One of our citizens was fined three dollars recently for burning leaves on one of the streets within this borough. There is an ordinance forbidding the burning of papers, leaves or rubbish on the streets.

Members of the Chic-Corn Club arranged to all go out hunting this morning, but it had been so long since they had seen rain that they were afraid of it, got scared and went not to the tall timber.

Borough Ordinances Worth Remembering

Their Violation May Prove Costly and All Should Be Rigidly Enforced.

One of our citizens was fined $3.00 several days ago for burning leaves on the street in front of his residence. The gentleman did not know there was an ordinance forbidding the burning of leaves, rubbish, etc., on the streets, but had to pay the fine. For the benefit of our readers we publish a few of the things that are forbidden by the borough laws, and for which you are liable for a fine if you fracture the law: Playing ball on the streets, snow balling on the streets, ringing door bells with intent of annoying occupants of houses, loafing or lounging on street corners, sidewalks, steps, etc., driving over six miles an hour, burning rubbish, etc., on streets, riding bicycles on sidewalks, coasting on sidewalks, breaking or destroying street lamps, allowing animals to run at large within the borough. There are other important ordinances in the book of laws for this borough that should be generally known by the citizens of the borough.

A borough ordinance is always published at least twice before it becomes active, and of course the town council is not to blame if the citizens do not read the ordinances, or forget them.

Reckless Hunting.

On account of the recklessness and carelessness of some hunters, a number of farmers, who never before posted notices forbidding hunters from trespassing on their lands, are doing so this year. They claim that fences are torn down, forest fires started, domestic animals killed and the lives of members of their families endangered by hunters. Therefore the careful hunter is forbidden privileges that he otherwise would be granted if it were not for the careless and reckless fellows who go hunting.

Joseph Horwitz, the Reynoldsville cartoonist, who was formerly on the staff of the Pittsburgh Press, and later with the Post, is now wielding his pencil in the art department of the Philadelphia North American.

John Deible, brother of Jacob and Henry C. Deible, of Reynoldsville, died at his home in Warren, Pa., on Thursday, Nov. 5th. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. Henry Deible was with his brother when he died and Jacob went to Warren Friday to attend the funeral. Deceased was 72 years old. He is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter.

Twenty-five witnesses were subpoenaed and all went to court Monday on an assault and battery case, on which the defendant was discharged in a hearing before a justice of the peace in Reynoldsville a few weeks ago. From what we can learn the case should never have been taken into court. The costs in the case will be considerable and the county will have to pay the same.

There is a group of pictures on exhibition in the Columbus Studio window that awakens memories of other days. Most of them were taken by G. J. Corwin and show group pictures of young men, once familiar to all in town, nearly all of whom are now located elsewhere, also pictures of Reynoldsville as it was in days gone by. The rapid changes that take place in a town and its inhabitants are strikingly illustrated.

J. Van Reed left here Monday morning for Fredericksburg, Va., to attend the dedication to-day, Nov. 11th, of the monument being erected by Pennsylvania at Fredericksburg in commemoration of the charge of Humphrey's Division on Marye's Heights, Fredericksburg, Va., on the 13th day of December, 1862. Harry was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, pay costs and undergo an imprisonment in the Allegheny Workhouse for a period of six months. Mrs. Sharp was sentenced to pay $1.00 fine, pay costs and undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for a period of thirty days.

Had a Strenuous Session.

Six hundred and fifty-four citizens cast their ballots at the polls in Brookville on Tuesday, and the election officers did not complete the count of the vote and certification of the result until 2:00 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, after a continuous all night session. Brookville is said to be the largest single voting precinct, in point of registry, in the United States, and this is probably the last time that it will have that distinction, as a report of viewers appointed to divide the same into election precincts is now in the hands of the court, and the borough will no doubt be divided before another election is held.—Brookville Republican.

November Term of Court.

The November term of criminal court opened in Brookville Monday with Judge John W. Reed presiding. There were sixty-seven cases on the docket. D. A. Hamilton, of Perry township, was appointed foreman of the grand jury, Andrew Barr, of Rose township, constable in charge of grand jury, J. S. Dinger, of Pinecreek township, and H. M. McClelland, of Porter township, stipstaves.

We have been informed that in his instructions to the constables Judge Reed stated that during the recent campaign certain hotels had been run as saloons only, and he commanded the constables to investigate all such charges and report to the court, and if the charges were well founded the court would take official cognizance of the charges.
