

HAD QUIT WORK
READY TO GIVE UP IN DESPAIR
Restored to Health By Vinol

"I was sick, run-down and finally had to give up work. After trying a number of remedies and several physicians, I was just about ready to give up in despair. I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and it has done more good for me than all other means combined. It has built me up and restored my strength until I now feel twenty years younger, and am able to attend to my work again as usual." Job Javona, 3036 Lind street, Wheeling, W. Va.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains tonic iron and all of the strengthening blood-making and body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil. Vinol is unexcelled as a strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness—and is the best known remedy for coughs, colds and bronchitis.

We return your money if Vinol fails to give satisfaction.

Opportunity.

It seems as if this world was especially devised to develop the spirit of sympathetic helpfulness. The powers of nature are held to orderly working in such a way that human life is benefited by their operation. Seasons come and go; seedtime and harvest make an orderly succession. Yet there is always the liability to accident. Danger is an element never long absent. Disease, want and distress come to the good as well as the vicious. No calculation can insure freedom from reverses and suffering. No one is removed from need of help and sympathy of his fellows. It is just such a world as is best suited to develop helpfulness in men, good fellowship and fraternity as well as mainly confidence, fortitude, generosity and love. If you fail to become truly manly and womanly, it is not because the opportunity has been lacking.

If life is spent in a mad scamper after things of no real value, or even after valuable things, we can grasp but superficially, it is as much wasted as if thought were dulled or opportunity neglected. The hungry mind should not injure itself by gorging what it cannot digest. Wisdom lies in clearly discriminating the things worth doing, the objects worth pursuing, from those which, though perhaps good for others, may not be good for us.—Storax and Signs.

COOKING A TURKEY.

Famous Chef Gives This Recipe For the National Bird.

When the turkey is cleaned ready for roasting it is trussed, after stuffing, and placed on its side on a rack in a dripping pan. The entire surface is rubbed with salt.

The breast, legs and wings are rubbed with one-third cupful of butter which has been creamed and mixed with one-quarter cup of flour.

The bottom of the pan is dredged also with flour, placed in a hot oven, and when the turkey begins to brown the heat is reduced and the bird is basted with the fat in the pan, and two cups of boiling water are added for a ten pound turkey, which is the average size.

The basting is continued every fifteen minutes until the turkey is cooked, which should be from two and a half to three hours.

For basting, one-half cupful of butter melted in one-half cupful of boiling water is used, and after this has been all used it is basted with the fat in the pan and turned frequently during cooking that it may brown evenly.

If the turkey is browning too fast it is covered with buttered paper to prevent burning. The string and skewers are removed before serving, and a garnish of parsley or celery tips is used.

To make the gravy the liquid in the pan in which the turkey has been roasted is poured off.

Six tablespoonfuls of fat are skimmed off from the liquid, returned to the pan and browned with six tablespoonfuls of flour.

Three cups of stock, in which giblets have been boiled, are poured on gradually; then, if preferred, the liquor left in the pan is used. This is cooked five minutes, seasoned with salt and pepper and strained.

For giblet sauce is added the heart, liver and gizzard finely chopped.

An old German custom in vogue with many families is to sprinkle caraway seeds in the dripping pan while the turkey is roasting.

This imparts a fine flavor to the fowl and gives it a distinction from the ordinary turkey. This is particularly well adapted for use with a cold storage turkey, which one occasionally has to buy in lieu of a fresh killed bird.

DOLLS AS ORNAMENTS.

These Playthings Are Placed In Life-like Attitudes.

Among the quaint gifts these days is a doll exquisitely dressed. This has come about through the new fashion for dolls used as fashion plates and made into the figures of charming little statuettes.

At one of the large shops in New York these little figures, unlike ordinary dolls, are dressed with as much care as a leader of society would be. The bodies are of gauze stuffed with some flexible material, and the faces are made of a composition, hand painted. The expression is charming and the face natural.

These dolls are put in all kinds of lifelike attitudes. One is crossing the street with a bulldog on the leash, another is sitting in a garden chair reading or sewing, and others are standing in graceful attitudes.

The Dresden ones are like Dresden statuettes. They are small and dressed in a wonderful array of old fashioned clothes. The best art of the first and second empires is called into play, and the materials are of the finest.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Soft, flabby skins that fall into folds and pucker need cold water to give them tone. Thick, oily skin, however, should be washed with hot water.

The application of lemon juice will sometimes cause warts to disappear. Touch them several times during the day with a camel's hair brush soaked in the juice.

A healthful and refreshing mouth wash is made by boiling cinnamon bark in water and mixing it with equal parts of the purest alcohol. This is good both for the gums and teeth and makes the breath more fragrant.

When a foreign substance gets into the eye do not irritate it by trying to force it out. Keep the eye closed for a few moments, or until the object is removed by the tears which will flow. If, however, it is impossible to remove the substance yourself have some one who will perform the operation carefully remove it for you.

Rest is not merely doing nothing with the hands and keeping the feet still. Almost the greater part of it is in relaxing the nerves and mind. When one can do this good looks and life will be prolonged, and the temper will be vastly improved, for nervous exhaustion is the cause of many a quick word better left unspoken. When trying to rest it should be remembered that no restricting garments can be worn. If necessary the time for "rest" had better be shortened, while the tight clothing is removed and put on again, for thus more benefit will be gained.

Armadillo Fern Baskets.

What appears to be new in the line of flower baskets is the armadillo shell sold by florists. The armadillo's hard shell cover when polished makes a very fine fern basket. The tail of the animal is run over to the long snout and fixed in it, so that it makes a handle.

Filled with ferns, these baskets now appear in the windows of many florists. Furthermore they have given a considerable fillip to the study of natural history as far as finding out what armadillos are, especially among the small children who see them displayed.

A Wedding Decoration.

Whether it was a mistake or a joke or simply an example of bad taste is a question that is still puzzling most of the passengers. But no matter about that, it certainly was a droll masterpiece. Full four feet it stood from the ground, in the form of a cross. Roses white and roses red composed the body of the cross, and dainty white blossoms and green leaves formed the trimmings. In the center the word "Peace" was spelled out in rosebuds.

Everybody in the car admired the offering, and when the boy set it down on the floor all leaned forward to examine it more closely. At length one old gentleman stood up and readjusted his glasses in order to get a better look at it.

"That is a mighty pretty post, you've got there," he said. "Who, may I ask, is dead?"

"Nobody 't I know of," he said. "This ain't for a funeral; it's for a wedding."

The old gentleman sat down heavily.

"Good Lord!" he said. "What idiot ever ordered 'Peace' inscribed on a wedding decoration?"

The rest of the passengers smiled, and many of them, being married, wondered as well, but nobody ventured an explanation.—New York Times.

Death and Snuff.

A certain Margaret Wilson of Westminster, who was an inveterate snuff taker, enjoined that a quantity of Scotch snuff should be placed in her coffin. She also ordered that the arrangements connected with her funeral should be as follows: "Six men to be my bearers who are known to be the greatest snuff takers in the parish of St. James, Westminster. Instead of mourning, each to wear a small colored beaver hat, which I desire may be bought for the purpose and given to them. Six maidens of my old acquaintance to bear my pall, each to carry a box filled with the best Scotch snuff, to take for their refreshment as they go along." Snuff was also to be thrown on the threshold of deceased's dwelling before the cortege passed out, snuff was to be strewn on the ground at every twenty paces in advance of the coffin, and the officiating clergyman's fee was to be proportionate to the quantity of snuff he consumed during the ceremony.—London Globe.

What the Peruvians Believed.

A unique idea of the future state was that of the ancient Peruvians. As the disembodied soul winged its way to eternity it encountered two rocks, upon one of which it must needs rest. The choice was determined by the morality of the life in the flesh. If it rested upon the left hand rock it was instantly translated to "Po," or oblivion, a state analogous to the Nirvana of the orient. If through early misdeeds, however, the unhappy spirit was guided to the right hand rock it entered into a purgatorial hell where fiends grated away the flesh from all the bones in succession, after which the skeleton was re clothed and sent back to earth for another try. There was no haste about this grating process. It took something over 10,000 years.

Australia's First Theater.

The first recorded production of a play in Australia took place in June of the year 1780. It was called "The Recruiting Officer." The proceeds of the first play night (some £20) went to the family of a man who had been drowned. In January, 1796, a rough and ready playhouse was opened, and the public had to pay a shilling a head for admission. The payments were made in kind, wheat, flour or rum taking the place of the usual currency.—London Standard.

Disappearing Home Life.

The flat dweller ought not to keep a dog, prefers not to keep a cat, cannot have a garden, has no chance of keeping house, has no possible place for memories and, most emphatic of all, has no use or accommodation for babies. Although it may be possible to make homes without kittens or babies or flowers or memories or cupboards, the spirit of home is hard to woo and win without any of them.—Fortnightly Review.

FLOWERS OF SPEECH.

An Englishman's Address at a Ladies' Seminary in Siam.

The influential Englishman in Siam flattered himself that he had a very decent knowledge of the language and was ready to do great things. He had already ordered coffee from his hotel waiter with success and asked the boy to bring up his boots.

Now, influential Englishmen in Siam are not as common as cockroaches, and that afternoon the distinguished visitor was requested by a friend to deliver an address on "England" at the only ladies' seminary in the country. Confidently he accepted.

He began famously. Every one applauded and smiled. But gradually as he proceeded he noticed consternation overspreading the countenances of his listeners.

"What's the trouble?" he whispered in English anxiously to his friend on the platform.

"Trouble!" exclaimed the friend hotly. "Why, the trouble is what you are saying."

"But," protested the speaker, "I am saying, 'I am delighted to see so many young ladies rising to intellectual heights, with fine brains and large appreciation!'"

"Oh, no, you're not," corrected the friend. "You're saying, 'I am pleased to see so many small honesses growing large and fat, with big noses and huge feet!'"—London Tit-Bits.

THE WRONG NOTE.

Mozart's Outbreak at an Opera Performance at Marseilles.

Mozart, being once on a visit at Marseilles, went incognito to hear the performance of his "Villanella Rapita." He had reason to be tolerably well satisfied till in the midst of the principal aria the orchestra, through some error in the copying of the score, sounded a D natural where the composer had written D sharp. This substitution did not injure the harmony, but gave a commonplace character to the phrase and obscured the sentiment of the composer.

Mozart no sooner heard it than he started up vehemently and from the middle of the pit cried out in a voice of thunder, "Will you play D sharp, you wretches?"

The sensation produced in the theater may be imagined. The actors were astounded, the lady who was singing stopped short, the orchestra followed her example, and the audience, with loud exclamations, demanded the expulsion of the offender. He was accordingly seized and required to name himself. He did so, and at the name of Mozart the clamor subsided and was succeeded by shouts of applause from all sides.

It was insisted that the opera should be recommenced. Mozart was installed in the orchestra and directed the whole performance. This time the D sharp was played in its proper place, and the musicians themselves were surprised at the superior effect produced. After the opera Mozart was conducted in triumph to his hotel.

The Thirteen Chicks.

How difficult it is to pick out truth or fiction from apparently straightforward recitals of the actions of animals is well shown in a communication sent to one of our foreign exchanges by a man who lays claim to long experience in breeding game birds. He stated in his pleasantness that only two of his pheasant hens had hatched out seventeen of the eighteen eggs placed under each one in the nests. "It is a curious fact," he continues, "that both hatched off on the same day, and each hen immediately killed thirteen out of her seventeen live chicks by pecking their brains and laid them in a row in front of her, each exactly in the same way. I shall be glad to know whether such a singular case has ever been noted before."

So shall I; but, at any rate, in this case at least, thirteen was an unlucky number for both the chicks and their owners.—Forest and Stream.

The Pittsburg Christian Advocate, the official organ of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Pittsburg, East Ohio, Erie and West Virginia Conferences, is the cheapest and one of the best church papers published. Other church papers run in price from $2.00 to $4.00, but the Pittsburg Christian Advocate is only $1.00 per year. Every Methodist family should be a subscriber. The reading matter in the Advocate for one year, not counting thousands of items of local and general news, if thrown into book form, would make 24 volumes of 300 pages each, 300 words to the page.
