Monday, November 29, 1909, aged 58 years. Mrs. Hawthorne and daughter, Miss Virginia Hawthorne, lived together and Sunday evening, after writing a letter to a sister in Rochester, N. Y., she retired. About 2.15 Miss Virginia was awakened by the heavy breathing of her mother, who occupied an adjoining room. She hastened to her bedside and spoke to her mother, who made no response. A doctor was called, but Mrs. Hawthorne soon expired. Mr. Hawthorne died about nine months ago and Mrs. Hawthorne had not been robust since his death. One son and three daughters, all residing in Brookville, survive Mrs. Hawthorne. They are: Claude K. Hawthorne, Mrs. Dr. J. K. Brown, Mrs. J. S. Canning and Miss Virginia Hawthorne. Funeral at 2.30 p. m. to-day, conducted by Rev. H. G. Hall. The Punxsutawney Spirit says of Mrs. Hawthorne:

"The deceased was an ideal wife, mother and neighbor, a devout Christian whose life was a true reflection of the virtues that men esteem as precious and theologians as divine. She was a living source of goodness, graciousness, gentleness, and holy inspiration, and all her words, deeds and thoughts, had their origin in a wellspring of purity. Home loving, devout, cheerful under all circumstances, Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne lived a truly model life that was molded by what was regarded by them as their Master's will. Sacred family ties such as they maintained left the one helpless without the other. They lived in the hope that they would be reunited after death—soon after."

BIG COAL DEAL IN INDIANA CO.

Practically Secured all the Coal Lands Between Ernest and Iselin.

With the purchase of the Marcus A. Saxman interests near Jacksonville, Attorneys B. M. Clarke, of Punxsutawney, and John A. Scott, of Indiana, on Thursday took the first steps toward securing practically all the coal lands in the Jacksonville - Parkwood - Shelocta field for the Adrian Iselin interests. The lands are purchased and operated by the Jefferson & Clearfield and other coal companies connected with the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway and the deal means small fortunes for many Indiana county land owners. The amount of land purchased by Mr. Saxman is about 4,100 acres and lies north of Jacksonville.

Messrs. Clark and Scott visited a number of farmers who have given their options to John W. Miller, of Indiana. These operations expired this week and were immediately transferred to the Iselin people. Mr. Miller, in partnership with R. W. Wehrle, controlled some 10,000 acres of coal lands in the Armstrong township region and all these will be transferred to the railway people, providing tests are satisfactory. Men operating with diamond drills are now located on the territory covered by the Miller leases and they expect to complete the tests within 30 days. The reports of these tests will govern the sales and it is believed that all will go through. The coal rights have been purchased from one man, W. T. Calhoun, and he received $40 an acre. Another man wanted to sell the surface rights as well and the deal was dropped. As Messrs. Clark and Scott are only buying coal rights. In every case $40 an acre is the optioned price.

The purchase of the Saxman and Miller lands give the B., R. & P. continuous coal field from their operations at Ernest to their mines at Iselin and Whiskey Run.—Indiana Gazette.
