PREPARATIONS BEING MADE TO BUILD ENON CUT-OFF

Will Place Reynoldsville On Another New York-Chicago Trunk Line.

IT WAS PLANNED LONG AGO

Final surveys for the Pennsylvania & Western railroad, a cut off from Enon, on the Fort Wayne system, to Red Bank, on the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley line of the Pennsylvania system, which has been planned with a view of keeping the through freight tonnage out of the Pittsburgh district, have been completed and it is expected that work will be started early next spring. It is known that this work is included in the 1910 improvement program, which is now being prepared, and it is generally believed that the executives will authorize its construction.

During the last few years the Pennsylvania has done some preliminary work on the proposed new line. Large fills have been made in the vicinity of New Castle, Pa., where it is proposed to build immense freight classification yards, connection being made at that point with the Erie & Pittsburgh division. The charter for this company was obtained a few years ago by the Pennsylvania and it was originally intended to begin actual construction sometime in 1907, but work was held up on account of the panic, which set in at that time.

During the boom years the railroads experienced great difficulty on account of congestions in this territory. It is impossible to build additional main line tracks through the city and the Pennsylvania solved the problem by keeping all through freight out of the city proper.

By using the proposed cut-off, through freight from the west would leave the Fort Wayne at Enon, go over the new line to the Allegheny river, where it would be turned over to the Buffalo and Allegheny Valley and the Philadelphia & Erie divisions. The estimated cost of the line is about $75,000 a mile.—Pittsburgh Post.

The building of the Enon cut-off will mean that the Low Grade division will become part of a great trunk line between Chicago and New York. Inside of two years the Jamestown, Franklin & Clearfield will build the connecting link from Brookville to Clearfield, through Reynoldsville, and then we will have two great trunk railroads running through our town.

Death of Samuel R. Kelley.

Samuel R. Kelley, ex-county auditor of Jefferson county, and a well known citizen of Brookville, died at his home on Butler street at 7.30 o'clock Monday morning of this week, his death being due to injuries received on August 4th while cutting limbs from the trees in the old graveyard. While engaged in this work Mr. Kelley was struck upon the head by a falling limb, and was thrown upon the axe with which he was working, cutting a severe gash in his head. The wound failed to respond to treatment, and although for a time it appeared that the injured man would recover, for several weeks past he had been gradually sinking and his death was not unexpected. Funeral services were held at the home Wednesday afternoon and interment was made in the Brookville cemetery. Mr. Kelley was aged about 61 years, and is survived by his wife. He was a quiet, unassuming citizen, who had a host of friends.—Brookville Republican.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Yungert, of West Reynoldsville, attended the funeral.

Advice to Hunters.

The hunting season is nearly here and we publish the following advice to hunters:

Do not break down fences, or do anything on another man's lands you would not want done if the farm belonged to you.

Remember every bit of damage you do reflects upon your brother hunters and will come up against you all next season.

Do not throw matches down among dry leaves. Be careful at all times about starting fires.

Never shoot towards a house or barn. If you see anyone shooting chickens or other barnyard fowls do not hesitate to tell who they are.

If you heed this advice and follow it you will find much of the antagonism against hunters on the part of land owners melting away.

This terrible calamity often happens because a careless boatman ignores the river's warnings—growing ripples and faster current. Nature's warnings are kind. WILD CAT REGIMENT SONG

Composed by Ebenezer Dailey and Set to Music by J. J. Smith.

1. Come, listen awhile, a good story I'll tell Of the Wild Cat Regiment—it is known very well. The Wild Cats, they say, are all willing to fight, And they are commanded by A. A. McKnight. Derry down, down, down, derry down.
2. One night as the Wild Cats all lay in their beds, The adjutant came to the Wild Cats and said—"Hurry up, my brave boys, I'd have you be quick, And put on your duds: we must go to Pohick." Derry down, down, down, derry down.
3. Then up jump the Wild Cats, each shouldered a gun, And away to Pohick, where they thought to have fun: But when they got there stacked their guns on the green, Not a sign of a rebel was there to be seen. Derry down, down, down, derry down.
4. He got out his glasses to see what he could see, He thought he saw rebels, a large company. He brought his artillery and gave them a shell: The cowardly rebels, they all run pell mell. Derry down, down, down, derry down.
5. It's next out on picket we had a hard tramp, To keep the cursed rebels from coming to camp: And when we got there built fires on the ground And when night came on we all sat around. Derry down, down, down, derry down.
6. The very next morning, three boys they went out, They thought to themselves they would have a small scout. They started for home and all three got lost, To Camp California they chanced for to roam. Derry down, down, down, derry down.
7. They kept them in camp until the next day; They sent for their officers to take them away: They brought them to camp as snug as a mouse— The colonel, he puts them into the guard house. Derry down, down, down, derry down.
8. It's now, my brave boys, I'd have you look out, And never get lost when you go on a scout; For if that you do, there is one sure thing, The colonel will make you walk the bull ring. Derry down, down, down, derry down.
9. My song, it is ended, and I am very glad, And I hope there are none of my messmates are mad. My song, it is ended, and I hope it will pass, But if you don't like it, you may all go to grass. Derry down, down, down, derry down.

Killed Big Wildcat Near Reynoldsville

R. E. Norris Shot the Tawny Hued Animal Tuesday Near His Home.

Tuesday morning of this week Robert E. Norris, who resides in the southwestern part of Winslow township, killed a large wildcat. The wildcat was first seen in one of the fields of the Norris farm walking leisurely towards some geese. The wildcat was brought to town in the forenoon by Robert E. Norris and his brother, A. M. Norris. It measured 38 inches and weighed 26 pounds.

Several town boys, who had been tramping through the woods in the neighborhood of the Norris farm Monday, reported Monday evening that they had had seen a big wildcat and intended going out yesterday to slay it.

Two years ago a large black bear was seen near the Norris farm, but bruin skipped before a gun could be secured to shoot him.

Railroad Trespassing And Its Dire Results

Statistics Show Fearful Mortality As a Result of the Practice.

Trespassing on railroad property, in violation of the law, has been responsible for the deaths of 47,416 people in the United States in the last ten years. In the same period more than 50,000 trespassers were injured. It is in view of these facts that many of the important railroads have determined to redouble their efforts to secure in this country that rigid enforcement of the law against trespassing, which, in England, has reduced the practice—and accidents to trespassers—to a minimum.

The number of people killed while trespassing on railroads has been increasing every year. In 1898, 4,063 trespassers lost their lives on American railroads; five years later the number was 5,000, and in 1907, the number killed was 5,612—more than 15 a day. These figures are taken from the annual reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Figures compiled by the Pennsylvania Railroad alone show that 465 trespassers lost their lives on that System's lines in 1899; 781 were killed in 1904; while in 1907 the number reached 915—an average of almost three for almost every business day in the year. In the ten years prior to January 1, 1909, exactly 7,240 people, who were on the Pennsylvania's right of way in willful violation of the law, and in spite of thousands of warning signs along the railroad, were killed. In addition, during the first six months of this year 285 trespassers were killed.

It is not only tramps who are killed and injured while trespassing—though thousands of them lose their lives in this way every year—but also men of the laboring class, factory workmen, their wives and children, who use railroad tracks as thoroughfares. This practice gives added significance to the figures from the Pennsylvania system, the tracks of which, lined with factories, run through the densest industrial sections; through territory which holds more than one-half of the population of the United States. These tracks and adjacent property over 11,000 trespassers were arrested in 1908.

MINUTES OF THE POMONA GRANGE

Met with the Warsaw Grange And Were Royally Entertained.

Jefferson County Pomona Grange No. 20, P. of H., was held in the Warsaw Grange hall at Hazen on Wednesday, October 6th. Meeting was called to order at 10.30 o'clock a. m. with Worthy Master J. H. Elder in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and approved. Address of welcome was delivered by N. P. Clark, of Warsaw Grange. Response by Will J. Moore, of Horntown Grange. Song by Grange. The program was then taken up and was very well taken care of.

On the first question, "The Best Methods of Improving Public Roads," members of Elder, Union, Warsaw, Dewey and Horntown Granges gave some very good suggestions that should be put in force by the supervisors and road masters. Meeting adjourned at noon.

When we came down to first floor of hall the tables groaned under the weight of good things that the sisters of Warsaw Grange had prepared to eat, which they know how to do, but when we left the tables we were all groaning.

At 1.30 the meeting was again called to order and the reports of subordinate Granges were given. All reported a gain in members, and interest in the meetings.

The question, "Best Methods of Handling and Marketing Fruit," was very interesting, and nearly every one had a different view of the work.

"Best Method of Feeding the Corn Crop?" It appears that the silo is the best way to handle corn for cattle. Recitation—Mary Kalcely, of Green Valley Grange.

"Will it be Wise to Consolidate the Schools of Our Townships?" was discussed by Prof. L. M. Jones and members from some of the Granges.

Song—Bullers sisters, two juvenile Grangers of Union.

Recitation—Sister Maise, of Warsaw. Address by Rev. Gettman, which was very interesting.

Address by Rev. Boner on the conditions of raising children in the country or in town, which was very interesting and practicable.

Hazen band was given a vote of thanks for music rendered during the day.

Vote of thanks was given the Warsaw Grange for their hospitality.

Next meeting of Pomona Grange will be held in Brookville in January, 1910. K. B. DEEMER, Sec. Reynoldsville, Pa., R. D. 1.
