California.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

J. W. Gillespie Has Bought the Dry Goods and Shoe Department of Millirens Store.

Last week J. W. Gillespie, former member of the Bing-Stoke Co department store, bought the dry goods and shoe department of the Millirens department store and has taken charge of the store. A partition will be built through the middle of the large store room, giving Mr. Gillespie a commodious room for his department and Millirens a large room for their clothing department. As soon as possible Mr. Gillespie expects to make some decided changes in the interior of his store. The store will be called Gillespies.

James W. Gillespie is not a stranger to the citizens of Reynoldsville and, therefore, does not need an introduction to the public through the columns of THE STAR. He had been a member of the Bing-Stoke Co. firm from the time that store was started until he sold his interest in the firm last month, and over twenty years ago he clerked in one of the large stores in Reynoldsville and became well known to many of the older inhabitants of the town and community. Naturally, Mr. Gillespie is a hustler, and his years of experience in a city store augmented his hustling tendency, and there is no doubt but this, and other business qualifications, will enable him to make a success of this business venture, and the buying public can expect him to conduct a first-class and up-to-date store.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTION.

Very Small Vote Polled in this Borough. Sheatz Elected State Treasurer.

There are about 750 voters in Reynoldsville borough and only 289 votes were polled in the borough yesterday, 96 in first precinct and 193 in second precinct. The vote in Reynoldsville was as follows:

Table with columns: Name, 1st Pre., 2nd Pre.
John O. Sheatz, R. 40 81
John G. Harman, D. 49 101
M. H. Stevenson, P. 5 8
Samuel Clark, S. 2 3
E. V. Kyle, R. 34 57
Harry B. King, D. 57 129
Perry Schaffner, P. 2 9

It is claimed that John O. Sheatz was elected state treasurer by at least 100,000 majority. The vote was light in Jefferson county, but the Republican candidates were elected.

Social Surprise.

Monday evening the officers and teachers of the M. E. Sunday school gave Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Koehler a social surprise party at their home in West Reynoldsville, which was a complete surprise and a very pleasant social event. There was two-fold object in the social gathering. One was to show Mr. Koehler, who has been superintendent of the Sunday school three years, that his faithful and zealous work in the school is appreciated by the other workers in the school, and the other was to give his wife, who came here a month ago a stranger among the people, a cordial welcome and to get better acquainted with her. Ice cream, cake and coffee was served.

Co. Treasurer Situation Here.

There are now five aspirants at this place for the Republican nomination for county treasurer, and all, apparently, are determined to remain in the contest to the finish, and just as sure as they do so sure will all five be defeated, the nomination will go to some other section of the county. Any one of the candidates who thinks he can really win out with five candidates from here, has not given the matter careful consideration. Reynoldsville is entitled to this nomination at this time, and we believe would get it with but one candidate in the field. Would it not be wise for the five candidates to get together and in some honorable way, if possible, get the matter amicably adjusted and only have one candidate from here?

Excursionists Injured.

The excursion train over the B., R. & P. Ry to Pittsburg Sunday collided with the rear end of a freight train leaving Pittsburg Sunday evening, smashing the passenger engine and giving the passengers quite a jolt. Two of the passengers, Mrs. Jarvis Williams and Mrs. I. Horwitz, of Reynoldsville, were slightly injured. Mrs. Williams was standing in the aisle talking to some friends and when the passenger train struck the freight she was knocked down the aisle over half the length of the coach, her body bumping against the ends of the seats as she flew along. She was badly, but not seriously, bruised. Mrs. Horwitz had one arm injured slightly. The train was delayed several hours and did not arrive in Sykesville until 3 o'p. m. Monday and the Reynoldsville excursionists did not get home until 7 o'p. m.

Get your lecture course tickets this week. They can be had at Stoke's drug store.

FRANCIS DeLARME, PIONEER SETTLER, DIED SUNDAY.

Came to this Section Seventy Eight Years Ago and by Thrift and Industry had Won a Good Competence.

Francis DeLarme, one of the old pioneers of this section of Jefferson county, was found dead in bed at his home in Winslow township, within a few miles of Reynoldsville, Sunday morning, Nov. 3rd. Mr. DeLarme had been in good health up until Saturday evening, when he complained of not feeling well, but at 1.00 a. m. Sunday he said he was feeling better and at 6.00 a. m. he was found dead in bed, having expired sometime between 1.00 and 6.00 a. m. Francis DeLarme was born in Franklin Co., N. Y., October 5, 1819, and was 88 years and 29 days old at time of death. He came to this locality with the ancestors of Tom and T. C. Reynolds when he was ten years old. When he reached his majority—21 years of age—he bought or arranged to buy, 130 acres of land, then a forest, now part of the DeLarme homestead. After arranging for the land he went to Athens, N. Y., and worked for Samuel Reynolds until he had earned enough money to pay for the 130 acres then he returned, paid for the land and received a deed for same. He married Clarissa Smith, sister of John S. Smith, of Reynoldsville. Mr. DeLarme cleared the land himself and afterwards added 100 acres more to it, making an estate of 300 acres. October, 5, 1903, four years ago, his wife died.

Mr. DeLarme was a constituent member of the Soldier Run Baptist church, now the First Baptist church of Reynoldsville. For many years he was a trustee and treasurer of the Soldier Run church. Mr. DeLarme and Rev. C. H. Prescott were the chief contributors for the erection of the Baptist church at Prescottville. At time of death Mr. DeLarme was a member of the West Liberty Baptist church.

Deceased is survived by following sons and daughters: J. Myers DeLarme, farmer of Sandy township, Clearfield Co., Henry Francis DeLarme, farmer of Winslow township, Mrs. M. H. Stevenson, of DuBois, Mrs. Sallie Rebecca Parker, of Sabula, Rev. Alonza A. DeLarme, pastor of First Baptist church, of McKeesport, Mrs. J. C. Kiel, of West Liberty.

Short funeral service at old homestead at 1.00 p. m. to-day and also services in the West Liberty Baptist church at 2.00 p. m. Interment will be made in the family burying ground on the old farm.

Deceased was one of the sturdy pioneers of this section who lived the simple life, worked hard, enjoyed good health and long life. About eight years ago, on account of necrosis of the bone, Mr. DeLarme had to have his left leg amputated, but up until that time he knew little of bodily ill.

Donation Day.

Saturday, Nov. 9th, will be Donation Day for the Memorial Home, Brookville. Persons willing to contribute articles for the Home, such as groceries, fruits, vegetables, jellies, sheets, pillow cases, towels, bleached muslin, calico and gingham, napkins, tablecloths 3 1/2 yards long, outing flannel and warm underwear for old ladies, spool cotton, bed-spreads, etc., will leave them at Evan's store on Main street. Won't the good people of Reynoldsville assist the ladies of the Reynoldsville Relief Corps a little in this way. Such help will be highly appreciated.

MOTHERS MEETING.

All mothers having children in the Reynoldsville public schools are hereby cordially invited to visit the different rooms in which their children are enrolled, on Friday afternoon, Nov. 15, and at 3.30 meet with the teachers and organize a Mothers' Conference. We want a closer relationship to exist between patrons and teachers; and we hope this may be the means of bringing it about. Fathers are invited as well as mothers. A special invitation will be extended. S. C. HEPLER, Principal

MARRIED THIS FORENOON.

Nelson Goodhile, of Erie, Pa., and Miss Margaret Evans, of this place, will be married at the Baptist parsonage by Dr. A. J. Meek this forenoon and will leave for Erie on soon train. Mr. Goodhile was an employe at the silk mill at this place several years ago, and is a fine young man. Miss Evans is one of our highly esteemed young ladies. They will reside in Erie.

CARD OF THANKS.

We hereby express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors, especially Mrs. Wm. Felte, for their kindness during illness and after death of our daughter. MR. AND MRS. H. M. FOLTZ.

MERRY THROG TAKES PART IN HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE

The Celebration as Seen by a Neighboring City.

About two hundred DuBois people attended the big masked carnival at Reynoldsville last evening. The affair was in the hands of the Business Men's Exchange of that place and it was certainly carried out in a most successful and up-to-date manner. The streets were thronged with happy masqueraders until far after the mystic hour of mid-night and many DuBois people did not return until daylight this morning. The association had arranged for ample police protection and none of the rowdiness which is usually so much in evidence characterized this notable event. Reynoldsville is fast making a reputation for itself as a wide awake up-to-date town and those who were present at the carnival last night say that it even surpassed Old Home Week which left such an impression upon the minds of the DuBois people.—DuBois Courier, Nov. 9.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Will Meet at the Rooms Thursday Night of this Week.

All the members of the recently organized Business Men's Association and all who care to help along the town are requested to meet in the rooms in the Stoke building, at corner of Fifth and Main streets, Thursday evening, Nov. 7. The Association now has enough members enrolled to insure its existence and is even now in a position to accomplish a great deal. There has never been a time when there was a better opportunity for work along industrial lines in building up the town, nor has the town ever been in such need of industrial booming as it is to-day. Property owners who care to guard their interests in Reynoldsville should not hesitate to lend their aid to an organization which aims to build up the town in every possible way. The success of persistent and united work along this line has been well demonstrated in many other prosperous cities.

POLES WILL CELEBRATE

In Reynoldsville on Thanksgiving Day. Large Number of Visitors will be Here that Day.

On Thursday, November 28, Thanksgiving Day, there will be a Polish celebration at Reynoldsville under the direction of the Union at Reynoldsville, St. John Baptist Branch No. 105, Polish Union of America. Between seven and eight hundred members of this society will participate in the celebration. The Unions from Rathmel, Soldier, DuBois, Eleanor, Adrian and Tyler will be here. They will all meet at the Park Theatre at 9 o'p. m., attend Mass at the Catholic church, return to Park Theatre from church, form in line and parade through town. Two or three brass bands have been engaged for the celebration. After the parade there will be speeches in the Theatre in both English and Polish languages. There will be a dance in the theatre in the afternoon and at 6.30 p. m. there will be a Polish show. In addition to the seven or eight hundred members of the Unions there will be a large number of women and children present, which will mean a large crowd of strangers in town that day.

DORA ALBERTA FOLTZ.

Dora Alberta Foltz, daughter of H. M. and Myrtle Foltz, of Wishaw, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Deemer, of Deemers Cross Roads, died Friday Nov. 1, 1907, of bronchial pneumonia aged 5 years, 11 months and 21 days. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. F. M. Reddinger, of Falls Creek, Sunday afternoon. Interment was made at the Lutheran cemetery at Emrickville.

Farewell Dora, thou hast left us For that bright and Heavenly shore; Yes, farewell, but not forever. Thou hast only gone before.

Pain nor death can never enter Where thy happy Spirit dwells; Dearest Dora how we miss thee As we say farewell, farewell.

Yes, farewell, but not forever. Thou art only gone before With thy sister and thy brother Waiting on the other shore.

When a few more griefs we've tasted We will join you Dora, there, Heavenly crown how bright its glory Heavenly Home how bright and fair.

ABOUT TWO THOUSAND PERSONS DONNED MASKS

Night was Given Over to Revelry and Dancing and Every Species of Harmless Fun, but there was No Rowdiness at any Time.

The notable thing in connection with the Halloween masquerade in Reynoldsville Thursday last was the absence of the lawless pranks that usually characterize an observance of the night and the substitution therefor of an innocent form of revelry that afforded endless amusement to the participants and almost equal enjoyment to the many who did not mask but mingled with the merry throng as spectators. The masquerade was new to Reynoldsville, and to this section of the state as well, and brought many sightseers to the city from other points. At a low estimate there were two thousand persons in mask or costume on the street that evening while many thousands more lined the curb unmasked. A large number of the costumes were fantastic, but mingled with them were many designed for beauty or with historical significance. This was especially noticeable later in the evening when those who attended the masquerade ball in the L. O. O. F. hall appeared on the street.

As soon as twilight fell the younger element began to appear on the street with their masks and by seven o'clock there was a motley throng gathered on the thoroughfare. At eight the marshals, E. C. Burns, Sr., L. J. McIntire, Bert S. Burns and Edward Burns, all in costume and mounted, began to line up the masqueraders for the parade and succeeded in getting most of them to pass the judges' stand, not exactly in orderly array but rather in a picturesque disorder. For the truth was that when the masqueraders donned the mask they threw off the semblance of law and order and every one was a law unto himself. They rambled down the street and they rambled up again and they rambled all around the town later on. About a score were mounted and hundreds of the marchers carried in their hands burning red flambeaux or torches which illuminated the line of parade and gave to everything a strange and unnatural hue. A stand had been erected in front of the National Hotel on which sat three judges in full court costume and from the passing line of masqueraders selected the following: Most handsome costume, Bert S. Burns as General Putnam, mounted. Most comical costume, C. R. Hall as Little Lord Fauntleroy, on foot. Most grotesque appearance, James McKee and Clyde Miles, mounted.

After the parade there ensued a general carnival of fun and a scene of revelry that can be better imagined than described. With identity hidden, there was naturally great freedom taken in the quest of fun, but at no time did this license descend to rowdiness. Among the masqueraders were boys and girls of nine or ten and business men of sixty years of age. A little nonsense now and then is relished by all, irrespective of age, and the success of this initial attempt at a carnival masquerade on Halloween is likely to insure its becoming an annual event hereafter.

At nine o'clock two masquerade balls were opened. The one in the L. O. O. F. hall was a select affair to which two hundred and fifty invitations had been issued, while a popular dance was held in the pavilion in Frank's park. Both were well attended and enjoyable in their novelty. The scene in the hall during the progress of the dance was especially beautiful. All who participated wore masks and costumes and many of the latter were rich and striking. The costume engaged by the club for the popular carnival had special costumes shipped here for those who wished to take part in this ball.

When the meager sum which the Halloween club had to work with is taken into consideration, the carnival must be voted a remarkable success. The club recognized the fact that coming so soon after the Old Home Week expenses, it would be hardly fair to ask for heavy contributions, and raised just enough money to guarantee a celebration which would not disappoint, and which would serve to interest the public in its possibilities for the future. With more money at command and with the co-operation of the merchants in putting floats in the parade and in suitable window decoration, the event can be made one of rare beauty and an effective method of drawing thousands of non-residents to the city to witness it.
