

Dealers, Attention!

DO NOT LAY DOWN THIS PAPER WITHOUT FIRST READING THIS.

Four years ago we started in to manufacture high grade macaroni, and we have been kept busy delivering the goods ever since. Twice within the above period we have been compelled to enlarge our factory in order to supply our growing trade, until at present we have the best equipped plant for the manufacture of macaroni, noodles, etc., in this part of the country. We have been urged by our many friends in the trade to manufacture an extra fine brand of macaroni for the fancy grocery trade. We have just added this department to our already large factory and are now in position to supply the trade with a superior article along these lines. This new kind of macaroni we call our "Jefferson Brand" and comes packed in one pound paper cartons, 24 cartons to the case. We also wish to call your attention to our "Jefferson Brand" Double Egg Noodles, so called on account of us using two eggs to the pound of noodles, whereas other manufacturers use only one egg to the pound, or at best three eggs to two pounds of noodles. These noodles come in two styles: Broad style, which is termed "Ribbon Noodles," and fine style, which we call "Fedelina Amatasse." These noodles can be used in a variety of ways: Prepared the same as macaroni, or with meat broth, or in any style that you use the home made article. The fine kind can be prepared the same as oat meal or any breakfast food and served with sugar and milk, and makes a very appetizing breakfast food. These noodles are packed in the same manner as the macaroni, only there are 20 cartons to the case. We cannot speak too highly of the above brand of noodles and macaroni as they are the result of years of experiment along these lines. Heretofore we have packed our output in bulk, which, while our output is easily sold to the foreign trade, did not suit our many friends in the American trade on account of the large sized package. Now is your chance to get the finest article in its line in this or any other country.

ALSO

Through our representatives in Italy, we have just secured an extra fine assortment of pure Olive Oil, we import and pack under the following brands:—"Purity," "Jefferson Brand" and "Marraro Brand." These goods are second to none in purity and quality. Few American people, outside of the medical profession, know the value of Olive Oil, which is so extensively used by the Italians in this and other countries. Did you ever hear of an Italian having appendicitis? No. Why? Because they use Olive Oil for culinary purposes instead of the heavier animal fats. It is also very beneficial to the preservation of the gums and teeth. Have you noticed it? In fact it has more soothing and healing qualities than any other food known. It can be used for frying all kinds of food, especially fish, game, potatoes and meats of all kinds, also in dressing all kinds of green stuff, and in making salads. Do not risk your health and life by using a mixture of cotton seed and peanut oil packed and sold as Olive Oil and more often appearing under the name of "Salad Oil." Insist on getting the genuine article from a reliable dealer. All of the goods that are packed and manufactured by us are guaranteed to conform with the existing Pure Food Laws in their strictest sense. Dealers, write us for prices. We can interest you.

BIG CROWDS THROUGH PITTSBURG EXPOSITION

Good Music, Fine Exhibits and Novel Amusements

The Pittsburg Exposition opened its twentieth annual season Wednesday, Sept. 2, in the presence of delighted crowds, and it can be safely said that never before in its history did this now famous industrial exhibition inaugurate a season under more auspicious circumstances and, judging from the laudatory comments heard at every hand, a record-breaking attendance is expected. The buildings have been re-embellished and redecorated and in their new dress present a most attractive appearance while entirely new features in the way of amusements and many new exhibitors who make their first appearance at the exposition, add novelty and interest to the entertainment.

The Theodore Thomas orchestra was the opening musical attraction and the music hall is packed every afternoon and evening to hear the concerts of this notable organization under the direction of that talented leader, Frederick Stock. The Thomas orchestra opened the exposition last year and it received a most enthusiastic welcome upon its return this season. The programs are diversified and they include many new selections while some of the old favorites are retained. The Thomas orchestra will be here until Sept. 8, and the remaining concerts will include the works of the most noted composers.

The electrical display this season is the most pretentious and instructive ever given here. All the latest appliances pertaining to electricity as a commercial and household commodity are practically demonstrated showing the marked progress made by this wonderful power in the past decade, and many new inventions are exhibited here to the public for the first time. The Carnegie Steel company's model of "Fighting Bob" Evans' flagship "Connecticut" created a great deal of interest and large crowds who were curious to see this famous battleship.

The Hippodrome is used this season for the presentation of the military spectacle of the Spanish-American war. This is a big production put on with historic accuracy and is attracting large and delighted audiences. "A Day in Japan" is another popular amusement, which is an electrical cyclorama picturing life in a Japanese city with striking effects. The evolution of railroading during the past century is a feature that is attracting a great deal of attention. After seeing the old Conestoga wagons, the canal boats, the first engine made for the Pennsylvania and compares them with the palace car trains that whirl across the continent today one gets a good idea of the wonderful advancement in transportation. There are many other interesting and instructive exhibits which are a source of delight to the visitors.

Then there is the merry-go-round, the Ferris wheel and numerous other amusements that are daily contributing to the entertainment of young and old. The show this season is greater and grander than ever and promises to go down in history as one of the most successful of the exposition.

TWO VERSIONS.

Story of the Climb as Told by the Tourist and the Guide.

"He was touring the Bernese Oberland. At the Bear hotel in Grindelwald a mountaineer sat in the hall, a glass of beer before him and his feet, in their hobnailed mountain boots, extended toward the fire. The mountaineer had just made an ascent of the Tiger, and he talked like this about it: "Well, well, well, a climb indeed—four hours of incessant step cutting with an ax on an ice slope as smooth as glass and as steep as a wall. Look at this bunch of edelweiss. I spied it on the edge of a dreadful precipice. My guide refused to let me pluck it; said it was madness. For his part, he would not risk his life so foolishly. But at last, what with eloquence and an offer of 200 francs, I persuaded him to come along. The advance was a wful. One misstep meant death. But I secured the flower, when suddenly the guide's foot slipped, he fell and began to roll toward the edge. But I thrust my ax firmly into the ice and, bracing myself, seized the rope that bound us together, and—the man was saved."

"And at the same time in the hotel kitchen the guide was giving another version of the ascent in words like these: "Well, well, what a customer! Another like that chap and I give up the business. From the start he was faint and dizzy. In fact, wherever any real climbing began we had to carry him like a sack of meal. And mean! Refused us a single penny extra for all our extra trouble. Last of all, he begged for the sprig of edelweiss I wore in my hat, and I was fool enough to let him have it."—New York Times.

Bill—Did you go to see that boy actor last night? Jill—Yes. "Did he get a hand?" "What he ought to have got was a shingle."—Yonkers Statesman.

SYMPTOMS OF RABIES.

Signs by Which You May Know When a Dog is Really Mad.

Hydrophobia is so rare and terrifying that its symptoms and treatment are little understood. As a matter of fact, the commonly accepted expression of madness in a dog is often misleading. The real mad dog does not shun water, as it is said. On the contrary, mad dogs often rush to the water and drink it eagerly, if they are able to swallow. The mad dog does not froth at the mouth. It does not run amuck, snapping at everything in its path. What, then, are the indications of the mad dog? To those familiar with a given dog the surest symptom and the one which should excite closest attention is a distinct and unaccountable change in the dog's disposition, a staid dog becoming excitable and a frisky one dull. That condition does not necessarily mean rabies, but it is suspicious, and if in addition the dog has trouble in swallowing, as though it seemed to have a bone in its throat, beware! That dog should be instantly tied up, because if he is rabid it takes but a day or two for ferocious instincts to develop. The unmistakable evidence, however, of a dog with rabies is the sticky, whitish saliva which covers the teeth and shows on the drawn lips. The eyes glare and are red; the dog has paroxysms of running fury, during which it barks hoarsely, which alternate with periods of temporary exhaustion. —Caspar Whitney in Outing.

BORED AND PLUGGED.

The Truthful Story of a Ship Struck by Lightning.

"In Duluth down on the docks some days ago some fresh water Ancient Mariners were talking of adventures on the raging main," began an old steamship man. "Captain H." said one, "it seems to me I've heard somewhere that your vessel was once struck by lightning while sailing, sailing over the bounding main?"

"Yep, twice," said Captain H. "Happened off Point Aux Barques 'bout fifteen years ago. We were joggin' 'long when a thunderstorm overtook us, and the very first flash of lightning struck the deck amidships and bored a hole as big as my right leg right down through the bottom of the vessel." "And she foundered, of course?" "No, sir. The water began rushin' in, and she would have foundered, but there came a second flash, and a bolt struck my foreto' gallant mast. It was cut off near the top, turned bottom end up, and as it came down it entered the hole and plugged it up as tight as a drum. When we got down to drydock we simply saved off either end and left the plug in the planks." —Washington Herald.

Fatalities.

"Yes," said the beauteous young thing, "when I asked papa if I might go mountain climbing he took my head off. But I had my own way, of course, and finally the crowd got started, and you know they made me put on a lot of wraps and things that simply suffocated me. And about halfway up I slipped and fell over a cliff and broke my neck! Indeed, yes. And when they had lifted and pulled me back on the trail I absolutely died from pain. But before long I was able to go on to the top, but by the time we were almost there I collapsed and sat down, for I could never breathe again. But they made me pull myself together and in time we got to the summit, and there it was so cold I froze to death! Oo-oh! And I was glad, I can tell you, when we came down at last, and as soon as they got me home I went to bed, dead from exhaustion."—Independent.

Will Remember His Friends.

When Patrick McGinnagan became a member of the Chicago police force a delegation of his friends burst in upon him while he was at dinner and presented him with a handsome night stick in honor of his popularity and their esteem. Completely bewildered by this unexpected token, the new policeman nevertheless struggled to his feet and stammered his appreciation. "Friends, ye have upset me wld y'r kindness," he said, flourishing the night stick. "O'll try an' do me duty wld this little shillalah, and I hope an' trust that ivry man her'll live t' feel its infooence."

The Alphabet.

The great Phoenician alphabet, the parent of every form of European writing and of the scripts of Persia, Arabia and India as well, owes but little to Egypt. It is true that in the construction of their alphabet the Phoenicians made use of certain hieratic characters found in their trade dealings with Egypt, but this fact in no way detracts from the glory of the invention which belongs to the "Yankees of antiquity."—New York American.

A Woman's Era.

"If I were a man!" is surely a very unnecessary cry these days. The epoch of the man is past. The twentieth century is the era of the woman. There is with a few very slight exceptions nothing that a woman as a woman cannot do, and do every bit as well as if she were a man.—London P. T. O.

The Real Sequence.

Mrs. Premiere—You always get a new gown before you go away on a visit, don't you? Mrs. Seconde—No, I always go away on a visit after I get a new gown.—Woman's Home Companion.

Manners carry the world for a moment, character for all time.

FISHES' FACES.

The Fascination They Have For One Lover of Nature.

Did you ever stop to examine the expression on the face of a fish? I do not mean of some notoriously grotesque fish, but of just any plain sea-faring fish. I confess that the fascination for me is the same whether I stand in front of some great collection of little monstrosities like that in the Naples aquarium or whether I sit by my dining room window and contemplate the goldfish in my little boy's glass bowl. People watch the monkeys at the zoo and remark how human they are, how sly and crafty the old ones, how cute and playful the young ones. But for steady company give me the fish. How restful they are with their mouthings, as regular as if they were governed by a balance wheel. How quiet, too, for not one word of murmured protest or of chattering fault finding do they inflict upon us! How philosophical as they bask in the sun the livelong day or seek the occasional shade of the modest sprig of greens which forms the conventional garnishing of their watery abode! How easily gratified are their simple tastes! Surely with their good manners, their quiet deportment and their stoical bearing goldfish are the ideal companions of the mature man. Monkeys and dogs and kittens may amuse the children by their tricks and antics, but only the grown man can appreciate the solid qualities of the fish's character as written upon his features.—Atlantic Monthly.

Hairs in the Watch.

"Well, sir, I had to send my watch downtown to have it cleaned out again," said an east side barber the other day. "I have to send my watch to the repair shop about once a month, and there is absolutely nothing the matter with it, except that it is full of hairs. I do not understand how the hairs can get into the works and behind the hands and mix up in the mainspring and every place as they do in my timepiece. I watched myself one month as closely as I could, and I swear I never opened the back of it. Yet at the end of the month I unscrewed the back lid, and it was full of little fine hairs. I always keep it in my pocket when I am cutting hair, but I don't see how any hairs get into the watch. Yet they must, because they are always there."—Columbus Dispatch.

A New Definition.

The class was studying grammar. "Now," said the teacher, "can any one give me a word ending with 'ous,' meaning full of, as in 'dangerous,' full of danger, and 'hazardous,' full of hazard?"

There was silence in the class for a moment. Then a boy sitting in the front row put out his hand. "Well, John," said the teacher, "what is your word?" "Please, sir," came the reply, "'plous,' full of ple."

Vigorous Youngsters.

Lady—I am looking for a governess for my children. Manager of Intelligence Office—Didn't we supply you with one last week? "Yes." "Well, madam, according to her report you don't need a governess; you need a lion tamer."

His Reasoning.

De Tough—I want to return this dog to the gent what owns him. I seen his ad. in the paper. The Lady—How did you guess it was a "gent" that put the ad. in? De Tough—Cause it said, "No questions asked."—London Pick-Me-Up.

Pulling That Hair.

"What makes me really mad," said the woman, "is to spend minutes, maybe hours, trying to get hold of a white hair which shows up on my head like a dazzling light, yet which is tantalizingly elusive when I try to catch it, and then when I do finally separate it from the brown hair and give it a vigorous pull to find that I have snatched out a good brown hair, after all, and left the white one still shining."—New York Press.

A New One For Him.

"The climate here is salubrious, isn't it?" remarked the tourist. "Say, friend," replied the native, "jest write that there word down fur me, will yer? I git tired o' swearin' at this climate in the same old way. That's a new one."—Philadelphia Press.

The Toast of an Irishman.

Michael Meyers Shoemaker wrote "Wanderings in Ireland." An old Irishman read a fragment of it that related to the reader's neighborhood. He asked the name of the author. "Mr. Shoemaker, is it?" he commented. "A nice gentleman, I'll go ball. 'Tis a fine country he chose to travel in too. May the heavens be his bed for choosing it, and may every hair in his honor's head be a mold candle to light his soul to glory!"
