Interesting Letter from New Jersey

Swedesboro, N. J., June 18, 1909.
To the Reynoldsville STAR—
The writer was called to Swedesboro by the serious illness of a relative, and arrived here at 1:30 o'clock on the afternoon of June 12, having started from Reynoldsville at 6 o'clock the evening previous.

The writer was very much surprised to find that the farm products for which New Jersey is famous were so far advanced, whereas, in the neighborhood of Reynoldsville, potatoes and corn were just getting nicely started, tomato and cabbage plants were just being set out, and strawberries were just beginning to ripen.

New Jersey is a low, level land, sandy and pebbly, and ranges in altitude from several feet below to forty or fifty feet above sea level. This low, flat country is drained by many tide creeks, which have been deepened and widened to such an extent as to make them navigable by tugs, barges and small steamers. The soil and climate are admirably adapted to truck and fruit raising.

Swedesboro is the centre and shipping point of one of the very best of these truck raising districts, which has been shipping small produce, such as lettuce, asparagus, onions, radishes and strawberries, for a month or more.

Strawberries were exceedingly fine and large this season, although they did not hold out quite so long as usual, and the supply will be exhausted in a few days. The asparagus season will also close in a few days. The "round potato" season is "in" and tomatoes are beginning to ripen. "Round potatoes," which are a very large and fine crop, are being shipped now from Swedesboro, on the iron steamboat, "Pioneer," to Chester, Pa. The "Pioneer" made its initial trip yesterday, and will return to Swedesboro to-day. From the first until about the twentieth of July from ten to twelve carloads of tomatoes will be shipped from Swedesboro every day, and almost as many more will be shipped by boat. Potatoes will also be shipped on a large scale. Some sweet potatoes will be placed on the market in July, but the main crop will not come until the first of September. Citrons and cantaloupes will flood the market during the latter part of July and throughout August.

Directly across the street from where the writer is making his home while in Swedesboro, is the residence and farm of William Rode, one of the foremost truck raisers of this community. Mr. Rode was among the first to market radishes, onions, lettuce, asparagus, rhubarb, beets, spinach and strawberries. He has many fine fields of early sweet corn, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, cabbages, citrons, cantaloupes and melons.

Swedesboro is, besides being the center of a great truck-raising district, one of the prettiest towns to be found anywhere. There are no disfiguring shacks, no tumble-down cottages, no unsightly alleys, saloons or back yards. Every street has smooth even cement sidewalks and curbing on both sides, and the streets are macadamized. There are many fine shade trees, and everything is clean, neat and in apple order. There is a large and very beautiful lake above the town and above the lake is the largest and best kept cemetery within many miles. It is on the highest piece of land in the vicinity of Swedesboro—a circular, rounded knoll, and is laid out in the shape of a cart wheel, with a curved drive entirely around it, a drive around the center plot and drives for spokes.

Rabies is Prevalent.

A recent dispatch from Harrisburg says: "Not in years have there been so many cases of rabies as have been reported to the State Sanitary Board. Twenty-five boroughs and townships are under quarantine as a result of these reports. They are not in any particular quarter, but are in all sections of the state. In every instance of the rabies developing the board has ordered a quarantine of the community under which any dog running at large unmuzzled may be shot by anyone without redress to the owner."

Shot Large Hoot Owl.

H. Q. Shaffer, who resides between this place and Troutville, succeeded in bagging one of the largest hoot owls ever seen in this section early last Monday morning. He had heard it making a great noise in the woods near his house and after some difficulty got a good shot at it with a shotgun and brought it to the ground. It had robbed a robin's nest and was causing much alarm among the chickens when discovered. It measured 37 inches from tip to tip.—Sykesville Post-Dispatch.

THE TOWN THAT PUSH BUILT

III.—The Wide Awake Butcher

HERE is the butcher who, having cash, To the dry goods merchant's made a dash, For he saw an ad. of a special sale Of things that people order by mail, And he paid for all the things he bought With the selfsame money he had got From the grocer who had settlement made With the money the honest workman paid. P. S.—The local dealer who's up to snuff Will always advertise his stuff.

Large Crop of Strawberries.

Despite the heavy rains of the past two weeks, which have tended to reduce the strawberry crop, 16,676,406 quarts have been shipped up to June 19th, from the Delaware-Maryland Peninsula by the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad—a subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad. For the same period last year, when favorable weather prevailed, the shipments amounting to 13,094,689 quarts, thus showing an increase of 3,581,717 quarts for this year, even with a rainy season.

It was formerly the custom of farmers on the Peninsula to send their berries to only a few of the larger cities in the east, but since the Railroad Company, by acquainting the growers and shippers with buyers in different sections of the country, has created a wide demand for the produce and fruit grown on the Peninsula, cars are sent to all of the principal markets east of the Mississippi river. For instance, on one day of this season 124 cars, about four solid trainloads of strawberries were delivered to the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad for New England deliveries.

In addition the railroad has established a "Preference" freight service, the trains of which, running on fast schedules, put their berries at their destination in good condition. It is to meet the heavy demand that has been created that the farmers are increasing their yields.

Refrigerator cars are now supplied to the shippers free of charge, except for the icing in transit, and the farmers are taking advantage of this practice by shipping their berries to distant points where, as a rule, better prices prevail. So far this year 1,456 refrigerator cars loaded with strawberries have been shipped from the Peninsula.
