THE SLEEPING SICKNESS WHICH MEANS DEATH

How many readers have heard of this terrible disease? It prevails in that far-away country-Africa-especially the Congo district. It is caused by the bite of the tsetse fly. When it bites a person, the sleeping symptoms begin and finally the sufferer sleeps until death occurs.

Contrast this with the peaceful, balmy sleep of health. Is there anything more wearing than to lie awake at night, tossing about, nervous, with cold feet, hot head and mercy knows what else? Short of letting the tsetse fly bite us we would do almost anything for relief. How can we prevent it? Mr. George Hayes, of Union City, Pa., writes: "I had lost my appetite, was all run-down, could not sleep nights. I had tried everything without relief. Vinol was recommended, and to my surprise, it belped me at once; gave me a splendid appetite, and now I sleep soundly."

What Vinol did for Mr. Hayes, it will do for every run-down, nervous and overworked person who cannot sleep.

Her One Ambition

She wanted a job, she told the manager of the big store, and everything about her, from drooping eyelashes to neatly molded instep, indicated that she would draw enough trade, or ought to, to cover her salary.

But the manager told her that for one of her inexperience she would command only about $6 a week. She accepted this, if it was the best he could do, but as she was about to turn away she hesitated and asked demurely, looking at him through the drooping lashes, "Do you suppose you could make that $7 a week, so I could have a little laundry done once in awhite?"-St. Louis Republic.

Long Love. The word "love" in one of the Indian dialects is "chemlendamoughkunagogagu." Fancy a sweet forest maiden telling her copper colored brave that she "chemlendamoughkunagogagus" him. The conjugation of the verb "to love" in that dialect must take at least a year to recite.-Path-

Badly Crippled

With Rheumatism

Is Cured by Uric-O Treatment After All Others Have Failed.

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer in the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physicians in the country, who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in that time several hundred dollars and seemed to grow worse instead of better each day. I was on crutches and in constant pain and became very dis-couraged. Being advised by a friend I purchased Smith's Uric-O prescription, took it home and used it that day

"Those fearful sciatic pains left me my blood flowed freely and I knew I had found a cure, as I slept and rested well all that night, something I had not done before in two years. I used in all six bottles of Uric O and have never felt a return of the disease

AN UNPAYABLE DEBT.

The Late Mrs. Osborn, Inventor of the Shirt Waist.

Josefa Osborn is dead, and if the women of the nation-of the whole world, for the matter of that-only knew their unpayable indebtedness to her they would wear mourning bands on their arms for thirty days and geextra allowances from their husbands and fathers and brothers to raise a glorious monument over her bones. All the women's clubs, too, from Zanes-ville to Zanzibar would drape their halls and put suitable resolutions of their great loss on their minutes.

Mrs. Osborn invented the feminine shirt waist.

According to the consensus of feminine opinion, no single article of feminine wear and feminine decoration has ever equaled the shirt waist. It is at once the most comfortable, the most becoming and the most adaptable article in any lady's wardrobe. It is capable of being drawn out to any extent like an accordion. It is formal and it is informal and everything that lies between. It is suitable for anything from a seance with the cooking stove to a reception at the Gotrocks, with a footman at the front door. Its genesis was simple. Mrs. Os born saw her husband's soft shirts and envied them. From that, as one who has a surface knowledge of the sex will testify, it was but a step to annexation. Mrs. Osborn went to the man who supplied her husband and told him that she wished a half dozen shirts built on the regulation masculine working plans save slight divergencies here and there and with a decided curtailment in their length. He demurred. She insisted, and she won.

She wore them herself. She gave them to her patrons, for she was the most famous dressmaker in New York, and from them sprung the millions of shirt waists that have covered and made attractive the women of the world.

Mrs. Osborn was a wonderful woman in many ways. With no experience and only the necessity for action to inspire her, she left the ranks of New York's Four Hundred and with only $3,500 to start with built up a business that took an entire building, employed 350 persons and enabled her to leave an estate of fully half a million.

This was her material reward, but the shirt waist, to shift it from its proper place for a moment, was her crown of glory.

BABIES HATE LIGHT.

Even the Top of the Pink Little Head Is Sensitive to It.

One thing which we must learn to appreciate and respect in the baby is his attitude toward light. This is widely different from ours, writes Dr. Woods Hutchinson in the Housekeeper. Light is one of the most stimulating and attractive things in the world to us, and the brighter the better. But to a poor blinking tot of a baby it is as dazzling and irritating as it is grateful to us. His chief objection to the new world in which he finds himself, if he could put it in words, would be, "It's so beastly light." He is born a caveman in more senses than one. While the rooms which he occupies should get plenty of supshine, this should never be allowed to shine directly into his eyes or full upon his face. He has neither pigment in his tender skin nor hair on the top of his pink little head to protect him against the light rays. It is little short of cruelty to animals to lay an unfortunate baby on his back in a troughlike perambulator or baby buggy so deep and well padded that he cannot even squirm, to load him down with clothing and wraps or even actually strap him down so that he can lift neither hand nor foot and then to wheel him about for hours with his little face turned up to the full glare of the light and even the direct rays of the sun.

Here is where the foundation of many a case of headache, of irritable nerves, of fretfulness-with its accompanying indigestion and sleeplessness -is laid. Look at the faces of these poor little human cocoons and you will see three times out of five that while they are bravely trying to make the best of it and to accept it good humoredly their tiny countenances are wrinkled into one universal frown of perplexity and protest.

By all means get the baby into the open air day and night, but see to it that his eyes are protected from the direct glare either by hood or sunshade or by turning his back to it.

HOUSEWIFE SUGGESTIONS.

After washing lace curtains lay a blanket on the floor in some empty room, spread the curtains on the blanket, stretching them carefully, and they will keep their place without any fastening until dried.

Parsley that can be put into a pepper box and used to garnish certain dishes is prepared in this manner First carefully wash the parsley and dip into boiling water, which will make the leaves a brilliant green. Place the leaves on a plate and put into the oven to dry. When crisp break into small pleces and run through a coarse sieve. In a very small kitchen a hinged table is very important. Get a good sized square board or two boards clamped together and fasten with strong hinges near a window. It will be necessary to have a support fastened beneath. When not in use the board lies against the wall. It is handy when taking pies, cakes or bread from the oven and serves to hold dishes when the kitchen table is crowded with cooking utensils. Cover the board with an olicloth the color of the paint in the kitchen.

GRANGE TAKES A HAND

Exerts Its Influence To Secure Fair Play For the Local Option Bill.

SPEAKERCOX MAKES PROMISE

The local option movement among the grangers of the state as headed by Rev. J. W. Jonnston of New Milford secured a victory for local option at Harrisburg. Some weeks ago before the meeting of the legislature Mr. Johnston met with Senator Penrose and the Republican leaders and insisted on fair treatment for local option in committee and on the floor of the

This was granted and binding assurance at last given that the movement should at last have a square deal in the Pennsylvania legislature.

When it became evident that Mr. Cox was to be chosen speaker of the House, and inasmuch as the independent candidate Mr. McClain was not for local option, Mr. Johnston visited Mr. Cox and brought so much influence to bear upon him that he obtained his pledge also that the local option bill would not be killed in the committee but given a fair show on the floor. This was good politics on the part of Mr. Cox as it disarmed much of the opposition to him.

For the first time in Pennsylvania a local option bill is to have a fair show in the legislature. This arrangement hows the practical and skillful operations of Mr. Johnston and the power of the Grange in Pennsylvania.-Chairman State Grange Local Option Com-

State Preserves.

It is stated on pretty good authority that the Dodge-Phelps lands in Lawrence. Goshen and Girard townships purchased a couple of years ago by the Witmer & Steele Lumber Co, of Sunbury, twenty thousand acres, have been sold to the State and, will be added to the State Game Preserve. If such is the case about all the deer hunting land on the mountains this side of Deer creek is in the State's possession and the preserve will practically extend from Montgomery to Medix Run,-Du-Bois Express.

WHEN YOU WEEP.

The Way That Tears Act Upon the Human Organism.

Professor Waynbaum, M. D., of Paris publishes some queer facts regarding the nature and purpose of tears, coming to the conclusion that tears act upon the human organism "like chloroform, ether or alcohol."

"When a human being gives way to sorrow," says Dr. Waynbaum, "the blood pressure in the brain decreases The tear helps in this process, which benumbs the brain for the time being. causing passiveness of the soul almost approaching indifference.

"Tears are blood, changing color by their passage through the lachrymat glands. One can drown his sorrow in tears as one can benumb his senses by the use of alcohol or drugs. When a person cries the facial muscles contract and the appearance of the face changes, which action facilitates the white blood letting, driving the blood particles into the lachrymal gland, from which they issue in the shape of tears.

"Children whose nervous system is particularly tender derive great benefit from crying occasionally. The act of crying relieves their brains. The same may be said with respect to women.

The professor likewise explains why laughter sometimes produces tears, but the explanation is too technical for reproduction.

The Only Safe Way. "No, I can't stay any longer," he said, with determination.

"What difference does an hour or so make now?" asked a member of the party. "Your wife will be in bed and asleep, and if she wakes up she won't know what time it is." "Quite right, quite right," he re-turned. "I can fool my wife almost any time as long as I get home before breakfast. Why, I've gone home when the sun was up, kept the blinds shut, lit the gas and made her think that it was a little after 12. But, gentlemen, I can't fool the baby. I can make the room as dark as I please, but it won't make the baby sleep a minute later than usual, and when she wakes up hungry it comes pretty close to being morning, and my wife knows it. Gentlemen," he added as he bowed him-self out, "I make it a rule to get home before the baby wakes. It's the only safe way."

A Patron of Art.
"So you enjoy reading all the extravagant praise that is printed about that opera singer?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox. "It kind of helps me to feel that maybe those tickets were worth what I paid for 'em."—Washington Star.
