HOW CAMPHOR IS MADE.

Simple Method by Which the Oil is Extracted From the Wood.

"To make camphor," said a returned traveler, "you put in chips at one hole and out of another hole you draw the crude product in coarse white grains, like salt.

"Wherever camphor trees grow you will find camphor distilleries. They are low buildings of mud brick and their odor is so aromatic that it can be detected two miles off. "In each building there are a dozen fires. On each fire is a kettle of bolling water, with a perforated lid. Fitted to the top of this kettle is an iron cylinder, filled with camphor chips of the size of your little finger. Fitted to the top of the cylinder is an empty inverted jar. "There is your whole apparatusa simple thing, which works simply. The steam of the boiling water passing up through the cylinder extracts from the camphor wood its oil. This oil, mounting still upward with the steam, settles like brine on the sides of the inverted far at the top. This brine, when the fire goes out, dries into a substance like frost or snow.

"White and aromatic, the frostlike substance is the crude camphor. It is scraped off the sides of the jar and refined and pressed into those attractive balls and cubes that you buy at a high price everywhere." -Louisville Courier-Journal.

Their Life is No Joke.

Normandy and Brittany together are the land of legends and romance, but there is a noticeable difference in the people. The Breton is stalwart in stature and stern and serious in disposition. He has hewed his life out amid the serious things and along the rocky roads. His bronzed face looks austere, but beneath his blue blouse beats a heart warm and true. The primitive simplicity of his life and the intentness of his religion gives the Breton short view of the frivolities of existence. He carries his religion into his daily life and work and along all the ronds are gaudy cru-ciffies which the peasants never pass without kneeling and crossing themselves.

It is characteristic of all these Brittany folk that they mind their own business. I don't know what the result would be if you were to try a joke on them. I should be afraid to undertake it. Life is a serious problem to the Breton. It is homespun for him, even though the rest of France may be arrayed in silks. He has worked out an existence against great odds, and it has given him a character and physique which makes him notable among his fellow countrymen .- From "An Intimate Excurby Frank Presbrey, in The Outing Magazine.

When a Kansan Stops His Paper.

About two months ago one of our farmer friendsdropped in and stopped his Farmer. He said he couldn't afto do without it. He dropped in again last Saturday and planked down $1.50 for a year in advanceand then heaved a big sigh of relief. Everything had gone wrong since the Farmer ceased to visit him. His chickens refused to lay, his cows got on the alfalfa and died, and his hogs got the cholera. The rats gnawed holes in his granary and his wheat ran out and the birds ate it up. His windmill blew over and killed a horse and his best shepherd dog got a bone in his throat and choked to death. His children got the measles and his wife mashed her thumb in the wringer and couldn't do any housework Thleves broke into his smokehouse and stole his winter's supply of meats and fire destroyed several stacks of his alfalfa. He bought groceries of a Fifty years ago the largest cargo of traveling faker and never got them, while his neighbor escaped because he read in the Farmer to watch out for crooks. His days were filled with sold today at $16. misfortune and his nights with bad dreams. He stood it two months and then gave up the unequal struggle,-From the Osborne Farmer.

An Oath's Value.

Clarence S. Darrow, the wellknown lawyer and essayist, discussing the Haywood trial, in which he played so prominent a part, said the other

"Some of the evidence in that trial was so transparently false that it reminds me of a case that came off in Alabama a few years back.

"One of the witnesses in this case was an extremely ignorant man. As his testimony progressed his ignorance became so shockingly evident that the judge, looking sternly down on him, said:

"'Look here, sir, are you acquainted with the value of an oath? "The witness answered anxiously:

'Jedge, I hope I am. That than lawyer on yer left hand gimme six dollars to sw'ar agin the other side. That's the correck value of an oath, ain't it, jedge?' "-Green Bag.

Diabolo has become such a craze on board vessels in the British Mediterranean fleet that diabolo sets are now rated with parrots and monkeys -- "prohibited pets."

APPEARANCES.

If you feel a disposition to be foremost in affairs.

Remember that a man is often judged by what he wears.

The way to fame is either very quick or very slow—
It all depends upon the route by which you choose to go.

The mightly volumes that you read; the midnight oil you burn—
It may be many years before they yield you a return.

nay be many years detect they you a return.

And on the other hand you may be known and even feared.

If you wear a coat old-fashioned and a hat that's rather weird.

The speeches that you make in dim obscurity may rest.
But the world will think about you if you wear a funny yest.
You mustn't be disheartened if you find by any chance
That they talk more of your whisters than your views on high finance.
As Shakespeare said, the world is all a stage. And there you are.
Don't try to run the drama—be content to be a sur.
You can't depond entirely on your wisdem or your wit—

You've got to watch your make-up if you want to make a bit.

Russians in Our Army.

A curious racial tendency has been shown lately in the new enlistment in the ranks of the United States army, at any rate so far as the work of the recruiting stations in this city is concerned. An unusually large number of Russians have been enlisting for the service, the percentage sometimes funning up to well above 50 per cent of the total enlistments.

At one of the local recruiting stations in this city the officer in charge reported that out of 13 enlistments made in a single day last week, no less than six were Russians. On other days even this high percentage has been exceeded. "A large number of the Russians who are now enlisting in the United States army," said one of the recruiting officers lately, "have already seen service in the Russian army. I think it would be safe to say that 75 per cent of them have seen such service, and of those who served in the Russian army nearly all were engaged in the recent conflict with Japan."-New York Sun.

Warning to Letter Writers.

A young man who is very particular about his washing recently wrote a note to his washerwoman and one to his sweetheart, and by a strange fatality he put the wrong address on each envelope and sent them off. The washerwoman was sent the invitation to take a ride the next day, but when the young lady read: "If you tumble up my shirt bosom any more, as you did last time, I'll go somewhere else,' she cried all the evening, and declared my experience," replied the plump she would never speak to him again. -Washington (Kan.) OLD SURGEON

Found Coffee Caused Hands to Tremble.

The surgeon's duties require clear judgment and a steady hand. A slip or an unnecessary incision may do irreparable damage to the patient. When he found that coffee drink-ills, surgeon conscientiously gave it up and this is his story: For years I was a coffee drinker until my nervous system was nearly broken down, my hands trembled so I ing caused his hands to tremble, an could hardly write, and insompia tortured me at night. "Besides, how could I safely perform operations with unsteady hands. using knives and instruments of precision? When I saw plainly the bad effects of coffee, I decided to stop it, and three years ago I prepared some sample. "The first cupful surprised me. It was mild, soothing, delicious. this time I gave some Postum to a friend who was in a similar condition to mine, from the use of coffee.

"A few days after, I met him, and he was full of praise for Postum, declaring he would never return to coffee, but stick to Postum. We then ordered a full supply, and within a short time my nervousness and consequent trembling, as well as insomnia disappeared, blood circulation became normal, no dizziness nor heat

"My friend became a Postum enthusiast, his whole family using it exclusively.

"It would be the fault of the one who brewed the Postum if it did not taste good when served.

"The best food may be spoiled if not properly made. Postum should be boiled according to directions on the pkg. Then it is all right, any one can rely on it. It ought to become the national drink."
