SODA FOUNTAIN TANK EXPLODED

H. T. Peters Had Narrow Escape—Badly Injured on Left Leg. Just before noon yesterday H. T. Peters, of the Velvet Ice Cream and Candy Co., was charging a soda fountain tank in the cellar under the candy store and the tank exploded with terrific force, pieces of the tank flew in all directions, but only one piece hit Mr. Peters and that cut an ugly gash below his left knee, which will cripple him for some time. Mr. Peters had a very narrow escape from instant death. A piece of the tank tore a hole through his hat. If it had struck a little lower Mr. Peters would not be hobbling around now. Just before the explosion Mr. Peters looked at the gauge and was surprised and alarmed to see that it registered 400. He was in the act of reducing the pressure when the tank exploded.

Home for Orphan Children.

We have been familiar with the life and work of County Homes for Orphan Children, or for those entirely dependent, but a visit to one lately and an examination of it has aroused our interest in a new way. Its work is so excellent and so successful and really so necessary, that we feel impelled to say that we ought to have something of this kind in our county. Provision is made here for such children but it is nothing like the need nor can be. What we need, then, doubtless, first, would be a law authorizing our county commissioners to build such a home and maintain it, and then an active public sentiment to authorize its erection and oversee its work. It is a very sweet and noble charity and is very profitable for the county. By all means, let us have a Children's County Home.—Big Run Tribune.
