Bill of Interest to Firemen.

At the next session of the state legislature, which convenes next month, a bill will be presented to levy a tax of one-half mill on personal property and real estate in all boroughs and towns within the state for the purpose of creating a firemen's reserve fund for the establishment, the equipment and the maintenance of volunteer fire companies in boroughs and towns. At a convention of the Southeastern Volunteer Firemen's Association of Pennsylvania, held at South Bethlehem recently, the proposed bill was endorsed and will be endorsed by other associations in the state.

The frequent conflicts between firemen and borough legislative bodies in regard to the expenditure of borough funds for fire department work is the reason given for asking for the new law.

Political Pull for Teachers.

Political "pulls" in the hiring of school teachers was the subject of a vigorous address by R. B. Teltrick, assistant superintendent of public instruction, formerly superintendent of public schools of Jefferson county in Scranton, Pa., last week.

The fact that the teacher is a resident of the district and the son or daughter of a taxpayer, or man with influence should not sway the director, he said. They should have one qualification only, competency. Teachers with a pull are without ambition and usually without the disposition to exert themselves, feeling secure in their position on account of their "pull."—Punxsutawney Spirit.

The Dead Beat.

He who is given credit—who is considerably allowed time in which to pay for an article for which he has not the money at the time of purchase—and who walks around for weeks and months, with the money in his pocket, without the least effort to pay the bill, is no better than a thief. In fact, he is not as good, because the thief takes chances, while the other not only gets the goods but also displays the rankest kind of ingratitude. They use the money, which belongs to others, to purchase luxuries for themselves or Christmas gifts for others, all the time realizing that if they were decent they would utilize it in paying their honest debts.—Oil City Blizzard.

Try it One Year.

Sometimes a person's tongue gets them into trouble. Watch the tongue; it is your tongue, it belongs to you, and is the only one for which you are responsible. Your neighbors tongue may need care also, but that is his business; this is yours to see to. Watch your tongue; it needs watching. It is a fire—watch it. It is the helm which guides the vessel. Let the helmsman keep wide awake. It can bless or it can curse; it can poison or heal; it can pierce hearts or blight hopes; it can sow discord or separate chief friends. Watch your tongue, no one but you can take care of that tongue. Your neighbors may wish they could bridle it, but they can't do it.—Exchange.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. D. E. Stanford, Born April 17, 1837; Died December 8, 1908.

Mrs. D. E. Stanford was born April 17th, 1837, died December 8th, 1908, aged 71 years, 7 months and 21 days. She was stricken with paralysis a few days previous, which caused her death. Funeral services were held in the M. E. church at Sandy Valley, conducted by Rev. J. C. McEntire and Rev. F. M. Redinger. Hughes & Fleming had charge of the funeral.

Susannah Clarissa Stanford, whose maiden name was Knisely, was born in Bedford county, Pa. She came with her father and family, John Knisely, deceased, to Perry township, Jefferson county, about the year 1840. She was of a family of twelve daughters, no sons, all of whom have passed over with the parents except three, viz: Mrs. Eliza Smyer, of Illinois, Mrs. Lizzie Blah, of Brockport, and Minnie, of DuBois.

When sixteen years old she was converted and joined the M. E. church under the labors of Rev. R. A. Caruthers, at Perryville, and ever after remained an earnest worker in the church of her choice. In the year 1854 she was married to Peter Wells, who died in 1878. After remaining a widow six years and three months and working in Lang's factory, at Langville, to support her family of helpless children, she married D. E. Stanford in 1884. As she changed her place of residence she always took her church letter to her new home. She, with Peter Wells, lived near Langville quite a number of years. She was so respected and loved at Langville, that since the sad news of her death reached them, the entire community mourns for her.

When she married Mr. Stanford she moved to his home in Washington township. With her came her church letter and she was received with her husband by the church of Reynoldsville with open arms. She leaves to mourn their loss an aged husband, five sons, three daughters, one stepson and one daughter, viz: J. K. Wells, of Sandy Valley; Mrs. S. B. Hail, of Brookville; G. W. Wells, of Homer City, Pa.; Mrs. S. G. Austin, S. O. Wells, C. A. Wells, A. J. Wells, all of West Reynoldsville, and Mrs. M. S. Hartman, of Reynoldsville, and W. A. Stanford, of Rimersburg, Pa.

The lives of the holy leave the most precious memories. Death had taken aim at a bright mark, and on Tuesday morning, December 8th, she fell asleep in Jesus and thus passed quietly away in the arms of the Savior, whom she had loved so long and well and served so faithfully for fifty-four years. She possessed a remarkable degree of forbearance and patient endurance, was ever more willing to suffer wrong than do wrong. Nothing grieved her more deeply than to hear contention. She was a woman of good family, of dignified presence, of remarkable strength and culture of mind and retentiveness of memory, even in her declining years.

When loved ones pass on before, and we are left to fight life's journey without them as best we may, how it comforts the heart to gather up those sweet memories so sadly scattered and broken by times relentless hands. She has received the crown of glory from the hand of love and dwells in the mansion not made with hands, eternal in the heavens, while an aged husband, sons and daughters and thirteen grandchildren, with a multitude of friends, mourn the departure of one so dear to all. They mourn not as those without hope. She sleeps in Jesus to awake in glory, and verily her works do follow her. She was a sincere Christian woman, strong in prayer. I dare not wish her back again, (although I am so lonely) to contend with the strife of this wicked world, but expect to greet her in our Father's mansion, when the mists have cleared away and the cares of life have passed.
