A Change for the Better.

The life-long domicile of an old lady was situated several feet south of the dividing line of Virginia and North Carolina, and when that section of the country was re-surveyed it was discovered that the line ran a few feet south of the property in question. They broke the news to the old lady that from then on she was to be a resident of Virginia. "That's good," she exclaimed. "I've always heard that North Carolina was an unhealthy state to live in."—Success Magazine.

Knocked Out by Dead Man.

While Don McVean, of the undertaking firm of Gillen & McVean of Youngstown, Ohio, was embalming the body of a muscular iron worker, he met with the biggest surprise of his life. In turning the body the muscles of the right arm relaxed and the fist caught McVean square on the jaw, knocking him down and out for a few seconds. He was found by some of the employes on the floor. He did not finish the job.

GARDEN, FARM and CROPS

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE UP-TO-DATE AGRICULTURIST

Palatable Foods.

To have palatable and wholesome vegetables during the winter months, proper care and attention are just as essential in harvesting and storing as in cultivation. Roots and vegetables, as they are often thrown in a heap promiscuously about the cellar, soon lose their freshness and flavor. Most house cellars are too warm for the proper preservation of vegetables, and it is therefore advisable to store only a limited quantity for immediate use in the house, while the main stock should be kept in a cool barn cellar or outdoor pit.—Farmer's Home Journal.

Coat of Calves.

The rough coat of calves and colts their first winter is always due to troubles of digestion, from changing suddenly from succulent to dry feed. But a part is due to drinking too little water, because water in winter is always cold. If water, for young animals, was warmed to a temperature near that of animal heat they would drink more freely, and their food would digest, instead of remaining in the stomach breeding disease. Do away with constipation in young stock and most of the difficulty in keeping them thrifty will be overcome.—Epitomist.

Home-Made Land Roller.

Get four old mowing machine rollers and two mowing machine axles. Have the blacksmith weld them, which will make the axle for the roller. It is seven and one-half feet long. For the slats take oak scantling 2 1/4 x 4 1/4, cut in lengths of 3 feet, 4 inches. The slats are fitted around the wheels and fastened with wagon tires at the end of each roll instead of bolts. The frame is made of scantling three-quarter inch, mortised together and fastened with bolts; and you have a roller at a small cost equal to any you can buy for three times the money. It is easy running, and with care will last a lifetime.—Charles A. Unoselle, in the Epitomist.

Good for the Goats.

For about five years flocks of goats have been doing a good work on foul underbrush farms in Dearborn county this state. When they clear up a farm in one place they are transferred to another in the neighborhood. It only takes a few months, or a year at most, to clear up one of these farms, and then a neighbor takes the flock to clear up his farm. Dr. Tilley of Harrison township that county has now bought a flock of 40 goats to do the work on his farm, and expects to have it cleaned up in a year at most, possibly sooner. Goats have long been noted for this work, and are said to be worth many farm hands, for they do it thoroughly, ready for the plow.—Indiana Farmer.

Value of Barnyard Manure.

Harry Snyder gives the following valuations of barnyard manure based on chemical analysis: If applied to a worn out soil at the rate of eight tons per acre, the increase in corn the first year will be twenty to twenty-five bushels per acre. This would be worth $7. The next year the land will produce six bushels more of wheat, worth $4.50. If seeded to clover it would yield at least a ton more of hay, worth $5. Following the clover with wheat again, a gain of eight bushels per acre, worth $6, will follow. Then will come twelve to fifteen bushels more of oats, worth $3. The increase in the five crops, due to the dressing of eight tons of farm manure and the production of clover, is alone worth $25, making the value of the manure $3 per ton distributed over five years.

Profit in Waste Places.

Many poor soils, now waste spots on the farm, would become profitable if planted with the right kind of forest trees, and cared for in the right way. Trees will often grow where grain and grass will not. Swamps, stony ridges, exhausted fields, and washed hillsides need not be abandoned. There is money in most of them if they are set to work producing woodlots and forests. But knowledge and judgment are necessary, and a bad guess may be costly.

Many trees do well in their soil—some-bearing trees in particular. The farmer is fortunate whose land has no poor spots. Few landowners are so well off. Fertile acres are usually fairly profitable, but the gravel bars, rocky knolls, marshy swales, and exhausted and eroded slopes are not. Scarcely one of them need remain unproductive. They will grow timber—pine, locust, poplar, osage orange, oak, chestnut, or some other kind. But the soil must be studied, and the species selected to suit. Failure might follow the planting of walnut on soil suited to white pine, or vice versa.

Studies of various regions and trees that suit them have been made by the Forest Service at Washington. Results and conclusions have been published, and may be had for the asking. The aim of these studies has been to point out how the farm's waste and neglected corners may be turned into woodlots where the farmer may grow his own posts, poles, fences and even sawlogs.—Indiana Farmer.

Time to Water Horses.

A horse should be watered before feeding, and never given a large quantity of water after a meal, for the simple reason that the water will wash the food out of the stomach before stomach digestion has taken place and the food will not be well prepared for absorption; and besides it is sometimes the cause of colic.

There is a popular idea that a warm horse should not be allowed to drink and, unlike a great many other popular ideas, there is little truth in it. If you water a warm horse in the ordinary way, letting him drink all that he will, you are likely to have a foundered horse on your hands. This is especially so if, at the time, the horse is fatigued. Nevertheless, it is always safe to allow him from six to ten swallows, no matter how warm he is. If this be given on going into the stable and he be allowed to stand and eat hay for an hour and is then offered water, he will not drink nearly so much as he would had none been given before.

The danger is not in the first swallow, as we often hear it asserted, but in the excessive quantities he will drink if not restrained. The most dangerous time to give a horse a full draft is when he has cooled down from fatiguing work and has partaken of a meal.

John Spian, the great trainer, writes: "As to water, I think that a horse should have all that he wants at all times. A man says: 'Why; will you give your horse water before a race?' Yes, before the race, and any other time that he wants to drink." When I say give your horse all the water he wants before the race, I do not mean that you shall tie him in a warm stall where he cannot get a drink for five or six hours on a hot day, and then take him to the pump and give him all he wants. What I mean is to give him water often and, in that way, he will take only a small quantity at a time."

After long, continuous exertion the system is greatly depleted of fluid. Nature calls for its replacement, and this is the cause of a thirst which is so intense that, if the animal is not restrained at this time, he may drink much more than he needs.

The general custom, almost universally followed, of giving the morning meal before water, is not very objectionable, either theoretically or practically. At this time there is no depletion of fluid, consequently the horse is not very thirsty and does not drink rapidly or excessively, and apparently very little evil results from this method. However, the writer much prefers that the horse should have an opportunity to drink before the morning meal.

Personally, I much prefer keeping horses, both summer and winter, in an open shed, with a large water tank in the yard, to tying them by the head in a barn. This brings us to the arrangement of farm buildings, which I hope to discuss in some subsequent paper.—F. W. Culver, M. D. C., in American Cultivator.

Farm Notes.

Wheat rust is limited to no section or grade of grain, but is encountered all the world over.

It is said that this year will be recorded as a banner year for dairying all over the United States.

Laws for the compulsory eradication of weeds are now in force in twenty-five states and territories.

If tools are given a coat of crude petroleum before being put away it will prevent the metal from rusting and preserve the wood.

It is estimated that in the United States this year 3,198,000 acres were planted in Irish potatoes, an increase over last year of 24 percent.

New York is the leading buckwheat-producing state, with Pennsylvania second, Michigan third, Maine fourth, and North Carolina fifth in the list.

The best way to ventilate the cellar is to have the windows and doors open at night instead of daytime. Of course, this can not be done in freezing weather, and at all times there should be heavy screens to keep out rats, dogs and cats.

It is said that the quail has been known to destroy sixty different kinds of weed seeds, and it is a fact that about 5 percent of his food is made up from seeds that are harmful to the farmer. He also annually destroys large numbers of injurious bugs.

Cowpea hay is very nutritious. It is nearly equal to wheat bran as part of a ration. It is satisfactory for work stock, and for beef or milk production, and it gives good results when fed to poultry. The grain is a rich feed, excellent for poultry, but little used for other feeding.

When necessary to draw a nail or screw that is hard to start, very often a sharp tap with a hammer will loosen it. Should this fail, put on kerosene oil and let it soak a while. It is a good plan to put a little linseed oil on screws and nails before using, for not only will they enter the wood with less force, but can be drawn more easily.

BABY'S SKIN ERUPTION CURED.

Was So Sore, Irritating and Painful That Little Sufferer Could Not Sleep—Scratched Constantly—Cuticura's Efficacy Proven.

"When about two and a half years old my daughter broke out on her hips and the upper parts of her legs with a very irritating and painful eruption. It began in October; the first I noticed was a little red surface and a constant desire on her part to scratch her limbs. She could not sleep and the eruptions got sore, and yellow water came out of them. I had two doctors treat her, but she grew worse under their treatment. Then I bought the Cuticura Remedies and only used them two weeks when she was entirely well. This was in February. She has never had another rough place on her skin, and she is now fourteen years old. Mrs. R. R. Whitaker, Winchester, Tenn., Sept. 22, 1908."

Ostrich Feather Auction.

The quantity of ostrich feathers offered at the recent auctions in London was extremely large, the weight being 105,000 pounds against 84,790 pounds in July and 102,850 pounds in August last year, says South Africa, a London publication. A leading firm reports that considering this was the largest quantity ever sold, the result must be regarded as satisfactory. There was a good attendance of buyers, but prices all around showed a decline, which was important in white boos, floss, and all inferior goods. The amount realized was about $1,100,000.

A Long Sentence.

The prize for the longest sentence ever written may fairly be awarded to the elder Dumas, who probably holds a further record for fertility of production. In the seventh of the twenty-nine volumes which compose the "Impressions de Voyage," there is a sentence describing Benvenuto Cellini, which fills three pages, or 108 lines, averaging 45 letters apiece. The sentence is broken by 68 commas and 60 semicolons; but as it contains 195 verbs and 122 proper names, the reader is somewhat bewildered before the end is reached.—London Chronicle.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A Crying Need.

What is really wanted at the present time is a standard of misconduct. We are constantly doing things in doubt, as if we hadn't a right to do them.

The confusion caused by people doing things which in their circumstances we had no right to expect is the principal cause of our troubles. It ought to be definitely settled, for example, that any millionaire who has, say, over a hundred millions, will thereafter lead an honest life. If he has only fifty millions his life should be semi-honest, and if he has only a paltry ten millions, then it ought to be conceded that he can loot a few railroads or so until he gets on his feet.

Up to say, ten thousand a year no man can afford to be dishonest. He ought to get up in the cars and give up his seat to women under 35 at least, and of course he will not take the chance of robbing any safe. From ten thousand up to one hundred thousand he can engage in little dishonest flyers by making one of a pool or putting through a land deal or so for variety.

When he gets fifty millions or more together, however, every man ought to ask himself plainly the question whether from now on he ought not to be a philanthropist. Doesn't he owe this to his fellow-man?—Life.

Cargo of Five Thousand Cats.

Japan, it seems, is infested with rats, and the reason is explained by a Paris contemporary, via, that the Japanese cats, which are not prolific, are pampered to an extraordinary degree. During the last few days, the chronicle proceeds, a ship has left one of the principal German ports with 5,000 cats on board. These on arrival are to be settled in the various maritime towns of the Mikado's dominions, and we further learn that the present consignment of cats is to be followed by four others, each of 5,000. The name of the principal German port is not given.—London Globe.

"Why do they have those glass cases with the ax, hammer, crow bar, etc., in on these cars," asked a traveler on the railroad going to New York.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MORRIS, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years this has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

Italians of the poorer class generally enjoy good health. This is partly attributed to the fact that the working classes of Italy eat less meat than those of other European nations.

Do not neglect constipation, for this condition poisons the blood and leads to chronic ill health. Garfield Tea, the mild herb laxative, corrects constipation, keeps the blood pure, and the health good.
