Ready To Build. At the 4th quarterly conference of the Brookville M. E. church Monday the work of the building committee for the proposed new church, in adopting a plan for the building, employing an architect, etc., was approved, and now the church is ready to go on and receive bids for the erection of the building. The detailed plans are now being made, and the building committee expects to be ready to advertise for proposals for erecting the building within two or three weeks.—Brookville Democrat.

Polypus Removed. Frank Sadler, a hardware merchant of Skyesville, has a fine three-year-old horse at Dr. Bethune's Veterinary Hospital as a patient of that institution. On Monday the horse underwent a very serious operation. A large polypus had grown in the left nostril, and it was so high up in the nasal chamber that an incision had to be made three inches or more above the end of the nostril. The operation was performed while the horse was under the influence of anæsthetics, and the polypus taken out, which had entirely closed that nostril, weighed between 14 and 16 ounces. The horse in good condition now.—Punxsutawney News.

Operation for Appendicitis. Miss Anna Fleming, who left here on the 27th of last month to teach in the Corvallis, Montana, schools, was taken suddenly ill the next morning after her arrival there. A doctor was called and pronounced her trouble appendicitis. She was hurried forty-five miles distant to a hospital at Missoula and operated on immediately. Thirty hours after the operation the operating physician wrote Mr. Robert Z. Parrish, of this place, brother-in-law of Miss Fleming, that her condition was fairly satisfactory, and it had not received a telegram from him to the contrary by the time he received his letter he could consider her practically out of danger. Not having received a telegram up to this time Miss Fleming's friends here are hopeful that her complete recovery is only a matter of time.
