Jefferson county never had such an array of master spirits as candidates for nomination for county officers as it had in the recent primary contest. It was a shame that so many good men had to go down to defeat. But what was the poor voter to do? There were too many pegs for the holes, and the only thing to do was to let some of them wait until the next time.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

The Falls Creek Times, which was established by Charles J. Bangert nine weeks ago, came out under a new name last week, Falls Creek Herald Times, with the Times in very small type. The limb was amputated but the old man died before he was taken from the operating table. He was 77 years old.

According to an exchange there is a veritable paradise for fisherman in the central part of the state. Ten dams containing trout were washed away by recent floods, and it is estimated that 20,000 breeding trout escaped. These found their way into two creeks. They are from 10 to 12 loches in length and it is thought that at least 10,000 of them will occupy a stretch of water about six miles long near Lock Haven.

The business men and citizens should bear in mind that the action of the Business Men's Association last Tuesday was not a refusal to take the lead in a movement for a celebration this year, but simply a motion to defer action until the local business men in general express more interest in such an affair. The Association meets next Tuesday, May 5th, in the I. O. O. F. building and would be glad to have all citizens, whether members or not, present.

JAMES FOLEY KILLED.

Was Found Dead on Railroad Track in W. Va.—Will be Buried in Reynoldsville.

Word was received here yesterday at noon that James Foley, a former Reynoldsville boy was found dead on the P. R. R. tracks at Collier, W. Va. No particulars as to how he was killed. Fred Foley, of DuBois, went to W. Va. yesterday afternoon after the body, which will be brought to Reynoldsville for burial beside his father, Patrick Foley, in Beulah cemetery.

The Foley family resided in Reynoldsville a number of years, but about two years ago Mrs. Foley moved to DuBois. James Foley, aged 29 years, was the oldest son in the family and was a single man. He was well known in Reynoldsville and had a number of friends here who were shocked to hear of his death. James was a fireman on the P. R. R. several years, but went from that road to the B. & S. and was located at Sagamore and his mother did not know he had left there.

He is survived by his mother, two brothers, Fred, of DuBois, and Frank of Reynoldsville, and two sisters, Mrs. Wilbur Dillman and Miss Nelle Foley, of DuBois.

A Merry Company.

On Monday evening at eight o'clock the pupils of the high school will give an entertainment in Assembly hall. The program will consist of songs, essays and recitations and an operetta, "A Merry Company, or The Cadet's Picnic." The operetta will be given under the direction of Miss Coleman, of the high school faculty. The songs are "catchy." Soldiers, policemen, fakirs and girls—picnic accessories—figure in this "Merry Company." The pupils have been working hard at their rehearsal and patrons are assured of an enjoyable evening. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged for this entertainment. All the other exercises of the week are free.

Bell Still Winning Friends.

Of those who participated in the recent Republican primary campaign, none stands higher in the esteem of the people now than Will H. Bell, one of the Reynoldsville candidates for county treasurer. His manly acceptance of defeat, no less than his plucky fight against odds in the campaign, won him sincere friends everywhere and places him beyond all question in the lead for the treasurer nomination three years hence. When he appeared before the county convention of the party after the long uncertainty over the vote, in which he finally lost by just 51 votes, he was cheered to the echo by the delegates and hundreds grasped his hand to pledge future support. Needless to say Mr. Bell appreciates the favor shown him in the county, and especially so in his home town of Reynoldsville.

The Weapon That Slew Goliath.

"Boys will be boys with their racket and noise" and no one cares to interfere with their legitimate joys, but when the noise is made by the crash of glass as a stone from a sling shot goes whizzing through the house, it is a trifle hard on the patience as well as the purse. Repeated complaint has been made to the borough authorities of the thoughtless and reckless use of these dangerous playthings by the boys of town, and a number of instances are given where window panes and plate glass display windows have been broken or damaged. The nuisance has increased to such proportions that Chief-of-Police Adelsperger has commenced to confiscate all such weapons and if the practice continues it will be necessary to enforce rigidly the borough ordinance and state law against the use of sling shots, air guns and similar weapons. As the offense is punishable by a heavy fine it will be cheaper far and wiser for parents to confiscate the objectionable instruments in advance.

RESPECTED CITIZEN GONE.

John Morton Died April 23—Large Funeral Sunday Afternoon.

John Morton, a highly respected gentleman who had resided in Reynoldsville a number of years, died at his home at Soldier, Pa., at 10 a. m. Thursday, April 23, 1908, from diabetes. He had been in poor health a year and a half and had been confined to bed since January of this year.

John Morton was born in England February 20, 1843, and was 65 years old last February. On the 14th day of March, 1863, was united in marriage to Miss Esther Dopson, who survives him. They came to America in 1865, and moved to Reynoldsville about twenty years ago. He was mine foreman from time he came here until his health failed eighteen months ago. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge of Reynoldsville.

Deceased is survived by his widow and the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Thomas Bolam, of New Bethlehem, Mrs. Robert Bone, Jr., and Mrs. William Fye, of Soldier, John B. Morton, of East Brady, Mrs. Clawson Early, of Soldier, Mrs. William Scott, of Prescottville, William Morton, of Soldier. One son dead, Thomas Morton.

County to Keep up Turnpike.

At the last session of the Pennsylvania Legislature a law was enacted, which went into effect May 1, 1907, requiring counties to pay the expense of keeping the old turnpikes of the state repaired and in good condition. The supervisors of Winslow, Pinecreek, Rose and Union townships, through which the old Susquehanna turnpike runs, met in Brookville Monday to take some action to get the county to pay the expense in keeping up the old pike as required by law. This would be quite a saving of road tax in Winslow township, as there is about eight miles of turnpike in the township and the work expense on it amounts to considerable each year.

Supervisors over in Clarion county had to bring suit against the commissioners of that county to get them to meet the requirements of the law, but the supervisors won out.

A Little Pile of Snow.

As a proof of the assertion that we have had some deep snows the past winter, we need only get on top of one of our hills and look in the direction of Sykesville. Along the boundary of Phillip Haag's farm is a drift of snow covering a half acre of ground. At this writing it is five feet deep and it is safe to say that there will be snow there in large quantities during the first week in May. The snow at this point was twenty feet deep, entirely covering fences and the small trees. The larger part of the snow was deposited there at two different times and when it began to melt it split open several feet about the center of the drift, which has caused it to melt both from the center and edges. Had it not gapped open in this manner, there would no doubt be snow at this point in the month of June.—Sykesville Post-Dispatch April 24.

Frank and Sincere Speaker.

The Jefferson County Medical Society meets in DuBois on Friday, May 22, and Dr. J. N. McCormack, a noted speaker, will be present and deliver an address. The Alexandria Town Talk in speaking of the Doctor says:

"The gospel of health is preached by his own personality, strong, straight and strenuous. The chief charm of his address lies in his absolute frankness and sincerity. He marshals his figures from the ground of actual experience and draws from them the most absolute and overwhelming conclusions. His presence in any community as a teacher on the great subject of public health is an uplift of the highest order and the Town Talk voices the sentiments of the entire community when it places on record its thanks for this splendid address."

Majority Rule.

While it is not natural that those who have been defeated at a primary election should feel buoyant with delight, and it is to be expected that some sore spots will be left among their friends after the battle is over, we should all remember that our institutions are based on majority rule. It is up to those who are on the minority side to acquiesce in the decision and go along with the procession. The place to settle party differences is at the primary election, and although humanity is so constituted that many things are necessarily done that the higher moral sense cannot approve, such are conditions, and we must take things as we find them. The theory of the popular vote system of nominating candidates for office is that every citizen shall have a voice, and after the election is over they shall all be for those whom the majority favored. Otherwise, what would be the use in having primary elections? There is a tacit understanding among all who take part that they will abide by the result, and that is the only honorable thing to do.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

Fish Wardens on the Alert.

A fisherman in another part of the state was fined heavily for having trout in his possession that lacked only one-eighth of an inch in being six inches in length. The Ridgway Record says: "The sportsman who goes forth with line and rod to angle for trout cannot be too careful about keeping strictly within the provisions of the law. Fish wardens are on the alert and the infraction, in the minutest particular, of the statute regulating the angler's conduct, may result in his being dragged before a justice of the peace and heavily fined."

Baby Drank Carbolic Acid.

Fourteen month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McCanna, who reside near the tunnel at Brookville, drank carbolic acid Sunday afternoon and died in a few minutes after drinking it. The bottle was on a window sill and George, Jr., aged four years, got on a chair, got the bottle of acid, poured some on a rag and rubbed it on his face. The acid began to burn and he set the bottle on the floor and ran out to wash his face. The baby took up the bottle and drank the acid.
