POMONA GRANGE HOLDS SESSION AT RATHMEL.

State Speakers Present and a Terse Program Carried Out.—A Few of the Subjects Discussed.

Pomona Grange No. 20, of Jefferson county met in the hall of Rathmel Grange at 10 a. m. January 3, 1908. Worthy Master E. E. Bullers in chair; other officers in their respective places; minutes of last meeting read.

Reports from the Granges throughout the county showed a steady increase both in interest and in members. Several of the new Granges in the east and southeast of the county made wonderful progress. Question, "Is the Grange responsible for the advances in prices of farm products?" opened by John Norris, followed by others, who plainly showed that the Grange was not responsible but a decrease in production was one of the causes, and farmers' incomes were a great deal less in 1907 than for several years preceding. Question, "The silo," opened by Mr. Wachob, of Clearfield county, who spoke very favorably of ensilage as the rough feed and plainly showed that the farmers can keep double the amount of stock with a silo. Mr. Mackinnon, of Lanes Mills, and State Lecturer E. B. Dorset also gave valuable instructions about building and filling the silo.

Adjourned for dinner. Delegates numbering one hundred were seated at a table bending with its load of good things to eat, which the farmers' wives and daughters know so well how to prepare.

Afternoon session opened at 1.30, when the Grange met in open session and six candidates for county offices were invited in. Address of welcome by Mrs. H. Rea; response by G. H. Small. Question, "State Roads in Jefferson county, brick or macadam." Opened by J. N. Kelly, who gave valuable information as to cost and durability, but thought brick cheaper in the end. State Lecturer E. B. Dorset spoke very forcibly and at quite a length against the present system of building state roads. John Norris and others strongly condemned macadam roads. Instrumental music by Olive Dean. Reading by Flo Hoemer. Subject, "The Drunkard."

Prof. L. Mayne Jones gave an instructive and entertaining talk on agricultural education.

Bro. Dorset gave another address which was very instructive and entertaining. Recitation, Gerald Lyons.

The fifth degree was conferred on quite a large class. Pomona Grange adjourned to hold its next session at Green Valley Grange in March.

EVENTS IN PARADISE

Floyd Yohe Has a Narrow Escape From Drowning While Skating.

INTERESTING PERSONAL NOTES

John Deemer, who has been suffering with stomach trouble, is improving.

E. R. Syphrit and wife, of Braddock, Pa., are visiting at the home of the former's parents in this place.

A number of the good people of Paradise attended Pomona Grange at Rathmel Friday. They report a very pleasant time.

An installation supper was held at Paradise Grange Hall Friday evening. Everyone dreamed of oysters and chicken that night.

Misses Margaret and Ethel Cathers, who attended Pomona Friday returned to their home Sunday. They were delayed on the way.

Four members of the Big Six amused themselves at the green house on Wall street Sunday evening.

Floyd Yohe met with a narrow escape while skating one evening last week. We are very thankful that we still see his smiling face among us, for he might now be filling a watery grave.

Miss Elda Barnett has been suffering from nervous prostration, but is some what improved.

Horseback riding is an excellent exercise for young ladies and gentlemen.

There was no school at the Philippi school Friday of last week so that the teacher and some of the pupils might take a pleasure trip. Wise or unwise?

If you wish to see something equal to the rope walking which you saw Old Home Week, come to Grange next Friday night and watch Earl Deemer perform.

Amos Haag and wife, Miss Lulu London, Meade Syphrit, Ray Besakay, Miss Anna Enals and J. W. Syphrit and wife and daughter visited at Sunnyside Farm last Sunday.

Benjamin Boyer fell and was seriously injured while working at the mill last week.

Some of our people expect to go to Utah in the near future. They want to live "down in the meadow where the Sweet Williams grow."

Miss Alice Spencer, who has been in Reynoldsville some time, again resides among us.

The air is full of the sound of the breaking of New Years resolutions.

Rank Foolishness.

"When attacked by a cough or a cold, or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, of Empire, Ga. "I have used New Discovery seven years and I know it is the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at Stoke & Feicht Drug Co. drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

A Year a Speech.

The late Justice Hawkins of England was once trying a prisoner for robbery with violence, and when the expected verdict of guilty had been delivered he curtly sentenced the man to five years' penal servitude.

The prisoner, a burly old convict, was a man of ungovernable temper, and the severity of the judge's sentence so enraged him that he successfully resisted the wardens and indulged in a perfect torrent of virulent abuse directed toward the occupant of the bench.

"I make the sentence six years," interjected his lordship imperturbably. But even that did not check the man's mad desire to let Justice Hawkins know "what he thought of him."

"I make the sentence seven years," said the judge, when the convict stopped for breath after a particularly vile series of insults.

Then suddenly common sense seemed to come to the man. He made as if to continue his abuse, but pulled himself up.

"If I don't dry up I s'pose you'll make it a life," he said resignedly and followed the warden down the dock steps without another word.

Seven Wonders of the World.

We have no recollection of the existence of a cycle of seven wonders until about the end of the second century B. C. Then appears in an epigram of Antipater of Sidon an enumeration of seven great works, which prove to be the very ones later appearing as the seven wonders. They are: (1) the walls of Babylon, (2) the statue of Zeus at Olympia, (3) the hanging gardens of Babilramis at Babylon, (4) the Colossus of Rhodes, (5) the pyramids of Memphis, (6) the mausoleum of Halicarnassus, (7) the temple of Diana (Artemis) at Ephesus. Within the next century Varro, by his lechurously allusion to the septem opera, betrays that the saying had already assumed current proverbial form. Diodorus, in the second half of the same century (first B. C.), speaks, too, of "the so called seven works," and Strabo, a little later, uses the very phrase, "the seven wonders." From this time on, at least, the septem miracula have an assured place in all the common lore of Rome.

Making and Losing Friends.

"I'm not so sure," observed the doctor reflectively as he watched the smoke curl upward from his cigar, "that we Americans are not neglecting one of the most important of the arts—the art of making friends.

"It wouldn't do anybody a bit of harm to take half an hour off and sit down to go over the acquaintances to his friends within the past year or so. Incidentally he might reflect on what he has done in the way of keeping up old friendships. It seems to me that people drift apart very quickly nowadays. Absorption in business is one factor making for this end. Another is the growing disinclination to keep up any sort of correspondence, and a third is a tendency, increasing as the years go by, to let one's personal interest become more centered. All of these things militate against the making of new friends as well as helping to loosen the bonds holding the old ones.

"The fault," he concluded, "isn't in the people whom we meet. It's in ourselves, and we might as well realize it. Let us look for likable qualities and not the reverse. There is such a thing as being too cautious about our acquaintances and thus shutting ourselves off from much of pleasure and profit."—New York Press.

THE GRAND THEATRE.

Guy Stone, the Harpist, and Other Attractions this week.

The attraction at the Grand Theatre all this week is above the average. Guy Stone, the Irish harpist, presents an entire novelty act, introducing the cello and musical pipes. His harp solo was well received, especially the song "My Wild Irish Rose." Mr. Munn presents a high class comedy act which is away beyond the average acts of its class. The pictures are new and up-to-date. Don't miss this attraction at the Grand this week.

A Higher Health Level.

"I have reached a higher health level since I began using Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes Jacob Springer, of West Franklin, Maine. "They keep my stomach, liver and bowels working just right." If these pills disappoint you on trial, money will be refunded at Stoke & Feicht Drug Co. drug store.

Jefferson Macaroni Factory

REYNOLDSVILLE, PA.

Guaranteed Annual Profit on Investment of 25 to 35 Per Cent.

To be sold because owner has been ordered by his physician to a warmer climate for his health.

The Jefferson Macaroni Factory was established in 1903 and is now unquestionably the largest and best equipped plant of its kind in Central Pennsylvania. Buildings consist of all brick main structure 2 1/2 stories high, and brick box factory annex, all having gas and electric fixtures, and the plant has its own water. Excellent shipping facilities. An extensive local business has been thoroughly established and in the first year the factory commenced wholesaling to large distributing houses, which adds immensely to the profits. The plant has paid heavy dividends from the first year of operation. Any person wishing to investigate is requested to call at the plant or see the managing proprietor—Carmino Marinaro.
