Boy Killed in Mines.

Thomas Lindsey, a trapper at the Florence mines, was instantly killed last Friday about 5 30 p. m., while riding a trip out of the mines. He was sitting on top of a loaded car and his head struck a beam, rendering the boy unconscious and he rolled off the car to the track and several cars passed over his body, mangling it horribly.

S J. Burgoon Appointed

Last week Judge John W. Reed appointed S. J. Burgoon as tax collector for Reynoldsville borough to fill the vacancy made by resignation of William Copping, who was elected to that office in February. Mr. Burgoon was the Democratic candidate for the office at the February election. He will, no doubt, make a good tax collector.

Improving Church.

D. R. Cochran, of Reynoldsville, the painter and paper banger, during the week frescoed the walls of the Methodist churce in very attractive colors and design and this improvement, in ditions. conjunction with the recently installed electric lights, makes it a very handsome church interior. It is also the intention to install a fine new pipe-tone organ in this church within the next few weeks. -- Sykesville Post-Dispatch.

Commmandery Officers

Thursday evening of last week the public installation of the officers of Bethany Commandery No. 83, Knights Templar, in DoBois, was held in the Avenue Theatre building, DuBois, Six Reynoldsville members of this Commandery, with their wives, attended the installation and banquet. AFTERNOON RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. King Given the "Glad Hand" By Over One Hundred People

The reception given from 3.00 to 5 00 last Friday afternoon at the home of Dr. J. C. King, on Main street, in bonor of his son, Charles L. King, and wife, of Mexico, was the finest social event that has taken place in Reynoldsville this season. About one hundred persons attended the reception. It was an occasion for the gentler sex to display their new toggery and millinery handiwork.

The decorations were palms and pink carnations. The dining room, where a light but dainty luncheon was served. was darkened with inside shutters and illuminated with pink candles and gas lights. Each guest was presented with a carnation before they left the dining

The invitations for this reception were issued by Dr. and Mrs. R. D. King and Miss Kathryn King.

Objects to Sweeping in Day Time.

The Punxsutawney News objects to weeping the streets of that town in the day time, and gives the following reason for objecting: "The use of the street sweeper during the busy hours of the day should be abolished. Clouds of dust arise and this dust is breathed by pedestrians, it gets in your houses, in the stores and is dangerous to health. The Board of Health should not permit street sweeping in the day time."

A WAR TIME LETTER.

Written in 1862 by a Soldier of the Union Army.

By request we publish the following letter from H P. Sprague to bis mother, written at Camp Coal Harbor, near Chicahomeny, May 28, 1862:

My Dear Mother:-I take a few moments le'sure to write a few lines to you. I have been quite sick for a week, but feel some better to-day, I hope you are enjoying good health. I wrote a letter to Hannah and did not intend writing any more, but I afterwards decided to write to you for fear you would think I had forgotten you in these times of trouble and tribulation, but, dear mother, never fear, I can never forget the one that has been so kind to me and watched over me from infancy up to manhood, and I know in these times, when war is agitating our beloved country and thousands have rushed to arms to defend her against our ruthless foe, and I am one among that number, and I know that a mother's prayers ascend to heaven daily for my protection, imploring God, in His mercy, to space my life to return safely home again, ungrateful, indeed, would I be did I forget my mother.

But I must now write something about the news of the day. This morning we heard that Banks had been defeated in the Shenandoah Valley and that rich and fertile country had fallen into the hands of the enemy, but we think, perhaps, it is one of General McClellan's stratagems to draw the rebel force or part of it, into a trap so as to eatch them. When I wrote to Hannah I felt rather bad about it. but since I wrote her letter the news has come that McDowell has given them a thrashing. If this is true they have given them a terrible check, for this is the force the enemy had sent out to destroy McDowell's army, march on to Washington and take the Capitol and from there to Philadelphia, then to New York and then to declare peace on their own terms, but I think now their high anticipations are gone, and they will never see these places only as prisoners of war.

I don't know how soon we will get into a fight. I expect it will come before long for we are close upon them. I hope when it comes our turn that we will be able to give them a good sound thrashing. I cannot tell how soon we will move from this camp. There has been cannonading to-day and when we hear the booming of cannon we generally take it for an omen that we will soon march, and, perhaps before this reaches you I may be in Richmond, or retreating before the enemy, or lying on the field of battle wounded. or a mangled corpse, but whatever my fate I hope I shall be enabled to do my duty to my God and my country.

I suppose you would like to know whether I have seen any actual warfare. I have been where I had to dodge the bombshells and cannon balls, and have seen the dead and wounded on the field of battle, yet I have never been, as I consider, in any great danger. I must now close, so good bye, dear mother.
