

INVALID FOR YEARS

Made Well by Curing the Weakened Kidneys.

R. A. Davis, 700 Third Ave., Columbus, Ga., says: "A slight irregularity of the urine accompanied with pain in the back made me aware that I had kidney trouble. I neglected it, and finally got so bad I had to stop working. My back ached terribly. I could not rest well at night. I had rheumatic pain and lost all energy. The urine was in an awful condition. I ran down and down until I was an emaciated wreck and an invalid, in bed and out of bed, but in it most of the time. At the time I started with Doan's Kidney Pills I weighed only 125 lbs. As they helped me I kept on until well again and up to my old weight, 170 lbs. In five years I have had no return of kidney complaint."

MEREDITH INCINERATED

King May Secure Interment of Ashes in Westminster.

The body of George Meredith, the English novelist, who died May 13, was cremated at Dorking. There was no religious service. The ashes were deposited in a black metal urn and taken back to Mr. Meredith's house in Dorking.

No official explanation yet has been made for the refusal to permit the burial of Mr. Meredith's ashes in Westminster Abbey, but it is understood that the death of Westminster considers that the Victorian authors already are sufficiently represented there.

The Disappearing Horse.

We sometimes speak of the disappearing horse as if he were a white rhinoceros or a purple cow, or even a dodo—a memory of the Never-Never Land. "Nothing but motor cars now," you can hear the motor say. And yet it would puzzle a statistician to tell how many vehicles are horse-drawn and how many motor-propelled on the average public road.

A paper in the "Engineering News" gives the count.

Seven typical highways in Rhode Island are chosen. On all but two of the seven roads there is a large excess of motor vehicles over horse-drawn vehicles. Over the seven roads, in eight hours, 1,262 motor vehicles and 695 horse-drawn vehicles passed. The touring cars of four to seven seats each were 848 in number. "Nearly all the horse-drawn vehicles were of light weight, and most of them had rubber tires."

Onions and Longevity.

To the accredited list of aids to longevity an Ohio woman, recently deceased, has made an important contribution. This worthy person, who had reached the age of 115, as those who knew her are ready to assert, attributed her long life to the fact that she ate onions twice a day. She began this habit when a little girl and never suffered it to abate. Only a day or two before the last summons came she insisted upon being served with her favorite dish. It is interesting to note, also, that she ate her onions cooked and she ate them uncooked, which might go to show that it was the onion itself that worked the magic, and that trimmings and thermal changes were not essential to its life-prolonging virtues.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mother's Greatest Hope.

"William," she said, "means good. James means beloved. I wonder—" A flush mantled her cheek. "I wonder," she softly murmured, "what George means." "George means business, I hope," said mother, looking up from the Easter wedding announcements in the evening paper.—Catholic Times, London.

That Would Come Later.

Ted—Tom married a divorcee, you know. Do you think they are happy? Ned—So far. She hasn't yet told him she was a fool to divorce her first husband in order to marry him.—Brooklyn Life.

Feminine Artificialities

They End with the Shoe, But Begin with the Hat

By M. M. Ereslow

HE humanitarian spirit of the shoe manufacturers in marking the feminine shoe two or three sizes lower than it actually is may be apparent, but how about the other industries which help woman to be that which she is not? While her artificiality as to appearance ends with the shoe, it begins with the hat. Here is a condensed catalogue of twenty-three items—symbolic number—in which woman can deceive her looks:

- 1. Hair dyed.
2. Hair curled.
3. Hair rolled over a cushion of false hair known as the rat.
4. On top of which is worn a hat with the carcass of a bird or two.
5. Wrinkles of forehead concealed by cosmetics.
6. Eyebrows blacker than natural color.
7. Opening of the eyes lengthened by means of sulphide of antimony.
8. Eyelashes darkened.
9. Lips reddened.
10. Artificial teeth made of gold.
11. Cheeks more pink than is natural.
12. Other parts of the face more white than is natural.
13. Dimples artificially created by a dermatologist.
14. Neck elongated and propped up by a high collar with white tips of ears tinted.
15. Tips of ears tinted.
16. Finger nails more rose-colored than is natural.
17. Shoulders marbled with benzoin.
18. Bust fuller than is natural.
19. Waist more slender than is natural.
20. Abdomen reduced artificially.
21. Hips made broader or narrower than is natural, as fashion dictates.
22. Feet smaller than is natural.
23. The body scented.

This list can be increased ad infinitum by preachers, moralists, misogynists, and what not, when considering other factors of deception besides those of mere appearance. Here is the hint: The woman who falsifies her face is likely to falsify her smile.

Why There Are Few Happy Millionaires

By John Burroughs, the Naturalist

DO not believe in the doctrine attributed to John D. Rockefeller that if you want to make your wife happy all you have to do is to give her plenty of money. I do not believe that possession of money and happiness are synonymous. If Mr. Rockefeller has been quoted correctly, he is making a declaration that I believe American women and women all over the world will resent. They want love first of all, if they are provided with the right instincts.

I sat behind Jay Gould in school, and once he wrote a composition on a slate for me when I needed ideas. That day he needed 70 cents, and I gave the sum to him for two old school books. I saw him later in life when he was worth $70,000,000, but I do not think he was happy. That money fire was blazing in his eyes, and I am sure it reached his brain and consumed his life, sending him to an untimely grave.

The great problem of today is the making of money. It is unquestionably the occupation that engages the minds of the vast majority of people. But from what I have seen of life and those leading it, when one has obtained a competency money is superfluous, just like an excess of what is needed to round out the figure and give it a handsome appearance. Piling up wealth then becomes like piling on flesh, and greatly hinders the enjoyment of the best things of this life.

I know millionaires, and know very few happy ones. True, Mr. Carnegie seems to be an exception because he is different from many other rich men. He is trying to get rid of his money, and he takes a keen delight in doing good with it.

But even when one disposes of wealth, if there is the consciousness that in acquiring it the weaker creatures have been overcome and saddened, I think there must be a tinge of regret in helping others with this very fruit that has been obtained at such cost.

Money, of course, is necessary to provide the comforts of existence, but cultured people—I say cultured people, mind you—can doubtless be contented with books when they cannot buy automobiles.

Revolution in New York's Growth Within Ten Years

By William G. McAdoo, President of the Hudson River Tunnel Company

THE growth of New York is so extraordinary and the character of its development so remarkable that it is impossible to see accurately even two years into the future.

Without attempting to predict how great will be the change or how far-reaching its effect, I will say that within ten years the revolution in existing methods of transportation will be so great that it will be hard for people to realize that the present inadequate systems ever prevailed. Within five years I think it will be possible for one to travel to not only every section of New York city itself, but to go to New Jersey and the West and to Long Island without stepping foot on the surface of a single New York street.

Computing the time now lost each year by the people of New York in moving to and fro on each trip they make, whether it be in New York city or back and forth across one of the rivers, at five minutes, the saving under conditions as they are soon to be will be nine hundred and fifty-one years in each year, or nearly ten centuries.

Tunnel facilities will in time establish on the New Jersey side of the river a city the size of the present Greater New York. In fact, I firmly believe that the growth of the entire metropolitan district will, under the encouragement of the improved transit facilities, exceed the most extravagant prophecies.

Building on Sand

By Frank W. Skinner

IN New York nearly all the tall office buildings have their foundations on the quicksand, in it, or under it, and as a rule they are more difficult, dangerous and costly to build than anywhere else in the world. It is required to provide absolutely safe separate supports for from fifty to a hundred columns, fifteen or twenty feet apart, each carrying loads of from 100 to 3000 tons. Thirty feet below the surface the sand is found compressed to a hard, dense mass which, undisturbed, will carry safely a load of 6000 or 8000 pounds per square foot. When, therefore, the building is not too heavy, and there is an expectation of deeper foundations being built alongside, the new foundations are often laid on the surface of the sand, which has from one-half to the whole of its area covered with them.—The Century.

PERMANENTLY CURED

Of Kidney Disease by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Mr. O. M. Bartholomew, of Kalkaska, Mich., was a sufferer in 1886 with what all, including physicians, called Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Doctors said there was no help for him. As a last resort he used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. The symptoms disappeared and he was permanently cured by this great remedy. His case was a remarkable one and attracted great attention. Now, in 1906 (20 years after), Mr. Bartholomew writes that he confirms all that he said in favor of Favorite Remedy in 1886, and again indorses its use. Not a "patent" medicine. It removes uric acid from the system, the cause of most Kidney, Liver and Blood diseases. Successful for 35 years. Write Dr. David Kennedy's Sons, Rondout, N. Y., for free sample bottle.

Collects Elaborate Meals. "The day elevator boy in our apartment house," said the woman, "is the greatest and most diverse eater I have ever known. He never pays for his meals, either, except in flashes of smiling teeth. He stands in with all the servant girls in the house and directly after meals he picks up his tray and starts collecting along the route. "I have seen him some days with a tray loaded down so that he hardly could carry it, and I know, too, that he eats up every bit of it himself. My girl tells me so. It gives the girls a good line on what the various families are having in the food line. There's a lot of gossip over that, too, all coming from Joe's tray."—New York Sun.

When Financial Giants Die. As the Titans who build up the Standard Oil "trust" and made colossal fortunes for themselves pass off the stage of business activity we shall realize that a new industrial era has come upon us since their early days. What they have achieved cannot be obliterated, but their methods have come under such reprobation that they can never be repeated. The change that has taken place in the sentiment of the people in regard to business standards is in no small measure due to the example they have on a conspicuous scale of the evil results of unbridled self-seeking.—New York Journal of Commerce.

Doing the Part. "Why are all the women lavishing flowers, good victuals and mash notes on that wife beater? Do the women of this town admire a wife beater?" "Not especially," answered the Plunkville sheriff, "but when we get one in jail we ain't a-going to have him neglected. Plunkville wimmen have as much public spirit as those of other communities."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

AGONIZING ITCHING. Eczema For a Year—Got No Relief Even at Skin Hospital—In Despair Until Cuticura Cured Him. "I was troubled by a severe itching and dry, scurfy skin on my ankles, feet, arms and scalp. Scratching made it worse. Thousands of small red pimples formed and these caused intense itching. I was advised to go to the hospital for diseases of the skin. I did so, the chief surgeon saying: 'I never saw such a bad case of eczema.' But I got little or no relief. Then I tried many so-called remedies, but I became so bad that I almost gave up in despair. After suffering agonies for twelve months, I was relieved of the almost unbearable itching after two or three applications of Cuticura Ointment. I continued its use, combined with Cuticura Soap and Pills, and I was completely cured. Henry Besse, Crose St., Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 8 and 12, 1907." Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props. of Cuticura Remedies, Boston, Mass.

A Diagnosis. The Doctor—Young man, it will not do for you to stick in an office. You must get out doors—must have air. By the way, what is your occupation? Patient—I am an aeronaut.—Life.

"MEMOIRS OF DAN RICE," THE CLOWN OF OUR DADDIES.

At Last, There is on Sale a Book Brimful of American Humor.

Any bookseller will tell you that the constant quest of his customers is for "a book which will make me laugh." The bookman is compelled to reply that the race of American humorists has run out and comic literature is scarcer than funny plays. A wide sale is therefore predicted for the "Memoirs of Dan Rice," the Clown of Our Daddies, written by Maria Ward Brown, a book guaranteed to make you roar with laughter. The author presents to the public a volume of the great Jester's most pungent jokes, comic harangues, caustic hits upon men and manners, lectures, anecdotes, sketches of adventure, original songs and poetical effusions; wise and witty, serious, satirical, and sentimental sayings of the sawdust arena of other days. These "Memoirs" also contain a series of adventures and incidents alternating from grave to gay; descriptive scenes and thrilling events; the record of half a century of a remarkable life, in the course of which the subject was brought into contact with most of the national celebrities of the day. The book abounds in anecdotes, humorous and otherwise; and it affords a clearer view of the inside mysteries of show life than any account heretofore published. Old Dan Rice, as the proprietor of the famous "One Horse Show," was more of a national character than Artemus Ward, and this volume contains the humor which made the nation laugh even while the great Civil War raged. This fascinating book of 500 pages, beautifully illustrated, will be sent postpaid to you for $1.50. Address Book Publishing House, 134 Leonard street, New York City.

Cowboy Disappears. The passing of the cowboy, like that of the Indian, is a loss to the picturesque in the life of the west, but it means a gain to civilization. The Indian disappears in tradition more squalid than poetic; but the white cowboy, with the energy of his race, becomes himself a producer instead of a mere herder, of wealth. The change is a gain also to the consumer, for not only is the labor cost of the product lessened, but the living animal reaches the abattoir comparatively fresh from the grazing land, without the necessity of refattening at the end of a long, exhausting march.—Washington Herald.

Another Advance in Science. The had been pronounced man and wife. "One moment, please," said the stout man with whiskers at the left of the bride's father, as he barred the way; "those who desire to kiss the bride will have to submit to the sterilizing process. I am the duly authorized physician in charge. You are the next, sir. There! Two dollars, please. Thank you."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
