

PERUNA

For Catarrh of the Throat of Two Years' Standing.

"I was afflicted for two years with catarrh of the throat. At first it was very slight, but every cold I took made it worse.

"I followed your directions and in a very short time I began to improve. I took one bottle and am now taking my second. I can safely say that my throat and head are cleared from catarrh at the present time, but I still continue to take my usual dose for a spring tonic, and I find there is nothing better." Mrs. W. Pray, 280 Twelfth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

An Instantaneous Cure.

During the cattle plague of 1866 a farmer who had lost a number of his cows grew so depressed that he fully persuaded himself he had also contracted the disease. The medical man whom he consulted tried in vain to laugh him out of his fears, but subsequently, being fond of a joke, pretended to agree with the patient's views, and solemnly told him if he would attend to his instructions he would be cured. He then gave the farmer a prescription, which he directed should be taken to a neighboring druggist, but when the latter opened the envelope and read the contents he was as much startled as the farmer. For the prescription was as follows: "This man has the cattle plague. Take him into the back yard and shoot him, according to act of parliament." Needless to say, the cure was instantaneous.—Dundee Advertiser.

FOUND THE CAUSE.

After Six Years of Misery and Wrong Treatment.

John A. Enders, of Robertson Avenue, Pen Argyl, Pa., suffered for six years with stinging pain in the back, violent headaches and dizzy spells, and was assured by a specialist that his kidneys were all right, though the secretions showed a reddish, brick-dust sediment. Not satisfied, Mr. Enders started using Doan's Kidney Pills. "The kidneys began to act more regularly," he says, "and in a short time I passed a few gravel stones. I felt better right away, and since then have had no kidney trouble."

Right Thinking.

By Elbert Hubbard.

THERE is a nervous disease called paranoia. The belief that some one is trying to undo you is its first symptom. The holding of such a thought feeds the malady. We believe things first and look for a proof later, and when the idea is once fixed in a man's mind that some one is his enemy, reasons as light as air are to him; confirmation as strong as Holy Writ. The individual who thinks he is hated will be hated in exactly very shortly. Hate is catching. The person who thinks another hates him is, while in that mood, most unlovable. Love only responds to love.

Incipient paranoia manifests itself in suspicion, distrust and jealousy. Acute paranoia reveals itself in pronounced hallucinations and efforts in the line of revenge, even to the taking of lives of persons entirely disinterested. Every police captain is familiar with that phase of paranoia, where a man with staring eyes and cold sweat upon his forehead, rushes in and demands protection from supposed enemies that are upon his track. The psychologist can look down the paranoia's past and see the time when the disease was only the germ of a distrust or a glimmering suspicion. Goethe said: "I have in me the germ of every conceivable crime." And so are we all potential paranoids. To harbor the thought of wrong is to warm and vivify the germ.

In certain physical conditions we think less of people than in others. I know a man who hates everybody and everything until about 10 o'clock in the morning. By noon he is quite approachable and for an hour or so after dinner he is usually gentle and generous.

Does not the amount of wrong and injustice in the world vary with us all, according to the time of day and our physical condition? We do not fear anything but evil.

The fear of evil is largely, if not entirely, a morbid and therefore insane idea.

From these things I gather that each one is really the creator of the world in which he lives. And what is more, every man creates in his own image. Without an evil thought there never would have been any evil in the world. Banish evil thought and thought of evil, and there will not now be any evil in the world.

The thought of evil is born of fear. Paranoia as a disease is the direct result of fear—we fear some one is going to harm us, to take away our influence, power, money, love; and then we hate. Hate is a manifestation of fear, and therefore is a species of cowardice. Jealousy is a form of fear.

Fear affects the circulation, even at times to stopping instantly and forever the action of the heart. A faulty circulation affects every organ and, most of all, the organs of digestion. And impaired digestion at once affects the mind.

Impaired digestion means impaired thought. The treatment we receive at the hands of others is very largely the reflection of our own mental attitude toward them. Prefix a "d" to evil and you get the word Devil; take an "o" out of good and you get God.

As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. Think no evil.—From the New York American.

Convincing An Englishman.

By Lilian Bell.

LADY CONSTANCE LYTTON, sister of Lord Lytton and daughter of the former viceroy of India, has been arrested in London, together with a number of other titled suffragettes, for creating a disturbance in the streets while trying to reach Mr. Asquith with a petition concerning their cause.

At the same time, numbers of American suffragettes went in an orderly and dignified manner to Albany to try to secure legislation favoring the same cause.

In Albany nobody thought it necessary to create a riot or go to jail in order to get an idea through our American men's minds, so why, we ask, were Lady Lytton and her friends so radical? But stop a moment. Did any of you ever try to get an idea into an Englishman's head.

An Englishman's positive knowledge that he is sovereign of the universe, and that nobody else on earth, even his own wife and girl children, matter in the slightest degree can only be likened to that of another Englishman regarding himself.

An Englishman regards it as his inalienable right to be more right than any Irishman, Frenchman or German ever created, and especially does he cling to his superiority over females of all nations.

The thickness of epidermis and this lack of spontaneous comprehension which have made the English nation so justly famous are evidently known to the suffragettes, and these arrests seem to indicate that, knowing the futility of gentler methods, they have broken off diplomatic relations and are trying to take the fortress by assault.

An efficacious method which would be sure to reach home would be for all women without children to organize a strike and fail to perform all duties as housekeeper, chambermaid and cook until interdependence were conceded.

The man who from being pampered as only an Englishman demands to be pampered by his women suddenly found himself obliged to clean his own boots, cook his own breakfast and wash his own clothes would soon begin to sit up and take notice.

If you must argue with an Englishman, leave off petitions and use arguments he can understand, as those who know him do.

Therefore, when you read of arrests and jail sentences and suffragettes invading the House and chaining themselves to the gallery rails so that, in order to remove the offenders, the police had to take the rails with them, remember—

There's a reason!—New York American.

Reasonable Auto Speed Laws Needed

By Sidney S. Gorman.

AS the use of the motor-car became more general, the speed limits were gradually increased, and the recognition of motor-cars as long-distance vehicles has resulted in uniform speed limits applicable throughout the State, being fixed by statute in practically all of the States where automobiles are in general use. In Illinois and, indeed, in nearly all of the States, the driving of a motor vehicle at a rate of speed faster than the limits named in the statute is prohibited, without regard to the conditions existing at the time of the violation; and it is usually provided that nothing in the act contained shall be construed as authorizing the driving of the motor-car at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable, having regard to the traffic and the use of the highways, or so as to endanger the life or limb or injure the property of any person. It therefore follows, and properly so, that in these States a penalty may be imposed for driving a motor-car at a rate of ten miles per hour in a twenty-mile district if the conditions existing make the ten-mile rate unreasonably fast.

In Massachusetts, however, the statute provides that no person shall drive a motor vehicle at a rate of speed faster than is reasonable, having proper regard to traffic and the use of the way and safety of the public, and makes the driving of a motor-car in any highway outside the thickly settled or business portion of a city or village at a rate in excess of twenty miles per hour for a distance of one-quarter of a mile, prima-facie evidence that the person operating such motor-car is running it at a rate of speed greater than is reasonable, etc. Similar provisions are made with reference to the thickly settled or business portion of cities and villages, turning corners, etc., where running at a rate of speed in excess of a lesser number of miles per hour is made prima-facie evidence of a violation of the law. This prima-facie evidence may be overcome by proof that the accused was not, under the conditions of the highway then existing, guilty of driving his car at a rate of speed greater than was reasonable.

It must not be understood that under the provisions of the Massachusetts statute, in order to sustain a conviction, a person must be shown to have driven his car faster than twenty miles per hour in the district where driving at a rate in excess is made prima-facie evidence of a violation of the law, for the only test is that of reasonableness, and, as in Illinois, the proof need show only that the rate of speed, without regard to the number of miles per hour, was unreasonably fast.—Leslie's Weekly.

Almost Lost His Head.
During one of the banquets of the Church Congress in London, a certain bishop had as his left-hand companion a clergyman who was completely bald. During desert the bald-headed vicar dropped his napkin and stooped to pick it up. At this moment the bishop, who was talking to his right-hand neighbor, felt a slight touch on his left arm.

He turned, and beholding the vicar's pate on a level with his elbow, said: "No, thank you, no melon. I will take some pineapple!"—Success Magazine.

A Boston lawyer tells this story on another lawyer named Ames, who was retained as counsel for a man who stepped in a hole in the street and broke his leg. Suit was brought against the city in the sum of $1,000, and Ames won the case. The city appealed to the supreme court, but there also the verdict was in favor of Ames' client.

The Weight of Touch.
A wonderful instrument is that which has recently been invented for the purpose of measuring the sense of touch. The device consists of a series of little disks, suspended by fine, delicate threads from wooden handles, the last being stuck into holes around a block. The lightest disk is taken out and brought into contact with the skin of the subject, the latter having closed his eyes. If nothing is felt a heavier disk is employed, and so on until the pressure becomes noticeable. Through the medium of these disks it has been found that the sense of touch is acute on the forehead and temple. A touch of a disk weighing three one-hundredths of a grain was observable on the temple; one weighing five one-hundredths on the nose or chin, and one weighing nine one-hundredths on the inside of a finger.—Pathfinder.

TOTAL LOSS OF HAIR
Seemed Imminent—Scalp Was Very Scaly and Hair Came Out by Handfuls—Scalp Cleared and New Hair Grown by Cuticura.

"About two years ago I was troubled with my head being scaly. Shortly after that I had an attack of typhoid fever and I was out of the hospital possibly two months when I first noticed the loss of hair, my scalp being still scaly. I started to use dandruff cures to no effect whatever. I had actually lost hope of saving any hair at all. I could brush it off my coat by the handful. I was afraid to comb it. But after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and my hair thicker than ever, whereas I had my hair made up to be bald. W. F. Steese, 5812 Broad St., Pittsburg, Penna., May 7 and 21, '08." ### The Ingenuity of Inventors.

The ingenuity of inventors and manufacturers is ever at work in the endeavor to reduce the expense of production, and at the same time to improve the quality of articles having a large sale. This is not only beneficial to the purchasing public, but it inures to the benefit of the producer in increasing sales and preventing competition. This has been so in the case of farm machinery, clothing, shoes, bicycles, etc., and now it is apparent in the safety razor field. Thousands of this style of razor have been sold at from $1.50 to $5 each and given satisfaction. Recently manufacturers have applied more scientific principles and improved methods in their manufacture, and the result is seen in the "Shrp Shavr" razor, which is sent postpaid for twenty-five cents in stamps by the Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard street, New York. It is superior to any razor sold, being bought largely by those already owning the highest priced razors. Not every one knows that the best results are obtained by having two or three razors and alternating them in use. This practice of alternating possibly accounts for the very large sale of this low priced implement.

Couldn't Stand the Test.
"Porter." Thus the passenger for London hailed a railway servant at a small Scottish station.
"Yessir?" The man instinctively held out his hand.
"Do you think this parcel well enough tied to trust going in the van?"
"Well, I'll see," answered the porter, dropping the parcel with a bang. "She'll get that here, and she'll get that at the junction"—giving it another drop—"and she'll get THAT at Perth!"—banging it so lustily that all the contents scattered over the pavement. "Well, sir, if she be goin' father than Perth, she'll nae do what-ever!"—Illustrated Mail.

Many Marriages Declared Illegal.
London.—The country of Buckingham has been thrown into a fever at the discovery that all marriages celebrated at the parish church of St. James, Bradwell, during the last 50 years, are illegal. This church has been the scene of thousands of weddings of couples from all parts of the country. It now appears that the church never was licensed to celebrate marriages. Steps will be taken to legalize the ceremonies performed in this church.
