Mrs. Rodgers was born at Lewistown, Pa., March 20, 1836, and would have been 72 years old next month. Her maiden name was Margaret Porter. She was married to Aaron Rodgers over forty years ago. They moved to Reynoldsville over thirty years ago. Deceased had been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church a number of years. While Mrs. Rodgers' suffering had been intense for a number of weeks, yet she was a patient sufferer. She knew that she could not live long and told her loved ones that she was ready to go.

Deceased is survived by one brother, William Porter, of Lock Haven, and one son and one daughter, Frank Rodgers and Mrs. Nettie Swartz, in this place.

Always Ready to Fight

Several new members have been added to the Business Men's Association the past two weeks and there has been a gratifying increase of confidence in its work and permanence since its quick and decisive action in the glass plant and brick cases. Its efforts have been circumscribed equally by the financial conditions of the country and its treasury, but even at that it has accomplished great good and with the growing membership will be able to do much more the coming year. It is the strongest champion of home interests in the town and deserves the support of membership from every citizen interested in the town's welfare. Show your loyalty to Reynoldsville interests by sending or handing the membership fee to the Association secretary to-day.

The next meeting of the Association will be held the first Thursday in March when, beside the nomination of officers for the coming year, a number of other important matters will come up for action.

W. H. Bell for County Treasurer.

W. H. Bell, one of our leading clothing merchants, who has been elected a number of terms as a member of the school board in this borough, is now a candidate for the Republican nomination for county treasurer. Mr. Bell is an energetic and bustling business man and is well qualified to fill the office of county treasurer. He is well pleased with the encouragement he has been receiving from the voters throughout the county, and feels pretty sanguine that he will win out at the primary election April 11th. The voters of the county can feel assured if they nominate and elect Mr. Bell that he will make an accommodating and competent treasurer, and that the business of the office will be well taken care of.
