

Kidney Ailment

I want every person who suffers with any form of kidney ailment, no matter how many remedies they have tried, no matter how many doctors they have consulted, no matter how serious the case, to give Munyon's Kidney Remedy a trial. You will be astonished to see how quickly it relieves all pains in the back, loins and groins caused by the kidneys. You will be surprised to see how quickly it reduces the swelling in the feet and legs, also puffiness under the eyes, after taking a few doses of this remedy. You will be delighted to see the color returning to your cheeks and feel the thrill of vigor and good cheer. If your urine is thick or milky, if it is pale and foamy, if it contains sediments or blood, if it is highly colored or has an offensive smell, if you urinate frequently, you should persist in taking this remedy until all symptoms disappear. We believe this remedy has cured more serious kidney ailments than all the kidney medicines that have been compounded. Professor Munyon believes that the terrible death rate from Bright's Disease and Diabetes is unnecessary and will be greatly reduced by this remedy.

Get at once to your drugist and purchase a bottle of Munyon's Kidney Remedy. If it fails to give satisfaction I will refund your money.—Munyon.

Guarantee of Deposits.

Whatever differences of opinion may exist concerning the propriety or expediency of government guarantee of bank deposits, it cannot be denied that the experiment is proving very popular in the States which have adopted guarantee laws. An official statement issued last week, covering twelve months of the operation of such a law in Oklahoma, shows conclusively that the national banks, which are not embraced in the operation of the law, are suffering an alarming loss of patronage, their deposits showing a big decrease, while there has been a corresponding increase in the business of the State banks.—Wheeling Register.

TORE HIS SKIN OFF IN SHREDS

Itching Was Intense—Sleep Was Often Impossible—Cured by Cuticura in Three Weeks.

"At first an eruption of small pustules commenced on my hands. These spread later to other parts of my body, and the itching at times was intense, so much so that I literally tore the skin off in shreds in seeking relief. The awful itching interfered with my work considerably, and also kept me awake nights. I tried several doctors and also used a number of different ointments and lotions but received practically no benefit. Finally I settled down to the use of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, with the result that in a few days all itching had ceased and in about three weeks' time all traces of my eruption had disappeared. I have had no trouble of this kind since. H. A. Krutakoff, 5714 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., November 15 and 25, 1907."

Few Americans in Cuba.

A good deal has been said about the American invasion of Cuba since Spanish rule was overthrown, but the census figures show the presence of only 6,713 people who are natives of this country. Americans compose only about 2.9 per cent of the foreign population, and they number about one in 300 of the entire population.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Knocked Her Own Cooking.

A few evenings ago a party of ladies were discussing the virtues of their husbands. "Mr. Singleton," said one of them, alluding to her spouse, "never drinks and never uses violent language—indeed, he has no bad habits." "Doesn't he smoke?" a woman asked. "Yes; he likes a cigar just after he has eaten a good meal. But really, on an average, he doesn't smoke more than once a month!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WONDERFUL RESULT.

Gravel and Kidney Trouble of Years' Standing Cured.

Theodore Ott, R. F. D., No. 2, Elkton, Md., a large property owner, says: "Six years ago a pain in the back almost toppled me over. My back got weak and ached most of the time. Sediment in the urine changed to small grains and then gravel began to cause terrible painful attacks. I lost 25 pounds, and as specialists did not help me I grew despondent. I thought I would try Doan's Kidney Pills, and can't express my delight at finding they helped me. I kept on until the trouble was gone, and though 79 years old I feel strong."

Undesirable Emigrants

An Additional Means Suggested for Their Exclusion

By H. M. Gescheldt

UCH has been said and written about the Black Hand and other undesirable emigrants, but no remedy has been suggested whereby this class of undesirable persons can be prevented from entering our country. I think I can suggest a remedy.

Congress should enact a law making it compulsory for a person emigrating from a foreign country to this country to produce a certificate from the place whence he comes, duly attested by one of the highest officials of said place, where he has either resided or been domiciled, that he is a person of good character and has been self-supporting and never been convicted of a crime; and after such certificate has been given to the emigrant and presented here to the immigration commissioners or officials of the United States where he intends to or does land, the same shall be duly reaffirmed by the oath and signature of such person that the facts contained in the certificate are true, then and then only shall he or she be permitted to land.

If it is otherwise discovered or ascertained that such declaration is false, then such oath so taken by said person shall be deemed perjury under the laws of the district in which the emigrant lands or makes his residence or domicile, and he shall be prosecuted by the criminal branch of the United States District Court in the district in which he lands or makes his residence or domicile, and he shall be punished in accordance with the laws in such case made and provided.

The mere deportation of an undesirable emigrant is insufficient to check the evil results that follow by emigrants that are undesirable being permitted to land. The laws on deportation can still exist and will not be affected by the law as above suggested or a similar law that might be enacted by Congress.

Any person, whether a born or naturalized citizen or an alien, cannot find fault with a law of this character, because such a law will elevate the country from which the emigrant comes as well as elevate the emigrant himself in the community where he intends to make his residence or domicile.

This letter is not written with the aim to any particular country, because there are good and bad from every country.

Why the Kettle Drum Is Difficult to Play

By Jessie Katherine MacDonald

HE kettle drum has been so far improved that it has a pitch; in fact, it contains the large range of four notes. It is, as its name shows, a copper kettle, or basin, covered over with skin, which can be tightened or loosened by screws placed around the edge. Drums of this shape were used by the Roman, and even earlier by the Greeks and Etruscans. But they were not known in Western Europe before the Crusades.

Although it may appear so, the kettle drum is not at all an easy instrument to manage. For, in order to get each of the four notes the player has to turn all the screws, and adjust the parchment anew. For this reason kettle drums are often used in pairs, one tuned to the key note, the other to the fourth below. In this way the drummer has always the two chief notes in the scale to work upon, and, if the composer has not exacted much from him, he will have quite an easy time. But when a change of key is approaching, it is quite exciting to watch the drummer screwing and unscrewing the drum and lightly tapping to hear if the pitch is true. And if he recollect that he often has to tune his drum while the whole orchestra is lifting up its voice, we realize that he must be no mean musician; that he must possess an exquisitely sensitive and well-trained ear, and a steady hand and nerve as well.—From St. Nicholas.

The Element of Interest

By Waldo P. Warren

IT has been said that there is only one interesting thing in the world, and that is life; and that all other things are interesting only as they bear relation to life.

This undoubtedly explains why certain advertisers make frequent use of pictures which, in addition to the advertised article, contain some suggestion of human life. It is the radiator and the child, the soap and the child, the flour and the woman, the phonograph and the family. Even a human hand holding a tube of tooth-paste is considered more interesting than a facsimile of the package alone. An advertiser of men's clothing often introduces the picture of women, knowing that the thought of their presence instinctively raises the standards of dress. Some advertisers who wish to appeal strongly to women do not neglect any reasonable opportunity to introduce a picture of a baby, knowing that it will instinctively interest the average or normal woman, whether she is a mother or not. Whenever a picture includes men and women together—whether it advertises hunting outfits, bookcases, shaving soap, pianos, or automobiles—it is sure to have an added interest for most people because it contains the one interesting element of human life. It is the same element that gives vitality and interest to literature, sculpture, painting, and music—that which illuminates and in some way helps to interpret life.

It is the element that unifies all the arts and industries, and binds society together—making "of one blood all the nations of the earth."

It is the wise advertiser who works with the predominant tendency of human life, and cleverly associates his product with the one thing in which all people everywhere are already interested.—Collier's Weekly.

Sugar Satisfies the Inner Man

By Dr. Woods Hutchinson

IVE children plenty of pure sugar, taffy and butter-scotch, and they'll have little need of cod liver oil. In short, sugar is, after meat, bread and butter, easily our next most important and necessary food. You can put the matter to a test very easily. Just leave off the pie, pudding and other desserts at your lunch or midday dinner. You'll be astonished to find how quickly you'll feel "empty" again and how "unfinished" the meal will seem. You can't get any working man to accept a dinner pail without pie in it. And he's absolutely right. It is a significant fact that the free lunch counters run in connection with bars, furnish every imaginable thing except sweets. Even the restaurants and lunch grills attached to saloons or bars refuse to serve desserts of any sort. They know their business—the more sugar and sweets a man takes at a meal, the less alcohol he wants. Conversely, nearly every drinking man will tell you that he has lost his taste for sweets. The more candy a man consumes, the less alcohol.

The United States government buys pure candy by the ton and ships it to the Philippines to be sold at cost to the soldiers in the cantones. All men crave it in the tropics, and the more they get of it the less "vino" and whiskey they want.

In fine, the prejudice against sugar is born of Puritanism and stinginess, equal parts. Whatever children cry for must be bad for them, according to the pure doctrine of original sin; besides, it costs money.

Cured and Stayed Cured

By Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, the Great Kidney and Stomach Remedy.

In 1893 the Hon. Albert Merritt, a member of the New Jersey State Senate, Presidential Elector, and now Treasurer and General Manager of the Consolidated Bag Co., of 150 Nassau St., New York City, suffered severely from urinary and digestive trouble. He was advised to use Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and wrote: "Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is honestly entitled to the undivided credit of my cure. It went to the very root and source of my trouble." Recently, many years after, Mr. Merritt writes that his health still continues very good, and says: "I cannot say too much in praise of Favorite Remedy. It is certainly a wonderful medicine." His cure was a permanent one. There are thousands of others who have been cured by Favorite Remedy years ago, and they stay cured.

Gave Rome Ascendancy.

Scipio Africanus was one of the greatest soldiers, save Julius Caesar, in Roman history. He defeated Hannibal and his Carthaginians at Zama, a city of Carthage, on October 19, in the year 202 B. C., and gave to Rome the ascendancy over the then known world.

Full of Robbers.

Canton, China, at present is full of robbers. It is said that in some parts the people are really afraid to go to rest at night, inasmuch as it is certain that thieves will enter and rob the place. Accordingly some one sits up, while others sleep.

Over fifty years of public confidence and popularity. This is the record of Hamlin's Wizard Oil, the world's standard remedy for aches and pains. There's a reason and only one—merit.

Millions in Automobiles.

While the automobile is of older use abroad than here, statistics show that more money is invested in autos in the United States than in all of the rest of the world combined. In the first place, the country is the most resourceful and prosperous and the percentage of people able to indulge in such a costly luxury is much greater. Over and above this is the natural trait born of the everyday life of the American people. As its business life is strenuous, so is its recreation. Accompanying the American's active pursuit of money making is the willingness to spend it for what appeals to him, and the $125,000,000 required to pay for the year's output of automobiles will be forthcoming without a doubt.—Omaha Bee.

Chinese Scholar on Marriage.

Sir Robert Hart, speaking of marriage and death customs in the far east, tells a story of a great Chinese scholar and high official, who said that our foreign way of letting the young people fall in love and choose and the Chinese way of first marrying and then making acquaintance reminded him of two kettles of water; the first—the foreign—was taken at the boiling point from the fire by marriage and then grew cooler, whereas, the second—the Chinese—was a kettle of cold water put on the fire by wedlock and ever afterward grew warmer and warmer, "so that," said his friend, "after fifty or sixty years we were madly in love with each other."—From Tit-Bits.

Pigs Knew Him.

The sages of the general store were discussing the veracity of old St. Perkins when Uncle Bill Abbot ambled in. "What do you think about it, Uncle Bill?" they asked him. "Would you call St. Perkins a liar?" "Wall," answered Uncle Bill slowly, as he thoughtfully studied the ceiling, "I don't know as I'd go as far as to call him a liar exactly, but I do know this much: when feedin' time comes, in order to get any response from his hogs, he has to get somebody else to call 'em for him."—Everybody's Magazine.

"MEMOIRS OF DAN RICE," THE CLOWN OF OUR DADDIES.

At Last, There is on Sale a Book Brimful of American Humor.

Any bookseller will tell you that the constant quest of his customers is for "a book which will make me laugh." The bookman is compelled to reply that the race of American humorists has run out and comic literature is scarcer than funny plays. A wide sale is therefore predicted for the "Memoirs of Dan Rice," the Clown of Our Daddies, written by Maria Ward Brown, a book guaranteed to make you roar with laughter. The author presents to the public a volume of the great jester's most pungent jokes, comic barangues, caustic hits upon men and manners, lectures, anecdotes, sketches of adventure, original songs and poetical effusions; wise and witty, serious, satirical, and sentimental sayings of the sawdust arena of other days. These "Memoirs" also contain a series of adventures and incidents alternating from grave to gay; descriptive scenes and thrilling events; the record of half a century of a remarkable life, in the course of which the subject was brought into contact with most of the national celebrities of the day. The book abounds in anecdotes, humorous and otherwise; and it affords a clearer view of the inside mysteries of show life than any account heretofore published. Old Dan Rice, as the proprietor of the famous "One Horse Show," was more of a national character than Artemus Ward, and this volume contains the humor which made the nation laugh even while the great Civil War raged. This fascinating book of 500 pages, beautifully illustrated, will be sent postpaid to you for $1.50. Address Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard Street, New York City.

ORIGIN OF THE SPOON

Suggestion is That It Came Originally From the Shell.

The suggestion is offered by a correspondent that the domestic spoon probably owes its origin to the shell, says the Dundee Advertiser. Shells of the mussel, scallop and oyster, it is believed, were used in prehistoric times as spoons and ladles, the handle being formed of a piece of wood split at one end to hold the shell firmly. Some savage nations make similar spoons up to the present day, and the old Highland custom of offering whisky in a shell has been probably handed down from generation to generation for untold ages. Westman, in his "History of the Spoon," gives Roman specimens, which are very simple in design—something like silver caddy spoons—and are much shorter in the handle than those from Egypt. Those for common use were generally made of bronze, iron or brass. They clearly show how the shell-shape was retained and their marine origin is also preserved in the name for a spoon—cochlear—derived from cochlea, a shell or cockle. The Celtic spoon also closely resembled the shell in form, though made of bronze. The horns of various animals, such as the ox, bison and ram were often used as drinking cups, and as the material was found suitable, it was sometimes used with wood, ivory, metal, etc., for spoonmaking. Hence the ancient expression "to spoil a horn to make a spoon."

Village Ruled by Women.

In the village of Froissy, near Paris, nearly all the important posts are filled by women. Passengers alighting at the railway station are met by a woman, who is stationmaster, while her husband is only a guard.

A barber shop bears the notice that "Mlle. Jeanne" will "henceforth shave her customers only on Tuesdays and Fridays, as she has undertaken other work." At the postoffice the local telegraph messenger and postman, "Mme. Lesobre," is met. She walks on an average of 20 miles a day. The municipal drummer is a woman in her ninetieth year.—London Standard.

Measure of Celebrity.

An actress must be well known to have the papers print the fact that she is about to be married; she must be famous in order to have it stated that she is not going to get married.—New York Post.

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Adrian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from a female weakness and disease, and I could not stand more than a minute at a time. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. One day I was reading how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. Before I had taken one bottle I was better, and now I am completely cured."—LENA V. HENRY, Route No. 8, Adrian, Ga.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

IDAHO TO FEED ELK.

Effort to Prevent Winter Slaughter by Tusk Hunters.

An effort will be made by the State to prevent as far as possible a repetition of the wanton destruction of large numbers of elk which took place in Fremont county last winter. The animals have been driven by extreme hunger to approach the settlements, and weak from starvation and struggling in the unusually deep snow when they reached the lowlands, were killed and skinned. In many cases reduced to mere skeletons their meat could not be used. The idea of the game warden is to arrange if possible to have cheap hay shipped into the country where the elk abound and place it where the animals, when their natural food supply gives out, will be able to find food. Several of the ranchers in the elk country have put out hay for the animals for a number of years, and they have not been long in locating it when the snow gets deep in the hills. In this manner they are enabled to keep in good condition throughout the winter and when spring arrives return to their usual haunts. The eastern part of the State forms the principal range for these animals, which the authorities are endeavoring to protect from the pot hunters and specimens seeker. Stringent laws have been enacted, which if carried out will go a great way toward protecting the king of North American game animals.

The more applause and the less advice a man gives the more popular he becomes.
