

HON. HENRY I. WILSON,

Candidate for State Senator, has Another Say—A Letter which Will be Read With Pleasure.

To the Republicans of Jefferson Co.:

Recent political events in this county should prove to every person that my campaign has been one of good faith and founded upon independent sincerity. In spite of the endorsements made by certain leagues or associations and high officials, from every quarter have come to me words of encouragement and congratulation. Surely no one can now accuse me of having catered to any particular interests. I have made no pledges, promises or alliances and it has met with the approval of nearly all with whom I have come in contact. For more than three weeks I have been actively canvassing in Indiana county and have been most cordially received. I trust the Republicans in my home county will understand how it happens that I fail to call upon them personally. It is my belief that you know me well enough to see to it that I receive fair treatment at the primaries. To me it actually seems as though my contest for this nomination is distinctively an appeal for clean politics. Gentlemen, all I ask is that you cast your vote in accordance with your own personal convictions after having investigated for yourselves. Remember, I am not asking your support because I have the divided support of my home people as well as more than half a hundred residents of the home town of my opponents—although, some persons might say that it was something of a compliment to be held in such esteem by those who know me best: I am not claiming recognition at this time because I am a son of a veteran of the civil war and am at present a member of the National Guard of Pennsylvania and have been for four years—although, to some people that would suggest that I was a friend of the old soldier and was somewhat patriotic: I am not waging this contest because Big Run has no other citizen who ever held a state or county office—yet there are some persons who are fair enough to admit that Big Run's claims have been very modest indeed: I am not in the field because I have been a total abstainer from liquor and tobacco all my life—still, there are many people in this district who are provincial enough to express the opinion that it does no harm to have a man of good habits to represent them in the State Senate: I am not running because I paid my own way through school and the study of law and became a member of Assembly from this county at the early age of twenty nine—however, it is argued by some that he who is able to help himself is generally competent to look after the interests of others: I am not before you because I have had fifteen years experience in the law, was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of this state in 1895, have been a member of the State Bar Association since 1897, was secretary of our borough council for thirteen years, seven years Secretary of our school board, one year president of the School Directors' Association of Jefferson County, once a delegate to the State Convention of School Directors, and once a delegate to the Republican State Convention—although friends of mine persistently argue that such public experience and acquaintance is bound to broaden and equip a man: and lastly I am not a candidate because I am still in the thirties, the best time in my life for active service—nevertheless, some really do believe the young men who are experienced are more apt to be workers than the older ones. But, I am a candidate because the man who is chosen senator for this district will represent perhaps one hundred and twenty thousand people; not just two or three clubs or high officials; not just Republican politicians, but all parties, women, children, foreigners and all. He will be one of fifty men to formulate and pass upon hundreds of proposed laws, not just one law or even ten laws. His duties will be many and his responsibilities great. I offer myself for the place because I was secretary of the last State Senate and had the best training possible to fit me for the high position to which I aspire; because I already possess such a knowledge of senatorial affairs that I could be of use from the very start.

In closing I desire to state that I have endeavored to conduct an honest and straightforward campaign and have no regrets. I firmly believe my independent position is right and, win or lose, I shall be the same enthusiastic republican I have always been. If I should have your support I shall do all in my power to prove worthy of the confidence.

Asking for your kindest consideration, I remain, Sincerely yours,
HENRY I. WILSON.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.

Grant Scheafnocker Presents His Case for Consideration of Republicans.

To the Republican Voters of Jefferson County:

I am a candidate for county treasurer at the primary election on Saturday.

As sheriff of the county I have made a conscientious effort to earn your approval. A statement of the receipts of the sheriff's office and commissioner's office (published in another column) shows that I have made the term in which I have served a profitable one to the county—which means you, personally. I therefore present my candidacy as a business matter. If you had in your employ a worthy workman would you discharge him simply because somebody else was an applicant for the job? Would you turn me out of your employ after I had demonstrated my ability, if you were conducting the business of the county as a private business?

I appreciate the kindness of the people which placed me in the official position I occupy, and in this campaign my first duty has been to take care of the business which you had entrusted to me. Because of this, I have failed to see all the voters of the county, and I take this last opportunity of asking you to give my candidacy consideration. If you believe I have been a good sheriff mark a cross opposite my name on the primary ballot on Saturday. I have done my utmost to serve you. I leave the decision with you, with full confidence in the justice of your decision.

Sincerely,
GRANT SCHEAFNOCKER.
Brookville, Pa., April 6, 1908.

Mr. McClure's Candidacy.

Mr. Frank McClure, of Reynoldsville, who is a prominent contestant for the Republican nomination for county commissioner, was among our callers during the past week while on his round of the county for the purpose of interviewing the voters. Mr. McClure is a clean cut business man who would bring to the office of county commissioner a ripe experience and thorough knowledge, and his candidacy has been received with favor throughout the county. He is a citizen entirely worthy of the confidence and support of the electorate, and the indications at this time are that he will be the recipient of a handsome vote on April 11th. Personally he is affable and pleasing in his address and makes a most favorable impression upon those with whom he comes in contact.—Brookville Republican.

To the Voters of the 37th Senatorial District.

With the primary election less than one week away from us, there remains but a few days of labor and suspense for those seeking nominations for the various county and district offices. This has certainly been a "strenuous" campaign on the part of a number of good men who ask preferment at the hands of their respective parties.

The contest for Senatorial honors in the district composed of Indiana and Jefferson counties has been earnest and aggressive with three candidates viz: Hon. S. Taylor North, T. M. Kurtz, and Hon. Henry I. Wilson, of Jefferson county, Indiana county having presented no candidate.

The observer of unprejudiced and unclouded judgement can arrive at but one conclusion as to the situation in this matter, that is, that the race is between North and Kurtz, with North undoubtedly in the lead, and gaining every day so there is little or no doubt as to his being returned "a winner."

The platform upon which Mr. Kurtz is "offering himself" is a good one, and is a splendid endorsement of North's work and record in the legislature, for every measure to which Mr. Kurtz pledges his aid, has been worked for and advanced by North while a member of the lower house. Neither has Jefferson nor any other county, had a more untiring, able, or aggressive worker in the Legislature, for the best interests of his constituents than North has been, and the important and numerous committees upon which he has served, having won this distinction and recognition by merit, must be convincing evidence to his constituents that he has been "the right man in the right place," and that the interests of the district will be carefully and intelligently looked after with North at the helm.

If there is any one particular class of men in the district to whom his candidacy should appeal, it is that class whose interests above all, should be, and is dear to every man worthy of American citizenship.

"The Old Soldier," no interest for which just recognition was desired ever had a more faithful advocate than was North, both in Committee and on the floor of the House, to secure that Legislation which would in some measure at least, be a recompense for a service rendered, the value of which cannot be measured by dollars and cents of any Government; and it is fair to assume that this class of men in the district will not forget, or cast aside a tried and faithful friend whom they will recognize as one who is especially equipped to look after their interests in the Senate. In fact there is no man for a minute can or will question the ability of Mr. North, and all who know him know that he needs no four men, nor even four thousand, to vouch for his integrity. He always fights "cut in the open" as is well-known by all who know him. He is not the candidate of any "Star Chamber Caucus" of bosses, but is a plain, clean, capable and upright man coming from the ranks of this class of people, and unless all signs fail will represent the 37th Senatorial District in the session of 1909-1911.

Deserves Election.

Horace G. Miller, editor of the Punxsutawney News, Republican candidate for the nomination for Assembly, was in town Saturday. The reports we hear from various sections of the county is to the effect that Mr. Miller is one of the strongest candidates in the present contest for Assembly nomination. We will be very much surprised if he is not one of the winners at the primary election Saturday. We are personally acquainted with Mr. Miller and know him to be an honest, sober and industrious gentleman, notwithstanding the fact that some of his political enemies insinuate otherwise. Horace G. Miller would be a safe and capable man to represent the people of this county in the legislative halls of this commonwealth. Don't be fooled or misled by any false statements on last days of the campaign.

J. N. Kelly for Commissioner.

J. N. Kelly, one of our present county commissioners, who is seeking the Republican nomination for a second term, is considered one of the strongest candidates in the contest, with things looking very rosy for him being one of the nominees. The office of county commissioner is one of the most important in the county, and the taxpayer justly expects an economical administration of the business of the county in a manner similar to that in which the careful and prudent citizen conducts his business at home. The present administration in the commissioners' office shows that Mr. Kelly is the right man for the position. The recent statement and auditors' report shows that the present term has been a very successful one. Mr. Kelly has made a good record and his experience of one term will make him even more valuable in that office for a second term. It has been the custom for years to give a worthy and capable man a second term as county commissioner, and this fact, with his business qualifications makes Mr. Kelly stand in the front ranks among the candidates for the nomination for commissioner.

GALBRAITH'S CANVASS.

His Pleasing Personality has Left a Good Impression Among the Voters.

A. E. Galbraith, of Brookville, candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff, has almost wound up a complete canvass of the county and his chances for landing the nomination are exceptionally good. Mr. Galbraith is a man of recognized ability, pleasing personality and is one of the best campaigners in Jefferson county and he never fails to leave a good impression wherever he goes. He has a wide acquaintance throughout the county as a result of his service as commissioners' clerk and this has been of much help to him in the present contest. From all sections comes the word that his candidacy is being well received. Mr. Galbraith is one of the loyal young Republicans of the county and he is entitled to encouragement and support at this time. He is conducting a clean campaign and comes before the people with a record that is clean, upright and honest.

As commissioners' clerk, Mr. Galbraith has always been painstaking, careful, competent and obliging in the execution of his duties, while socially he is of such a jolly and genial disposition that it is but natural for him to make and keep friends. On preceding occasions it has been customary for the commissioners' clerk to be favored with election to office, and if faithfulness has anything to do with it, Mr. Galbraith is certainly entitled to support at this time. The people of Jefferson county can elect no more competent and obliging a man to the office of sheriff, and as Mr. Galbraith is entitled to due consideration at the hands of the voters of April 11th, it is reasonable to expect that he will poll a handsome vote in all precincts in the county. If nominated and elected Mr. Galbraith will give an excellent account of himself in the sheriff's office.—Brockwayville Record.
