ONE WIFE TOO MANY

The Laws of Pennsylvania Object to More Than One Wife at a Time.

A few months ago a couple came to Reynoldsville, rented a flat and began housekeeping and from all appearance their future looked bright and rosy, but one day last week a woman came to town who claims to be the man's lawful wife, without divorce, and had warrants issued for the unfaithful husband and wife No. 2. It is claimed that wife No. 1 is willing to settle for a certain sum of money and divorce, but the matter has not been adjusted yet. The parties have not been given a hearing, as it could not be settled if a hearing is given before a justice. The man was allowed to go to the home of his father yesterdar to try to persuade the old gentleman to advance the necessary sum of money to pay the demands of wife No. 1.
