

The Great Demand

of the World has always been a simple, pleasant and efficient laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents per bottle.

Kentucky Tobacco Districts.

Tobacco is grown in several distinct districts in Kentucky, and there, as elsewhere, each district has by reason of soil or climate a virtual monopoly of its own type. Down in the southwestern corner, in the so-called Black Patch, embracing several counties of Tennessee, a dark and heavy leaf is grown and fire-cured for the foreign trade. This is bought by government, or so-called "regie" buyers. North of this is a heavy leaf stemmed from the British trade. North and east of this is the region in which a dark air-cured leaf is grown for domestic use. East of this, embracing all Blue Grass and extending to Maysville, is the Burley district, in which is grown the famous red and white Burley tobaccos. Burley tobacco is a light, fine-fibered leaf, which has to a large degree the property of absorbing licorice and other adulterants. It is, therefore, used for making sweet chewing tobaccos, plug, twist and fine-cut. Because of its peculiar fitness for this the tobacco companies have for 40 or 50 years made use of it in this way, and the popular brands, which are assets of no mean value, are based upon the public taste for this manipulated Burley.—J. L. Matthews, in Atlantic.

Gigantic Lemons.

It is not regarded as a joke to be "handed a lemon" in some parts of Mexico, where this fruit grows to enormous size. To carry one of these monster lemons is no small task. These lemons do not bear shipment as well as those of the smaller variety, but they are in much demand in the localities where they are grown. They are full of juice, and one of the larger size has been known to afford enough acid for a whole barrel of lemonade. These gigantic lemons are found growing wild in a remote part of Mexico several years ago. Specimens of the tree were obtained and introduced into other localities until the fruit is now becoming common. Experiments are now being made with the view of increasing the thickness of the rind and firmness of the fruit, with the view of giving the lemon more stable qualities for shipping purposes.—Indianapolis News.

Bacteria on Paper Money.

W. W. Hilditch of the Sheffield Scientific School has by laboratory tests ascertained that the bacteria found on paper money, while running up into the thousands for each bill, are not usually of an infectious or virulent type.

NOT A MIRACLE

Just Plain Cause and Effect.

There are some quite remarkable things happening every day, which seem almost miraculous.

Some persons would not believe that a man could suffer from coffee drinking so severely as to cause spells of unconsciousness. And to find complete relief in changing from coffee to Postum is well worth recording.

"I used to be a great coffee drinker, so much so that it was killing me by inches. My heart became so weak I would fall and lie unconscious for an hour at a time. The spells caught me sometimes two or three times a day.

"My friends, and even the doctor, told me it was drinking coffee that caused the trouble. I would not believe it, and still drank coffee until I could not leave my room.

"Then my doctor, who drinks Postum himself, persuaded me to stop coffee and try Postum. After much hesitation I concluded to try it. That was eight months ago. Since then I have had but few of those spells, none for more than four months.

"I feel better, sleep better and am better every way. I now drink nothing but Postum and touch no coffee, and as I am seventy years of age all my friends think the improvement quite remarkable."

"There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF WOMEN

The Flower Season.

There is an invalid woman whose neighbor has for years, at intervals of a few weeks, bought her a little pot of whatever growing flowers are in season.

Watching flowers grow is a constant joy to a sick person, and she says this choice of plant is so much wiser than a bunch of cut flowers.

Remember this the next time you are buying flowers for the sick.—Indianapolis News.

A Gracious Queen.

Just before Queen Alexandra left England on her recent continental trip she received a letter from Martha Massey, a servant girl who was lying ill in St. Luke's Hospital, London. The girl wrote that she was dying of consumption, and the doctors had only given her a few weeks to live, and above all things she wanted to see the Queen before she died. Alexandra was so touched by the letter that she went to see her and took a present of fruit and flowers to her.

Envelope Guards Against Meddlers.

Thieves and meddlers will have a hard time with a new envelope, made in Paris, if they try to seal it up again, after they have opened it, so that it will not have the appearance of having been tampered with. It is really two envelopes. Each is of thin paper. One is a pronounced blue, the other lighter in color and different in texture. Each has a gummed flap. First the letter is placed in the dark-blue envelope, which is slightly smaller than the other. This is not sealed, but is placed in the larger envelope and the inner flap brought outside and gummed down on the outside covering. The outer flap is much larger than the inner flap and reaches down to a good-sized star-shaped opening in the outer envelope through which shows the inner envelop. So, when the outer flap is sealed, it sticks not only to the outer envelope, but also, because of the opening, to the inner one. The letter is thus doubly sealed.—New York Press.

Women Swimmers.

Of the thirty-four starters in the life-saving corps endurance swim from the Brooklyn Bridge to Coney Island, the two women swimmers went the whole thirteen miles, though most of the men quit. One of the women had never swum further than two miles before, but she finished fresh. Several of the men collapsed after finishing.

Swimming is vigorous exercise. If the water is not too cold, it is the best kind of exercise. The chest muscles are developed and their strength helps the lungs. The abdomen and back are strengthened. The support of the water lessens injurious internal strains.

Men have more strength than women, but women have more vitality than men. In swimming, the chill of the water tells more on a man than on a woman. The same feminine quality that enables women to be superior to men in a dentist's chair helped Miss Gallup and Miss Hurst keep cheerful for five hours in the ocean.—New York World.

The Eldest Daughter.

The task laid upon the shoulders of the eldest daughter in homes where the children are many and the income small, is sometimes an unduly hard one.

The others' delinquencies are so often visited on her. She, while a little one herself, is blamed for not keeping the others out of mischief, and warned that she must always set a good example. The governess is shocked if a younger one does better in anything. And when she comes home from school people seem to expect, in spite of proverbs, an old head on young shoulders.

Other girls are thinking of pleasure; there are duties waiting for her—duties that are often difficult to do, because she has to the mother's place without mother's authority.

It is Alice here, Alice there, and Alice everywhere. "Oh, dear! Am I never to have any time of my own?"

It's a difficult post, my dear, but it is one of the finest in the world if you do your best to fill it properly. For, says Home Chat, with all these calls upon you, how can you help developing into a capable woman if you try? You have the choice, you can chafe against it all and learn nothing, or you can put your back against it, and learn more than you ever learned at school of helpfulness and sympathy.

Divinely Tall.

Yesterday was marked by the number of tall individuals met in a brief stroll "downtown." Generally the average height is maintained and extremes are too few to attract attention; but it happened that giants were abroad, and the observing person took notes. Any man six feet tall with an inch or two to spare is conspicuous, but when a woman towers to that height she is an object of comment, not only with her own sex, but with the other, gallant as it may be. And yesterday there were three of her. At first it was imagined these three "divinely tall" young women were the same, until chance brought two of them side by side at a silk counter, and then it was wondered if each was not consciously proud of her stature.

for both carried their heads high and both were beautifully dressed. But what pignies they made of the crowd moving about them! No sooner had this lofty pair gone on than a third "six-footer" of the feminine gender was encountered. She was as handsome as she was tall, with splendid dark eyes, and her black draperies—for she was not tailor-made—bespoke foreign manufacture, and she, too, was head and shoulders above the men who passed her by. If one takes to counting his steps, or the people, short or tall, he meets, or doing any other silly thing after the manner of Dr. Johnson touching the Fleet street posts, he soon finds there is nothing peculiar in numbers, therefore giants may be only coming into vogue, and we need not remark them any more.—Boston Herald.

She's A Don't Fretter.

Is it not remarkable how unhappy are a lot of ought-to-be-happy persons? The women who get nervous prostration because they have nothing to do, and others who possess so much money they become ill wondering what they will do with it. That must be terrible.

You and I and the woman next, who work like tinkers and who suppress a shriek at the sight of a postman for fear he has the ice bill, the rent bill, the water tax or the coal bill, we rather think we should like to fly our kites in that other atmosphere, just to see if it would make us also ill.

Even the masses admit there are many classes in the world: There are the fretters and non-fretters; there are the thinkers, and non-thinkers; there are the dull wise and the happy foolish.

There are those who mount on Pegasus and those who give him a nasty clip. There are the narrow minded who see ill in all things natural, and the broad-minded who go through life casting a beautiful radiance upon all persons within their circle.

"Join the non-fretters, you won't regret it," is the advice the anxious ones need. They are the only happy ones who "don't worry" about yesterday. They have forgotten that it ever existed. Seldom do they fret about tomorrow, because tomorrow may not reach them.

Today they live. They may have their little annoyances; the world is full of persons who won't sit still and hold their peace, but must be popping up and bursting out with disturbing talk. The wise ones regard these as spring showers—inconvenient, but often enjoyable because they make a change.

The non-fretters do not stay awake nights for fear the cook will make muffins instead of corn bread for breakfast. They are grateful for the muffins. They don't get into a stew and boil over because the yearly gown does not arrive in time for the feast. The joy of trying it on is thus reserved for the next day.

We raise our brows and glance backward at the horrible years when we carried all the world's worry on our shoulders and would not have smiled for a mansion and lot in heaven.

What good did it do? The world waddled and toddled on at the same old gait, never changing step, and all we got for our trouble was dyspepsia and falling hair.

Just let the world and its inhabitants take care of themselves. You look after little No. 1 and those who are near and dear to No. 1.

Be just decent to your fellow beings. If you have a few lovely posies up your sleeve occasionally hand them out. Then be content—calmly, respectably content.—New York Sun.

Fashion Notes.

High tan shoes will be fashionable this season.

The vogue for Empire fashions is not confined wholly to gowns.

The new shade of duck's wing and wistaria is expressed in many of this season's millinery designs.

Linen and pique coat and skirt suits trimmed with wide bands of lace are among the smartest walking suits.

Lace insertion borders the hem of the skirt as well as the edges of the coat and is seldom less than four inches wide.

The classical Recamier scarf would twice just below the bust and left to hang in loose knotted ends at one side is one of the popular draperies.

No longer is plain stitching the principal decoration of the tailor-made coat. Whether it be of cloth, linen, or silk, it is trimmed either with braid or with straps or bands of different materials.

With some of the handsomest lingerie and lace robes seen at fashionable restaurants there have been diminutive little bodices which seem to be made up of a draped sash, veiled with white lace.

Soutache braid enters into the composition of the new hats as a decoration. Many of the latest models show a tam crown braided in rows, completed by a brim of satin, and are to be had in black and colors.

Of course, taupe is an unnatural color for flowers, but we have them shaded in a single cluster from black to the lightest possible shade, and they blend beautifully with other flowers and materials in the soft, old shades.

The Jury System.

Sometimes it is a question whether the jury system furthers the operation of justice or hinders it. In an Ohio case recently the trial was halted because a juror announced from the box that he wouldn't believe the prosecuting witness under oath because he was a drunkard. As this statement was said to prejudice the jury it was excused, and the prisoner remanded to jail to await a new trial. His attorneys are now trying to get the case dismissed on the ground that he has been placed once in jeopardy and cannot be so placed again. Thus, if the man is guilty, justice may be defeated, and if he is innocent, he is compelled to serve a term in prison which he does not deserve. Jurors rarely recognize the importance of their acts, and, lacking the intelligence to do this, it is sometimes questioned whether they possess enough intelligence to be intrusted with a man's life.—Washington Post.

Woman Promoter.

Western Texas is proud of Mrs. Anney McElroy Brett, a woman promoter. Today she is the telephone queen of the Southwest. She is president of the Southern Independent Telephone and Telegraph Company, and president and general manager of the Brett Construction, Telephone and Telegraph Company. These companies, representing more than $500,000, were organized by her without a dollar of capital to start with.

A CURE AT CITY MISSION.

Awful Case of Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Scratching—Her Tortures Yield to Cuticura.

"A young woman came to our city mission in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), incipient paresis, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure. Her poor body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We worked hard over her for seven weeks but we could see little improvement. One day I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept better that night and the next day I got a box of Cuticura Ointment. In five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, and she is now strong and well. Laura Jane Bates, 85 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y., Mar. 11, 1907."

Japanese Street Railways.

Yokohama has its electric tramways, Tokio, the capital of Japan, has a fine system of electric railways. The railway engineers and directors are Japanese. Shanghai has recently completed a splendid system of tramways, and Hongkong has operated street railways for several years with good results. There are many other cities in Japan and China which will undoubtedly follow the example of these cities.

Good Appetites.

Here are some figures from a lumber camp up in Greenwood which give an idea as to the appetite of husky workmen: There are thirty-five men in this crew and the cook reports that he makes each day 300 large biscuits, 150 doughnuts, thirty-six pies, bakes six quarts of dry beans, with potatoes, vegetables, etc., in proportion. A large beef is eaten every five days.

New Warships.

When completed and ready to go into commission the North Dakota will represent an initial outlay of $10,000,000. Nearly $1,000,000 of this will be spent for guns alone. There are 10 12-inch guns at $65,000 each, and 14 five-inch guns at $10,000 each in the main battery, besides 12 rapid-fire guns and minor pieces.

Not Particularly Good.

A keen retort is credited to the late Dr. Haig-Brown, master of Charterhouse, says the Youth's Companion. His brother-in-law, Dr. Porter, the master of Peterhouse, another famous English school, wrote to him inquiring his precise meaning in a certificate that a boy's character was "generally" good. "When I say generally," he replied, "I mean not particularly."

Where Clove Trees Thrive.

There is no place in the world where the clove tree thrives as well as in the islands of Zanzibar and Pemba. It is the principal product of the islands, and, together with copra, and the ivory brought from the mainland, cloves form the principal item of export.

TELEGRAPHING TYPEWRITERS

New Instrument Sends and Receives Without Making Mistakes.

The latest device in telegraphy is a telegraphing typewriter. It can be attached to and placed under any ordinary typewriter, says the Electrical World. When so connected it becomes a complete sending and receiving telegraph instrument, and both sending and receiving instruments record the message.

The only experience required is that of an operator working a typewriter. The message is sent in the same manner in which you would proceed to write a letter on an ordinary typewriter. This same message will be received on the receiving typewriter exactly as it appears on the sending one.

In some respects it resembles the familiar stock ticker and other printing telegraph instruments, but unlike these it makes possible the use of capital and small letters as in ordinary letter writing. The receiving machine records the message just as written and gives what corresponds to a carbon copy made on the original machine.

There is said to be no chance for mistakes. The machine takes down the message just as sent. There is no human hearing or carelessness or neglect, as is the case with the present Morse system of dots and dashes in use all over the world.

Cuba's Orange Crop.

One half million crates is the most recent estimate of this year's orange crop in Cuba—the largest in the history of the island. Until a few years ago thousands of crates of oranges were brought to Cuba from Florida and California every year, but for the last three seasons these shipments have become less, and will possibly cease entirely within another year. Orange cultivation on a scientific scale did not begin in Cuba until about eight or nine years ago, and may be considered in its infancy, but is progressing rapidly, and even at the early stage is now in position to supply the local markets. The orange business on the island is controlled almost entirely by Americans.

Profits of Banking.

The Bank of England is said to have had a bad half-year, because its profits for the six months ending with August were only about $3,250,000. How Oklahoma would like to make such a bank as that do stunts.—Cleveland Leader.

Brought About a Remarkable Change.

Mrs. A. J. Davis, of Murray, Ky., says: "When I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, kidney disease was slowly poisoning me. Dizziness spells almost made me fall, sharp pains like knife thrusts would catch me in the back, and finally an attack of grip left me with a constant agonizing backache. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me quickly, and in three weeks' time there was not a symptom of kidney trouble remaining."
